SOVIET LEADER DEFIES STALIN; JOLTS SPY TRIAL

'Confession a Lie,' Krestinsky Cries.

MOSCOW, March 2.—(AP)—Twenty of twenty-one defendants in Russia's greatest treason trial today pleaded guilty to charges which included plotting to dismember the soviet union, overthrow Dictator Josef Stalin's régime, restore capitalism, and murder Russian leaders.

Prosecutor Vishinsky.

But the twenty-first, Nicholas N. Krestinsky, once soviet ambassador in Berlin, pleaded his innocence in a desperate repudiation of a confession of guilt in which he and his accusers among the co-defendants called each other "liar."

Krestinsky's unexpected action was the sensation of the day's hearing. He said he had testified falsely in the preliminary investigation because he was "convinced there was no use denying guilt except in open court."

Leon Trotzky, former bolshevist leader now living in exile in Mexico, was named as one of the inspirers of the anti-soviet plotting.

Ambassador Davies Present.

The trial, before the military collegium of the Supreme court in the small, elaborately decorated ballroom of the former Nobles' club, opened with the two hour reading of the indictment of the accused.

Retiring United States Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was among the members of the diplomatic corps who, with representatives of soviet public organizations and newspaper men, witnessed the proceedings.

The presiding judge was Vasily V. Ulrich, who presided over the treason trials of August, 1936, and January, 1937, and the prosecutor was Andrey J. Vishinsky, also a veteran of previous mass trials.

Those accused in the plotting, which the indictment traced back through twenty years, when Trotzky still was in power, included men once high in soviet affairs.

Rykov and Bukharin Accused.

Among them stood:

Alexis I. Rykov, who was premier of the soviet union for nearly ten years; Nikolai Bukharin, former government newspaper editor; Genrikh G. Yagoda, former chief of the GPU [secret police]; Krestinsky, former first assistant foreign commissar as well as former ambassador to Germany; Christian Rakovsky, former ambassador to France, and Faysulla Khodjaiev, former president of the Uzbek republic.

It was charged that upon instructions of the intelligence services of foreign states hostile to the U. S. S. R. the defendants organized a group of plotters under the name "Bloc of Rightists and Trotzkyites."

Promised Eastern Provinces.

The court announced a secret session would be held at an unnamed date presumably to hear testimony about the part of hostile foreign powers in the plotting.

Confessions were cited in which it was alleged there were plots in which:

Japan undertook to render armed assistance to overthrow the soviet power in return for which she was promised the soviet maritime provinces in the far east.

An "independent" White Russia was to be created under a Polish protectorate.

Ukraine was to be surrendered to Germany after defeat of soviet Russia in a war with Germany and Japan.

Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan were to be separated from the soviet union to become protectorates of Japan and Germany or Great Britain.

Georgia, Armenia, and Azerbaidjan were to have been cut off for the "foreign states."

Kirov's Death Recalled.

Accusations were also made that terrorist acts were carried out against Sergei Kirov, Stalin's friend, who was assassinated in 1934; Maxim Gorky, the writer; M. Menjinsky, one-time chief of the secret police, and Valerian V. Kuibishev, chief of the first five year plan.

Krestinsky, the only one of the accused who pleaded innocent, fought

Four Day Rainfall Topples Houses.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 2.—[Special.]—Twenty-six persons were reported dead tonight and 10,000 families were forced out of their homes as Southern California wallowed in one of the worst floods of recent years.

Ten of the dead were carried out into the Pacific ocean when a pedestrian bridge spanning the mouth of the Los Angeles river near Long Beach collapsed. The ten were sightseers standing at the rail watching the raging stream, swollen by four days of almost incessant rain.

Two women, four men, a small boy and three sailors from the United States fleet anchored in the harbor nearby were among the victims counted by a seaman from the U. S. S. California who told police he was standing at an approach to the bridge.

Navy Hunts for Victims.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander of the fleet, ordered navy shore boats to make a search of the harbor and a short time later one crew picked up Lloyd Folkstead, 26 years old, and William Mulholland, 48 years old, both of Long Beach. They were taken to a hospital to be treated for exposure.

"There was a youngster not more than 12 years old standing by me when the crash came," said Folkstead. "I saw him sink beneath the muddy water. I grabbed a log and was rushed to sea. I must have been carried more than a mile before I was picked up by a boat and brought ashore."

"We were pitched into the flood waters and I saw Chuck Young go under," Mulholland told police. "I think he must have drowned. I grabbed a plank and the water felt warm. When I hit the sea the water was cold. A plank struck me in the head and dazed me. A boat crew picked me up and landed me at the navy landing."

Fifty Towns Flooded.

Flood waters swirled through lowland areas of half a hundred communities from Ventura to San Juan Capistrano and from the Sierra Madre mountains to the sea.

Bridges were torn away, homes were demolished, automobiles were swept in raging torrents, railway lines were paralyzed, airports flooded, and thousands of homes inundated.

Streets in Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Compton, Glendale, downtown Los Angeles, and scores of other communities were converted into streams.

Tens of thousands of relief workers were sent into the field as the Los Angeles county major disaster emergency council perfected its first mobilization. The American Legion was mobilized to assist the Red Cross.

Rainfall 10.48 Inches.

The rain that spread death and destruction through southern California began falling Sunday and tonight, without sign of let up had reached a total of 10.48 inches in Los Angeles. The Los Angeles river, scene of the bridge accident, normally is a dry, rocky arroyo. Tonight the flow was 25,000 second feet.

Mrs. Rachel Whitman and her son, Donald, 2 years old, were killed when their Beverly Glen home was buried in a slide of mud and debris. Mrs. Joseph Randall and her son, Leonard,

SightMountain Clew to Plane Missing with 9

Fresno, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—Darkness and storm conditions tonight halted search for a missing airliner and its nine occupants shortly after the sighting of mystery lights and a white object near what appeared to be a newly cut scar in a mountainside. It was in the area where the plane was sighted last night.

The scar, estimated by searchers a mile and a half distant to be 200 feet long, apparently was gouged out of the mountainside which is 60 miles east of here in the high Sierra. Unexplained lights were in the vicinity of the mark and a white object, undistinguishable in the gathering gloom, lay at its bottom. It was hoped the lights might have been signals from the lost plane's crew and passengers.

Search Party Reports Clew.

Discovery of the possible clew was reported by a party of twenty that included newspapermen and two employés of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., operators of the missing plane.

Raging storm waters in the north fork of the San Joaquin river prevented the party crossing and approaching closer to the objects, but they planned to fight their way to the area at daybreak.

Search leaders here regarded the scar clew as important, pointing out it was in a direct line with the plane's flight as reported last night by Mrs. C. G. Landry, who said she saw the ship at 9:30 p. m.

Course Altered by Storm.

Mrs. Landry was the last person to report sighting the big twin motored craft, caught in a sudden storm and turning back from a flight to Los Angeles to seek haven at Fresno. The plane, with six passengers and a crew of three, left San Francisco last night for Albuquerque, N. M., but headed for Los Angeles because of bad weather.

Passengers aboard the luxurious $105,000 liner were Mary Lou Dirlam and Tracy Dirlam, Stanford university students; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Walts of San Francisco; Victor Krause of Lincoln, Neb., and H. N. Salisbury, TWA pilot on leave.

The crew was comprised of Pilot John Graves, First Officer C. W. Wallace, and Stewardess Martha Wilson.

Tipsy Foxes Go on Toot and Raid Indiana Farms

New Albany, Ind., March 2.—(AP)—Drunken foxes are preying on farms near Lanesville, 15 miles west of here, residents reported today. One farmer was bitten by a fox he surprised in a chicken house. "The foxes evidently are feasting on brewery slop," one farmer said.

SUZETTE, BROOKFIELD ZOO GORILLA, IS PUT IN AN OXYGEN TENT

The man at Brookfield zoo who peeked into that oxygen tent last night, then jumped back and yelled "Yaaah! It's a gorilla!" was perfectly correct. It was a gorilla; it was poor little Suzette, who has pneumonia. The man could have looked in a week ago and have seen her, because that's how long she's been there, though zoo authorities didn't say anything about it until yesterday.

All three of the gorillas, including Congo and Sultan, took cold a couple of weeks ago. Congo and Sultan only sniffled, but Suzette took to her bed. Every one felt pretty bad about it last night and stared stonily at the man who asked if her suffering was "in tents."

TELLS SCARF BY PELT IN CENTER, ONCE HIS WILLIE

New York, March 2.—(AP)—The interesting case of Little Willie, who once was a mink, brought tears to the eyes of spectators in Felony court today and a warning from Magistrate Thomas A. Aurelio that if they didn't stop laughing he'd clear the court.

All that was seen of Little Willie was his pelt, an integral part of a $500 mink scarf which Mrs. Edward N. Johnson said was stolen from her hotel. Her husband identified it.

"I have the largest mink farm in the world at Port Arthur, Ont.," he said, and, pointing his finger directly at the center of the scarf, added: "That one was Willie. I raised him."

Mrs. Johnson testified at length, despite occasional interruptions by the defendant, Donald J. McFayden, who, from time to time, interjected wearily: "I plead guilty."

Surprise! It's Christmas Again in Hartford, Conn.

Hartford, Conn., March 2.—(AP)—Santa Claus played a return engagement here today as the Christmas rush, without holly or mistletoe, began anew at the Hartford postoffice. It all started when a druggist whose store was used as a postal substation found in the basement a plump sack, with several hundred pieces of mail that had been overlooked since last December.

Driver Tracks Iron Horses to Steaming Lair

BY WILLIAM T. MOORE.

The Dearborn station surrounded Herbert J. Guernsey last night—gathered him in, leered, and dared him to find his way out.

Mr. Guernsey, understand, wasn't one of those bewildered gentlemen who get lost trying to meet relatives in railroad stations. He wasn't even driving past to see the trains come in.

Indeed, as he explained it to the police who found him motoring around among the trains in the train shed, he wasn't ever near the depot. He was driving north from his downtown office to his home at 559 Forest avenue, Highland Park, when the station, normally south of the loop, stole up on him and surrounded him.

Goes Against the Trend.

Well, Mr. Guernsey didn't realize what had happened until he found himself bumping over the tracks crosswise—a system which, he confided, he can scarcely recommend in view of the ease with which trains move the other way.

Numerous gentlemen with red lanterns were hopping about signaling to him, but being a flour salesman instead of an engineer, he was unable to understand what it was they were signaling, and with trains coming in and going out all about him, he couldn't stop to learn any signal codes.

For a while it appeared that he was coming in on track 3, but he didn't—a locomotive beat him to it.

The Santa Fe Is One Choice.

Most of the trains slipped tactfully out of Mr. Guernsey's way, but the one on track 9 wasn't so accommodating. It blocked his path rather dourly, leaving Mr. Guernsey the choice of taking the Santa Fe tracks and landing in Kansas City or driving right up to the station master and admitting he was lost.

Mr. Guernsey decided the station master was the better bet, and, being a twinkling eyed man of 204 pounds, beamed as he rolled up to the mail platform, the station master, and trouble, and inquired in his most engaging manner:

"Union station?"

An Introduction Is Made.

"Nope," replied the station master in a voice that proved some people don't love fat men. "This is the Dearborn station, mister, and these fellows, they're cops."

The station master said he didn't know himself how Mr. Guernsey and his car got in, but showed the police a way to take Mr. Guernsey out. You won't believe it, but the police did, when Mr. Guernsey said it was just something that happened—not something he drank.

Courtney Stirs Up Simmering Police Scandal

State's Attorney Courtney and his aids, irked because they had not been invited by police officials, stepped voluntarily yesterday into the investigation of the freeing of accused robbers by two detectives of the Town Hall station. After questioning the witnesses and finding numerous discrepancies in their stories, Mr. Courtney declared last night that there will be further efforts to get the real truth of the scandal and lay the ground work for a vigorous prosecution.

Frank McKune.

An important development was the discovery that Kenneth Peters, one of the alleged stickup men, was taken to the station before he was released. Until yesterday it was assumed that the detectives, Frank McKune and Earl Flannery, had "given him a pass" on the street.

Gets a Ride to Restaurant.

Peters himself, who surrendered after the friendly detectives had been stripped of their stars and locked up Tuesday on charges of permitting the escape, told Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford that he had been in the station squadroom for fifteen minutes before he was told he could go.

"Then," he said, "Detective McKune was good enough to put me in his car and take me to a restaurant."

The groundwork of the story remained unchanged. Peters and another man, known to the investigators only as Tip, were interrupted as they were holding up James J. Burke, 69 years old, 936 Wilson avenue, at Dover street and Leland avenue Saturday evening.

Two uniformed policemen, Harold Thompson and Peter Frank, compelled the pair to surrender. Before they could start from the scene with their prisoners Detectives McKune and Flannery appeared. They offered to take the prisoners to the station and the uniformed men, after a short discussion, assented.

Just Helping a Pal.

Peters said that he was driven to the station in McKune's car. He asserted that he was not a stickup man and had only been aiding his friend Tip in collecting a race horse bet from Burke's employer, William Nichols, owner of two handbooks in the Town Hall district.

Peters denied that he and Tip had pistols. Flannery and McKune backed him up. Burke, Thompson, and Frank continued to insist that both men had pistols. The uniformed policemen said that they had taken the weapons from the pair and turned them over to the detectives.

There were other grave discrepancies, even between the statements of Flannery and McKune. Flannery asserted he had driven his automobile to McKune's house Saturday evening and left it there when he and McKune started to the Flannery home. McKune lives at 4916 North Francisco avenue and the scene of the robbery

CHAIRMAN ASKS CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY ON TVA

Demands 'Honesty' in Government.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—A congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley authority by a joint senate and house committee tonight was urged by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, TVA chairman, to insure "honesty" in government.

The suggestion was advanced in a statement on the decision yesterday of a federal commission in Knoxville, Tenn., against the $5,000,000 claim brought by United States Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.], for marble deposits in the Norris dam area. In an eighteen word decision the commission held the marble properties of Berry and two associates were worthless. Dr. Morgan concurs with the decision.

Assails Two Colleagues.

In the thirty-six page statement Dr. Morgan charges that he consistently fought the Berry claim but received no support from his colleagues on the authority, David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan. He attacked his colleagues for attempting to enter into a friendly agreement which would have settled the "worthless" Berry claim.

Mr. Morgan asserted that the dispute between himself and his colleagues is not due to differences over policy but to his effort to obtain honesty in government. In this respect his statement is one of the most astounding attacks ever made by the head of a federal establishment upon colleagues of the same party affiliation.

Faced with Difficulties.

"The Berry marble case represents the kind of difficulty with which as chairman of the TVA board, I have been faced in the effort to maintain good standards of public service," he said. "To a steadily increasing degree I have contended with an attitude of conspiracy, secretiveness, and burocratic manipulation, which has made the proper conduct of TVA business difficult.

"During this period the public has been led to believe the difficulties within the TVA have been due to differences as to power policy, or to just another family quarrel. The real difficulty has been in the effort to obtain honesty, openness, decency, and fairness in government."

The Morgan statement is a reply to attacks on Dr. Morgan's testimony at the marble hearing last December by his colleagues and Senator Berry.

Awaits Board's Decision.

Dr. Morgan said he did not deem it proper to reply to the attacks on his testimony until after the commission had reached a decision. He said he first heard of the Berry claim in June, 1936. On reading reports of geologists he prepared a memorandum on June 17, 1936, urging that no settlement be made until the propriety of the claims could be determined, he said.

On July 10, during his absence, the chairman said, Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan entered into a friendly agreement with Berry to determine the value of the marble deposits. Dr. Morgan said he protested this agreement because it was entered into while he was absent and because he felt there was conclusive evidence of bad faith. He included letters urging Berry to handle his claim in the open because of Berry's position in public life.

Charges Quiz Discouraged.

Dr. Morgan charges his colleagues discouraged any investigation of the claims or of bad faith on the part of Berry. He quoted from a press release of Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan of last December 22 which said: "Our counsel . . . had presented facts indicating bad faith, facts previously unknown to anyone connected with the authority until discovered by our attorneys on the eve of the trial, after two years of tenacious investigation."

"As a matter of fact," the Morgan statement said, "there had been no 'two years of tenacious investigation' of bad faith by the TVA legal division, and the two directors had discouraged such investigation."

Dr. Morgan further quoted the minority directors' statement to the effect that no one had suspected bad faith on the part of the claimants until shortly before the trial and that

"Dr. Morgan so testified before the commission."

"I did not give such testimony," said Morgan's statement, "and in my opinion the facts fully known to every member of the TVA board since June, 1936, constituted strong if not conclusive evidence of bad faith—that is, of intent to hold up the government."

Reaffirms His Testimony.

The Morgan statement reaffirms testimony he gave before the federal commission which was challenged by Berry at the time. The marble claim was an afterthought on the part of Berry and his associates, he asserted, after other mineral prospects had vanished and that Berry never had mentioned a definite claim in the early stages of his negotiations but sought to hold up the government for as much as possible.

The statement declared that Berry charged Morgan with blocking "a sacred, binding agreement," when the TVA chairman halted the friendly agreement reached with Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan.

"In my opinion, a 'friendly' agreement, in the face of what seemed to me to be an obvious intent to exploit was not a good public policy, and lacked several degrees of being 'sacred'."

Supporter of Program.

"I have desired to support the New Deal program," he added, "and also the TVA program, in which I firmly believe, while, on the other hand, I have felt compelled to fight for certain decencies in public life which are more important to good government than any particular government program.

"The TVA deserves a fair and open hearing. The investigating group should be provided with sufficient funds to make possible a first hand examination of the obscure financial records of the power program, and of all other important phases of the TVA which come into question.

"The fertilizer policy, for example, was adopted without being disclosed to the TVA board.

Urges Joint Group.

"It would seem that such an investigation best could be conducted by a joint house and senate committee on which all important attitudes towards the TVA would have adequate representation.

"The TVA is important not only for itself, but because it represents a case of a new form of government organization, and also because it represents one policy with reference to the power industry, and a diametrically opposite policy toward the fertilizer industry. It is important not only for itself, but as a type of governmental method and attitude."

Chairman Urges TVA Investigation

HARRY BRIDGES DENIED HEARING BY SENATE BODY

Case Is Still Pending, Reason Given.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The senate commerce committee refused today to hear Harry Bridges, communist C. I. O. leader on the west coast. The committee advanced the same reason advanced by Secretary of Labor Perkins previously—his case is still pending in the labor department.

The C. I. O. through its general counsel, Lee Pressman, had demanded that Bridges be given an opportunity to answer charges that he is a member of the communist party, subject to deportation to Australia as an undesirable alien, and that he has been responsible for maritime tieups costing the people of the west coast at least one billion dollars.

Committee Issues Statement.

The commerce committee, however, approved a formal statement, as follows:

"Inasmuch as the secretary of labor has reported to the committee that a case is now pending before that department involving Harry Bridges, this committee deems it inadvisable to seem to interfere with the jurisdiction of the department in a matter now before it, while it is under consideration, and therefore withholds action upon Mr. Bridges' request to be heard until the department of labor has acted. The committee thereupon will hear Mr. Bridges."

This action, intended to put Miss Perkins on the spot, was inspired by her own argument against surrendering her file in the Bridges deportation case. She said it would be improper to divulge the evidence while the case was still pending, but in response to the committee's insistent demand she surrendered the file under protest.

Warant Still Lacking.

Gerard D. Reilly, solicitor for the labor department, told the committee that the government's investigation had gone as far as it could, that a prima facie case had been established, and that a warant of arrest for Bridges awaited only the signature of Miss Perkins.

Bridges is in Washington, having come here to demand a hearing before the senate commerce committee and to resist his deportation by the labor department.

BULKLEY'S HIGHWAY DREAM IS SHATTERED BY VOTE OF SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The 8 billion dollar Bulkley super-highway scheme, on which President Roosevelt had smiled with the suggestion that it merited serious consideration, was killed by the senate today.

By a vote of 38 to 36 the senate voted to discharge the banking and currency committee from further consideration of the bill and refer it to the committee on postoffices and post roads, which is almost unanimously opposed to the measure.

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar [D., Tenn.], chairman of the postoffice committee, made the motion, which was supported solidly by his committee and by most Republicans and conservative Democrats.

The bill would create a United States highway corporation with a States highway corporation that would build three east-west and seven north-south superhighways on which travelers would pay toll to reimburse the government for the original cost and maintenance.

PICKS UP BLONDE ON LONDON TRIP, SO RICH WIFE SUES

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Banker William H. Hamilton brought a foreign 1919 model taxicab, back from London as a strange honeymoon memento four years ago. But when he returned to Piccadilly alone last spring he passed up taxis and acquired a 1937 model blonde, according to charges of his wife, Ann Kirkpatrick Hamilton, in a separation suit filed today. She wants $2,500 a month alimony.

Mrs. Hamilton named Selma Hymes, known to London café society as Dizzy Hymes, as the fascinating souvenir of her husband's second visit.

The sportsman-financier not only shared a rented London mansion with Dizzy last April, May, and June but also brought her back to New York, where she stayed until October, the wife declared. Dizzy was only one of a number of women on whom her husband bestowed his affection, the young wife further informed the court.

LICENSING BILL DRAWS FIRE AS BLOW AT TRADE

Opponents Rally Forces to Fight Measure.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Business men are rallying organized opposition to the Borah-O'Mahoney bill providing for federal licensing of all corporations of $100,000 gross assets or more. About 300,000 corporations would be affected, it is estimated.

The avowed objective of the proposed legislation according to its authors, Senators William E. Borah [R., Idaho] and Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], is to enable the government to put out of business any corporation engaging in monopoly or other specified abuses of its power.

Opponents of the measure contend that it would create a regimentation of private enterprise under a government dictatorship that would jar the very foundations of the capitalist system.

Roosevelt Favors Bill.

President Roosevelt favors the bill in principle and is quietly furthering its passage at this session of congress. His only criticism is that the regimentation doesn't go far enough.

Appearing before a senate committee holding public hearings on the bill, Elmert T. Cunningham of the National Association of Manufacturers pronounced it an obstacle to economic recovery.

"All efforts at this time must be directed toward permanent recovery and increasing employment," he told the committee. "That is the vital task all of us face. To place hundreds of thousands of businesses under licensing investigation at this time will retard, not aid, recovery. Regardless of merit or demerit, this is not the time to make this bill the law of the land.

Points to Huge Task.

"To investigate and supervise 300,000 businesses—and the actual figure may be considerably larger—is a huge task. The interstate commerce commission's task of regulating our railroads is small in comparison. It would be the same as a plan to enforce compliance with automobile speed and trafic laws by requiring a governmental observer to be constantly or periodically seated alongside the driver of every automobile."

More important, Mr. Cunningham pointed out, would be the punishment meted out to stockholders and employés in the case of business houses failing to satisfy what he termed "continuous burocratic investigations."

Would Penalize Innocent.

"Penalties against a corporation with many stockholders essentially are penalties against innocent stockholders, employés, and creditors," he said. "Broadly speaking, violations of any provisions of this bill will result, not from the affirmative action, or even with the knowledge of individual small stockholders, but from the acts of one or more individual officers, managers, executives, or employés of a corporation. Such acts in violation of this proposed law most frequently will be inadvertent or unintentional or the result of misunderstanding or carelessness.

"While violations of the law must be punished, we submit that with respect to the provisions of this bill it is unduly harsh to punish and injure small, innocent stockholders, employés, and creditors for the acts of individuals. To suspend even temporarily a corporation's right to do business would result in large and irreparable losses to stockholders, employés, and creditors, liable in law but innocent in fact."

Declares Fears Exaggerated.

Senator O'Mahoney, chairman of the committee of which Senator Borah also is a member, declared fears of the proposed legislation highly exaggerated.

"The important thing for business men to understand with respect to this measure is that it is cast in an utterly different mold from previous acts dealing with the relation of government to business," he said.

"This bill does not expand but it contracts discretionary control.

"Because for fifty years beginning with the interstate commerce commission act we have been creating boards and commissions with discretionary power to control business, some business spokesmen assume that this bill will do likewise. I cannot too emphatically state that it is the purpose of Senator Borah and myself to set business free from burocratic meddling, while at the same time setting it free from monopolistic interferences."

Voluminous Data Required.

Under the terms of the bill it would be unlawful for any corporation, with gross assets of $100,000 within 3 years previous, to engage in commerce without a federal license. Subject to judicial review denial of a license by the commission is authorized in the case of any applicant that, in the opinion of the commission, is a party to monopolistic practices or is violating the anti-trust laws.

Licenses are to be conditioned upon equal pay and rights for labor without regard to sex, employment of no person under 16 and of no person under 18 in hazardous or night work, collective bargaining by employés through representatives of their own choosing, abstention from unfair competition and fraudulent trade practices.

6 years old, were killed in the collapse of their home.

Two workmen were drowned when a trestle across the Santa Ana river near San Juan Capistrano collapsed. W. E. Stone, a motorist, died of heart disease and overexertion when trying to free his car from mud.

Five Perish in Homes.

Five persons perished in collapse of homes in Los Angeles and cave-ins.

Three men, a woman, and a boy were reported drowned by the flood waters in Lytle canyon near San Bernardino.

Other identified dead included Fred Wilke, Los Angeles; John Croft and P. E. Kay, Long Beach; Lynn Stewart, tourist from New York; Charles Yount of the battleship Arizona.

Nearly 1,000 families in Arcadia and Montebello Gardens were warned to flee or be ready to abandon their homes as water began falling over the spillway of the Santa Anita canyon.

The movie colony at Malibu Beach was isolated. A wide area in Bel Rey was inundated and a dangerous condition was reported in the Mar Vista district. Hundreds of families were moved out of the Venice section and several hundred Ventura residents fled their homes.

The Los Angeles river broke through levees between Los Angeles and Glendale, flooding a large section of residences in the fashionable riverside rancho estates.

Held to Jury in Slaying After Policy Game Row

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Joseph Walker, 35 years old, 4721 St. Lawrence avenue, colored, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering Joseph Etkin, 49, in his tavern at 601 East 47th street on Tuesday. Police said Walker accused Etkin of not paying off on a policy game. Etkin was the brother of David Etkin, professor of drama at De Paul university.

Nearly 4½ Millions Paid in Autos Fees in 2 Months

During the first two months of the year, City Collector Louis Rixmann reported yesterday, 478,798 vehicle licenses were issued for $4,403,881. In the first two months of 1937 the revenue was $4,129,785. Last year 612,799 licenses were issued, representing revenue of $5,086,639.

Marquette police last night were seeking Jess Langford, 40 years old, colored, after a stabbing in which Albert Robinson, colored, of the same address, was slain.

HOUSE IN UPROAR AS MEMBER RIPS INTO ROOSEVELT

Attack Made in Debate on Spending Bill.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—Representative Robert F. Rich [R., Pa.] threw the house into an uproar today by shouting that President Roosevelt never had done a day of work in his life.

Democrats snapped back, with Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] asserting it was very unwise, highly improper, and decidedly unethical for anyone to attack or impugn the President of the United States.

River Project Debated.

In the center of the whole dispute was a proposal by Representative James G. Scrugham [D., Nev.] to boost from $100,000 to $350,000 an item for the Provo river reclamation project, in Utah, in the interior department appropriation bill.

Rich jumped up to shout his objections, denounce administration spending policies, and assail the President. He yelled so loudly his words for the most part were unintelligible.

Challenges Statement.

Challenging the statement that Mr. Roosevelt never had done a day's work, Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [D., N. C.] asserted the President formerly was vice president of a New York Insurance company.

When McCormack jumped in to condemn personal attacks on the President, Representative Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] interrupted to ask: "Did the Democratic party follow that policy when they had a 'smear Hoover' campaign on?"

JR. ROOSEVELTS EXPECTING BABY IN MIDSUMMER

Philadelphia, Pa., March 2.—[Special.]—A room at the Philadelphia Lying-in hospital has been engaged by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., for July, it became known today.

It was believed that the President's daughter-in-law, the former Ethel du Pont, had chosen a Philadelphia hospital for her confinement so as to be close to her former home at Greenville, Del. She and her husband are living at Charlottesville, Va., where he is studying law at the University of Virginia.

M'NUTT PAUSES IN HIS BOOM TO SET OFF A BANG

Roosevelt Explodes Over His Far East Talk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner to the Philippines, took time out from an incipient presidential boom today to give President Roosevelt and the state department a tip on Anglo-American relations in the far east.

There is, he told reporters, no hope for this nation and Great Britain cooperating in solving China's current difficulties.

"And it's not because Great Britain doesn't want it," he added. "It's because she can't get it."

Offers His Explanation.

McNutt, who visited China before flying here last week for a $7,500 reception launching him as a prospective candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, indicated this country had refused Britain coöperation in retaliation for England's refusal to coöperate with the United States in the 1931 Manchurian crisis.

Word of McNutt's statement was quickly carried to the White House, where, it was reported, President Roosevelt blew up with a loud verbal bang. State department officials also were reported intensely irritated by McNutt's invasion of their province.

Already in Bad Graces.

The former governor of Indiana has been in the bad graces of the President ever since the Hoosier state political machine thrust McNutt forward as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1940. Mr. Roosevelt, who as head of his party believes he should make the decision about his successor, is known to be angry about the McNutt boom.

McNutt's remarks today were reported to have aggravated the President's ire because the high commissioner of the Philippines, in Mr. Roosevelt's opinion, is supposed to confine himself to public utterances about his duties in the islands. McNutt's assertion that this country would never ally itself with Great Britain in connection with the invasion of China was regarded by the President as uncalled for.

WOMAN LEADER DENIES CHARGE OF BUYING VOTES

Kansas City, Mo., March 2.—(AP)—The only woman ward leader in the city Democratic organization of T. J. Pendergast declared false today accusations that she paid Republicans money to help win the 1936 election.

Mrs. Frances Ryan, defending herself in federal court against vote fraud conspiracy charges, denied a Republican committee woman's testimony that $200 was turned over at a pre-election meeting with the explanation it came from James Pendergast, nephew of the organization leader.

Mrs. Ryan is one of six Democratic defendants in the eleventh of a series of vote fraud trials which to date have resulted in fifty convictions.

Other Air Crashes in Western Mountains

1—Two pilots killed in northern Idaho on Dec. 18, 1937, while carrying mail.

2—Six killed when transport crashed into Wasatch mountains, thirty miles east of Salt Lake City in March, 1935.

3—Nineteen killed when United Air lines transport crashed in Unita mountains on Oct. 18, 1937.

4—Seven killed when Western Air Express transport struck top of Lone peak, thirty miles southeast of Salt Lake City.

5—Nine passengers and a crew of three killed at New Hall, Cal., on Dec. 27, 1936, in United Air lines crash.

BLAMES BROTHER OF DR. PARKER IN SUIT OVER $85,000

Mrs. Lena M. Parker blamed her separation from Dr. A. Mercer Parker, a chiropractor, upon his brother yesterday at a hearing before Thomas W. Flynn, master in chancery. Mrs. Parker, who lives at 2523 Central avenue, Evanston, is suing for the return of $85,000 in cash and securities that she says Dr. Parker gave her and then took from their safety deposit box while she was in a sanitarium to which he sent her.

"I truly feel," she said, "that if it weren't for my husband's brother [Brooks Parker, living near Stratford, Pa.] we'd be back together today. He isn't married and he didn't want his brother to get married."

SANE-OR-INSANE BANDIT GUILTY; ONE YEAR TO LIFE

Harbut's Trial Lasts Only a Few Hours.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Fred Waddy and Dominic Demico, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

There were no loopholes in justice yesterday for John Harbut, notorious gunman who in 1933 claimed insanity and thus escaped a penitentiary sentence. This time he went on trial as a robber who knew what he was doing. Within a few hours a jury in Criminal court heard his case, found him guilty, and Judge Joseph Sabath ordered him to prison for one year to life.

Considering his record, this sentence should keep Harbut in the penitentiary for at least twelve years, said Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, who was special prosecutor in the case. Wright said he would inform the board of pardons and paroles that Harbut is a dangerous man with a bad record.

Identified in Forty Robberies.

Harbut, now 28 years old, was identified in 1933 in forty robberies. For each of them he could have been sentenced to one year to life. He showed symptoms of traumatic psychosis [insanity resulting from injury] while in jail awaiting trial and was examined by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the Criminal court behavior clinic. Acting on the finding of Dr. Hoffman, a jury found Harbut insane and ordered him sent to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Chester.

The state alienists concurred in the finding of Dr. Hoffman. After three years of treatment at the asylum, Dr. Paul L. Schroeder and Dr. H. Douglas Singer, state alienists, declared Harbut recovered and sent him back to Cook county.

In view of old English common law, which holds that an insane man cannot commit a crime, the state dismissed the old robbery charges. Dr. Hoffman reëxamined Harbut again before yesterday's trial and found that he was not insane when his latest crime was committed. The original insanity was caused by an automobile accident injury.

Seized Fleeing Robbery.

Since his discharge from the state hospital, Harbut has been in minor trouble with the law, which brought about small sentences. He embarked on his old gun career again on Feb. 15, but was stopped after his first robbery when an accident prevention squad arrested him as he was fleeing from the scene. He was indicted and arraigned last Wednesday and pleaded not guilty. He was given one week to prepare a defense and yesterday he appeared before Judge Sabath's court. The jury was selected immediately after noon.

William Pyrz, 924 Noble street, a clerk, and Miss Wanda Dziewit, 963 Milwaukee avenue, testified Harbut held them up while they were parked in an automobile in front of Miss Dziewit's home. He took $8 from Pyrz and then drove off with him in the automobile. The girl, who recognized Harbut as a former neighbor, notified police and a message was broadcast for the apprehension of Pyrz's car.

"Harbut said he was Paul Harrison, the escaped maniac from Chester, who had killed four people," Miss Dziewit testified. "He said his gun had six bullets and he would use them if necessary."

Policemen Thomas McNulty and Walter Norfray told of arresting Harbut as he was escaping from Pyrz's car. He struggled, they said, and they had to use force to disarm him. They told of finding the $98 hidden in his underclothes.

Harbut was the only defense witness. He denied the robbery and said he won the money in a gambling house, whose location he could not remember exactly.

The jury took less than 30 minutes to bring in the verdict. The judge took another minute to impose the one year to life sentence on the scowling defendant.

Pershing Saved by Stamina, New Treatment, Says Doctor

Tucson, Ariz., March 2.—[Special.]—Gen. John J. Pershing's amazing physical comeback after lying four days at the point of death was attributed tonight to two major causes by Dr. Roland Davison, his physician and friend.

"The public regards it as spectacular that a man of 77 years could so rally," said Dr. Davison. "But Gen. Pershing is hardly to be regarded as a man of 77. It is true that his strained and damaged heart muscle betrays his years, but his general muscle structure and his stamina are those of a man much younger."

Stay Uremic Poisoning.

As the second reason for the general's rally, Dr. Davison detailed the specific treatment that strengthened him, stayed the advance of uremic poisoning and eventually started his kidneys functioning. It is a treatment little known to the public because it usually is resorted to only after intravenous feeding has failed.

Great fortitude is vital if the patient is to rally after this point, declared Dr. Davison.

"Early on the morning of Feb. 25," he continued, "we were forced to stop intravenous feeding [injection of food into the veins] because of the collapsed condition of the veins.

No Food for Hours.

"He had taken no food by mouth—not even water—for many hours. We therefore resorted to injection of fluid into the tissue beneath the skin.

"The fluid contains glucose [sugar], which provides nourishment and strength, and salt, the chlorine ions of which change the reaction of the blood and help start the kidneys by releasing them from tension. The fluid also provides much needed water.

"Although the general took nourishment by mouth today [grapefruit and cereal], we are continuing the injection of the fluid within the limits his heart will stand. He still is too sick for extensive study and treatment of his kidney conditions."

Main Concern Is Heart.

Dr. Davison added that his main concern is Gen. Pershing's heart, since the heart's condition governs injection of the tissue fluid upon which the kidneys depend at this time. He declared that the immediate danger appears to have passed, but warned emphatically against minimizing the possibility of heart and kidney complications.

Meanwhile noted army surgeons ordered to Tucson by the government prepared to leave tomorrow. Rail equipment ordered several days ago to carry the general's body east was dismissed. Several of Pershing's relatives left today for their homes.

GERMANY FREES AND THEN JAILS U-BOAT PASTOR

Niemoeller in Custody of Secret Police.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 2.—The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, submarine commander in the world war and fighting leader of the Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] synod, tonight was in the protective custody of the secret police at Alexanderplatz prison. The charges against him, if any, were not disclosed.

The Rev. Martin Niemoeller.

Niemoeller was seized after he had been set free "technically" at noon by an extraordinary court at the termination of his trial, which began on Feb. 7.

The pastor, aggressive crusader "for the right to preach the unadulterated gospel," was sentenced by that court to a "fortress" for seven months on charges of "endangering public security, exploiting the pulpit, and incitement to resistance against the government." All charges of treason against him were withdrawn during the trial.

Fines Total $800.

The "fighting parson" also was fined $600 for vilifying Nazi leaders and $200 for preaching illegally from his pulpit. The court canceled the sentence to a "fortress" and the $200 fine because the pastor had been held in Moabit prison over eight months already.

The court further ruled that the $600 fine must be paid or the defendant would have to go to prison for another three months. Friends of the clergyman expressed their eagerness to pay the fine and secure his immediate release.

But Niemoeller's wife and children vainly waited for him to return home. Mrs. Niemoeller already had packed suitcases to go to the mountains with her husband for a long rest.

No Appeal Against GSP.

Niemoeller's family and friends are grief stricken because he is in the hands of the GSP [secret police], which is all powerful in Germany and against whose actions there is no appeal. Only Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler or Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, can issue orders to the GSP.

While friends and admirers—many carrying small bunches of flowers—were standing at the gate of Moabit prison this afternoon awaiting Niemoeller's release, two black marias sped out through the gateway. Nobody believed the pastor was in one of them.

The Rev. Mr. Mueller tonight announced from the pulpit of the Jesus Christus church at Dahlem, fashionable suburb of Berlin, that Niemoeller had been removed from Moabit to Alexanderplatz prison. Niemoeller is pastor of the Dahlem church. The congregation, which packed the building, prayed for him.

This noon more than 200 Protestants and newspaper men assembled in the Moabit courthouse for what they hoped would be the last act in the Niemoeller drama—the reading of the verdict by the court.

Called Ardent Patriot.

The preacher's friends, including six generals and other high army officers; Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, Germany's most famous surgeon; Dr. Ernst Brandenburg, a high official in the air ministry, had testified that Niemoeller was an ardent patriot and never meant to stir up trouble for the Nazi government.

Despite pressure from radical Nazis and warnings published in the newspaper of Himmler and the Schutz Staffel [black shirted picked guards], the court judged the case solely on its legal aspects.

Presiding Judge Hoepke, a slim man in his middle 40's, with slashes reminiscent of his student dueling days on his cheeks, read the sentence while the defendant, his four lawyers and the spectators stood up.

Sentence Not Dishonorable.

When Judge Hoepke read the punishment: "Seven months in a fortress," relief was evident on the faces of Niemoeller's friends, since, under German tradition, a sentence to a fortress is not dishonorable. It used to be passed on officers and minor political offenders. Hitler was sentenced to a fortress by the German republic after his unsuccessful putsch in Munich in 1923.

The pulpit law under which Niemoeller was sentenced dates back to the time of Prince Otto von Bismarck. Based on a statute enacted in 1871, the law reads:

"Any clergyman or other official who in the practice of his calling, or in connection with it, makes affairs of state the subject of proclamation or discussion, either publicly or before a crowd or in the presence of many persons in church or other place of religious assembly, in such a way as to endanger public peace, shall be punished by not more than two years' imprisonment or incarceration in a fortress."

Court Explains Verdict.

The court, in pronouncing sentence, explained: "Niemoeller was conscious of the effect of his words on his listeners. He also was aware that his services were attended by people who came to the church not for religious reasons, but merely because they opposed the state and the party."

Among the audience in the courtroom was Judge Wesenberg, who had acquitted the Rev. Dr. Otto Dibelius, another prominent Confessional leader, last Aug. 6, despite pressure from Nazis and efforts of the Nazi prosecutor to compel him to punish the pastor.

Dibelius was acquitted for lack of evidence. He was charged with violating the Nazi law for the protection of the party and state and insulting Hans Kerrl, church minister.

Press Hushes New Arrest.

The press, which has been ignoring the Niemoeller trial, published part of the sentence, eliminating the line which states that the pastor's eight months' detention in prison canceled the fortress sentence and the $200 fine. The newspapers did not refer to Niemoeller's new arrest.

A court in Munich today ruled that parents who belong to the Earnest Bible students may be deprived of the right to keep their children who can be entrusted to public welfare organizations because the views of the Earnest Bible students "are dangerous to the state."

CLASH OF DICTATORS AND DEMOCRACIES PREDICTED BY DODD

William E. Dodd, former United States ambassador to Germany, warned last night that the democratic form of government eventually will come into conflict with dictatorships. He spoke before an audience of 600 at Sinai temple, 4600 South Park way.

Once Germany, Japan, and Italy have completed the conquests in which they are now interested, he said, 736 millions of population will be aligned on the side of dictatorships against democracies. But through economic coöperation, Dodd said, the democracies can triumph.

"The peculiar kind of government existing in Berlin," he said, "is the worst since medieval times. It is the strongest government in the world."

REBEL RAID KILLS 18 AT ALMERIA, LOYALIST PORT

MADRID, March 2.—(AP)—A government communique said tonight eighteen persons, including eleven children, were killed and numerous others injured during a rebel air bombardment of Almeria, the government's southernmost seaport. The city had enjoyed comparative quiet since the German warship Deutschland shelled it nearly a year ago. One bomb fell near a school building just before school was dismissed, killing, maiming, and scattering children.

An air force communique announced that twelve members of the crew of the rebel vessel, Almirante Cervera, were killed and twenty injured when government planes bombed the ship after it and others shelled Sagunto Feb. 22.

Rebels Map New Drive.

Hendaye, France [at the Spanish Frontier], March 2.—(AP)—Spanish rebels in eastern Spain pointed today for the launching of a new offensive. Officers and men in rearguard training camps moved into the front lines to relieve thousands of trained troops for the projected drive. Government forces at the same time were reported to have destroyed an insurgent outpost near Toledo, provincial capital forty-one miles southwest of Madrid, and freed their lines in the sector from rebel fire.

FRENCH CHAMBER YIELDS; READY TO PASS LABOR CODE

PARIS, March 2.—(AP)—Passage of the government's labor code appeared certain tonight as the chamber of deputies bowed to the senate's objections to two of the three disputed points.

After four days of bitter wrangling, which threatened to cause the resignation of Premier Camille Chautemps' government, the lower house gave up its demands that agricultural workers be included in the code. This concession was made after the government promised to seek passage of a separate bill for those workers before April 15.

The chamber also agreed to make optional instead of obligatory the code's provisions for revising wages when living costs increase 10 per cent. The only point of difference remaining was whether employers would be required to furnish all their books to arbitrators in case of disputes over wages. The chamber held that all documents must be furnished. The senate insisted employers should be free to choose the documents they would submit.

Accused Slayer of WPA Employe Faces Court Today

Police last night filed a murder charge against Harry Geils as a result of the fatal shooting of James Fenton of 2256 Madison street. Fenton, a WPA employé, was killed Tuesday at Madison street and Wolcott avenue. Geils, a labor foreman at the Chicago Stadium, will be taken to Felony court today. He has a police record. The coroner's inquest, opened yesterday, was continued until tomorrow.

AUSTRIA YIELDS; SWASTIKA TO BE WORN IN STYRIA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 2.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg tonight gave way before Nazi pressure and permitted Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, his minister of interior, to publish a communique announcing that the ban on the swastika badges will not be enforced in the province of Styria.

This was part of an agreement Seyss-Inquart negotiated at Graz, Styria, with local Nazi leaders. The minister of interior skipped down to Graz last night to end by persuasion the Nazi dissension in Styria. Schuschnigg apparently had decided it was too dangerous to use force.

Grant Free View on Life.

A communique issued following Seyss-Inquart's return to Vienna tonight said that in the course of his conferences with Nazi leaders, the minister of interior fixed to everyone's satisfaction the political line to be followed in Styria, especially as to the "individual outlook on an interpretation of life" by Nazi adherents in the province.

The communique said that in these conversations it was stipulated further that the Hitler salute and the wearing of the swastika will be permitted in Styria "in private life."

This apparently means that the swastika may be worn on the street, but not by government or municipal officials while on duty, as has been the case up to now. The swastika ban remains in principle in all other Austrian provinces, but probably will be impossible of enforcement henceforth.

Compromise Expected.

It is expected that one or more cabinet meetings will be necessary to decide the conditions under which swastika badges may be worn or displayed, and a typically Austrian compromise would be to decide that they can be worn only on red, white and red ribbons.

The Nazis are agitating for permission to wear the swastika in all parts of Austria, as an expression of the wearer's personal anti-Semitism and not as a political symbol.

Concessions regarding the badges are the most sweeping Schuschnigg has made to the Nazis since he took Seyss-Inquart into the cabinet and proclaimed amnesty for political offenses. There is reason to believe that Schuschnigg feared that a really vigorous cleanup in Styria might have provoked dangerous reactions in Germany.

BRITAIN HIKES ITS ANTE IN WORLD'S ARMAMENT RACE

$1,758,750,000 Will Be Spent This Year Alone.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—The British government today advised taxpayers that 7 billion 500 million dollars will not be sufficient to cover the armament program embarked upon last year to make the British empire safe from dictator countries.

A white paper, issued after cabinet approval, stated that armament expenses under the five year plan will exceed the estimated 7 billion 500 million dollars and political circles tonight forecast that Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, will have to raise another $250,000,000 from taxation to meet this year's costs alone.

Early Setbacks Overcome.

The statement assured the empire that the armament program is well advanced, that early setbacks, notably in air force expansion, have been overcome and that the rate of production now is increasing.

This year, it was announced, Great Britain is spending $1,716,250,000 on the army, navy, and air force, with an extra $42,500,000 on protection of the civilian population from air raiders. Thus the year's armament expense will be $1,758,750,000.

This is an increase of $341,250,000 over the previous year and even more is to be spent in 1939, when the government indicated that the expenditure probably will reach its peak.

To help in paying this year's armament bill, the government intends to raise $450,000,000 from loans.

Threat of Dictators Blamed.

The swelling costs were ascribed to the "growing power and complexity" of modern weapons and the "new needs" which have emerged during the last twelve months—presumably the increasing power of the dictator states.

In a comprehensive survey of all branches of defense, the white paper recorded the progress since rearmament began.

Allegations that the programs are behind schedule were contested.

"Although deliveries have not in some cases come up to anticipation," it was stated, "progress on the whole has been satisfactory."

The tonnage building for the British navy was shown to have increased from 139,345 in January, 1935, to 547,000 in the same month this year.

Wife in Love Suit

MRS. HAROLD C. ZEIS.

Steubenville, O., March 2.—(AP)—The Rev. Harold C. Zeis, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, brought friends and former members of his congregation to the witness chair in Federal court today to tell of his courtship with Cora Lillian Burnham, 45 years old, the divorcée who is asking $100,000 for breach of promise.

All testified Mr. Zeis and Miss Burnham were a devoted couple and that they heard Miss Burnham say she "could not marry Mr. Zeis in the church and would not marry him out of it." She charges he courted her until 1935, when he married Mrs. A. B. Sharp.

Mr. Zeis' attorneys have quoted a rule of the Episcopal church that no member may marry a divorced person whose wife or husband still is living unless the ground of the divorce was adultery and the person seeking to marry was the innocent party.

The witnesses testified Miss Burnham and the pastor discussed their engagement and the possibility of marriage on numerous visits with friends.

50,000 CHINESE FALL IN ROUT, JAPANESE CLAIM

Pursue Fleeing Troops to Yellow River.

SHANGHAI, March 2.—(AP)—Japanese boasted today that fleeing Chinese troops suffered at least 50,000 casualties in a demoralized retreat through Shansi province. The slaughter continued unabated, the Japanese said, as they drove Chinese forces toward the Yellow river.

Advance of the Japanese army was so rapid that it was necessary to use planes to supply the forward units with food, the Japanese said. Japanese mobile artillery and planes were reported to have constantly harassed the Chinese. Extreme cold weather and the inadequacy of medical facilities were said to have contributed to the losses of the Chinese.

Aimed at Lunghai Railway.

The battlefields between Lingshi and Linfen, along the railway running north and south through the heart of Shansi, were said to be littered with Chinese corpses. Severe fighting continued around Kuwo and Howma in sotuhwestern Shansi about fifty miles from the river.

In southeastern Shansi a Japanese force captured Tsincheng and was fighting westward along the Chin river toward Yangcheng.

Japanese operations in southern Shansi province were aimed at the Lunghai railway, just across the Yellow river.

The Chinese, while admitting the loss of more than ten districts in central Shansi during the past two weeks, denied their retreat was disorganized. They declared the Japanese were paying a heavy price for victories. It was asserted that 1,000 Japanese were killed in a single engagement near Lingshih.

Chinese Push Flank Attack.

In northern Honan province the Chinese said they were making advances on Taokow and Sunhsien after recapturing Hwahsien. These operations were intended to outflank on the east the Japanese in Shansi. The Chinese also said they recaptured Changyuan in southern Hopei province in a surprise attack.

From Canton came a Chinese report that a fleet of forty-one Japanese planes bombed the eastern outskirts of Canton, including Tienho and Paiyun airdromes.

Reports from Hankow said Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese dictator, had been replaced as head of the Chinese air force by her brother, T. V. Soong, former finance minister.

Hunt Motive for Suicide in Death of Young Wife

Delavan, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—The fatal shooting of Mrs. Betty Crabb, a young bride of five weeks, became more puzzling to authorities today as they searched without success for a possible suicide motive.

The pretty brunette, 19 years old, was shot early yesterday when she was in a hilarious mood after returning from a party arranged in honor of her and her husband, James Crabb, 24 years old. She was found mortally wounded lying on a bed in the home of her banker father-in-law, Willis Crabb.

Sherif Ralph Goar and State's Attorney Rayburn L. Russell questioned the elder Crabb, who is president of the Tazewell County National bank, and the young husband this afternoon.

Tells Quarrel with Son.

In his first report of the shooting, the banker had neglected to tell of a quarrel he was having with his son a few moments before the bride was shot, Goar said. Crabb admitted today, the sherif said, that his son had become so disorderly he called two night watchmen to the house to quiet the young man.

The sherif quoted the elder Crabb as having said the young people were intoxicated when they returned from the party about 2 a. m. They ran noisily through the house, talked loudly and were quite disturbing. Crabb said that when he threatened to call the police his son told him to go ahead, that they would do nothing with him.

Watchmen Hear Shot.

The elder Crabb did call Night Watchman R. T. Burbidge and Special Policeman E. W. Ringo, but by the time they reached the place the young couple had become quiet. The watchmen were in the Crabb yard and the banker was calling to them from a window that they were not needed, when a shot was heard.

Dr. Nelson Wright, Tazewell county coroner, said an autopsy on the girl's body showed the revolver found near her had been fired at about eight inches from her body. He said slight powder marks were found around the wound in her right breast and her negligee.

Sherif Goar said he was puzzled over the fact that there were not more powder burns, inasmuch as the revolver was an old style model. He also was in doubt, he said, as to how the girl held the heavy, long barreled weapon in her right hand—for she was right handed—to shoot herself in the right side of her chest.

Funeral services for Mrs. Crabb will be held at the Crabb home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SISTERS OF ZOG SEE SUNSET AS SMITH'S GUESTS

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith used his walking stick as a pointer today to show three young Albanian princesses the splendor of the sunset from the 102d floor of the Empire State building.

"Look at that sun goin' down over there," he boomed at the marveling sisters of Albania's King Zog.

He raised his voice, as if to make himself understood better by the Princesses Ruhije, Maxhide, and Myzejen, who don't speak English. Then he turned to their interpreter, Falk Konitza, the Albanian minister to Washington, and said: "Counsel, explain to the ladies."

Why 81 Hairs Die Unborn Each Day

THE average healthy scalp sheds and grows 81 hairs each day. It is natural for hair to fall out—but it is also natural for new hair to replace that which falls. Obviously, then; baldness comes only when some unnatural condition, such as dandruff, keeps the hair-growing structure from replacing falling hair.

In order to help your scalp to grow hair naturally, you must (1) keep it clean; (2) keep it free from infection; and (3) stimulate the sources of nourishment. Thomas treatment helps you to accomplish these ends. Proper cleansing methods are provided; dandruff and other local infections are overcome; and the sources of nourishment are gently stimulated. Come in today for a FREE scalp examination and learn more about this reliable; proved scalp treatment.

• Above diagram shows dormant hair (B) in bald scalp; (D) shrunken sebaceous glands; (F) nerves and blood vessels in need of stimulation.

• Diagram at right shows (B) normal healthy hair; (A) healthy sebaceous glands; (C) nerves and blood vessels functioning normally.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

WEAKNESSES

By CALEB

I HAVE always liked the story of the two street sweepers who, one evening as they trudged home, fell to discussing a compatriot.

"What do you think of the new man Jones?" asked one.

After due thought, his companion remarked, "Well, he seems all right, but—I think he's a little weak around lamp posts."

NEW telephone books were distributed in New York last year. A visitor to Manhattan, stepping into a dark phone booth in a dimly lighted little shop, would find, in searching out the telephone number of Ephanias Glotz, less eye-strain than would have been the case with any preceding directory for more than twenty years. The reduction in eye-strain to this individual visitor might be imperceptible. But collectively to all the eyes—bright, sparkling, old, young, blue, hazel, brown, clear, rheumy, watery—which pore over telephone books in New York, the saving will be vast—and friendly.

The old telephone book types had been put into use in New York in 1915. That, you will recall, was before the time of hydraulic brakes, electric razors, radio cosmetic programs, and the New Deal.

Science had contributed to the evolving of the old type faces. But science has contributed more to the evolving and creating of the new ones. Type designers, punch cutters, typographical experts, executives of great corporations, and other bigwigs and craftsmen all contributed to the final result. That result was ultimately achieved by adding and taking away quarter thousandths of an inch here and there in the stem or curve of individual tiny letters.

Anyway, New Yorkers may now read their telephone books more easily.

OBSERVING many people at work, I sometimes wonder at their neglect of details which, in cumulative effect, are very important.

Surely, for instance, the jobs of all of us are as important as the infinitely small modification of the shape of an "e" or an "x" in phone book type.

Most people have some "lamp posts" in their jobs around which they are weak—and in the handling of which they can improve.

ILLINOIS G. O. P. OUTLOOK CHEERS PARTY LEADERS

Senators to Take Stump for Lyons.

BY PARKE BROWN.

State Representative Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, returned in a cheerful frame of mind yesterday from Washington, D. C., where he had conferred with leaders of his party about Illinois campaign plans.

"All of them," he said, "were not only willing but anxious to help get Illinois back in its old place in the Republican column. They want to aid in both the primary and the election. Some of them are willing to speak here whenever we call them and several made definite promises to speak during the election campaign.

Lists Headliners for Campaign.

"We are sure to have Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Senator H. Stiles Bridges of New Hampshire and Congressman Bruce Barton of New York among our headliners, and there probably will be others."

Lyons conferred with Senator John G. Townsend of Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, which will aid and to some extent direct the national battle for seats in the upper house, and Congressman Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, chairman of the congressional campaign committee. He said both were keenly interested in the outlook in Illinois.

He also consulted with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who is familiar with the situation in this part of the country, and with Congressman Bertrand H. Snell of New York, minority leader of the house.

Pleased With Illinois News.

"Without exception," said Representative Lyons, "these men are highly pleased with the news from Illinois. They feel that the absence of a bitter primary fight augurs well for Republican success in the fall."

Lyons was introduced to many of the Republicans of the capital at a dinner given for him by the Illinois delegation in congress at the Mayflower hotel, an occasion interpreted as an indorsement of his candidacy by the delegation. He said a comparison of notes there with Illinois congressmen convinced him that the recent Roosevelt conference of small business men did much for the Republican cause.

"Most of our small merchants," he said, "had been rather timid before about talking against the administration. Now they are not only talking in their stores but out in the streets and are whooping up the protest against the conflicting attitudes of the administration toward them.

Doubts Farmers Favor Roosevelt.

"Reports to Washington also indicate that the farmers are nowhere nearly so strong for Roosevelt as they were in 1936. And I know that even the men on WPA projects are sick and tired of their lot.

"A big Republican vote is in the making, and, although the slate indorsed by the county chairmen's association is conceded a victory on April 12, there should be a heavy Republican primary vote as a protest against what has been done and is still being done at Washington."

SOVIET LEADER DEFIES STALIN; JOLTS SPY TRIAL

Ex-Envoy Krestinsky Fights for Life.

for his life against Prosecutor Vishinsky's efforts to alter his repudiation of his confession.

"I did not commit the crimes of which I am accused," he cried. "I always have been a member of the [communist] party and still consider myself one."

The indictment quoted from his alleged confession that he had entered into a treasonable plot with Gen. Hans von Seeckt, German military leader who died in 1936, at the behest of Trotzky.

Begins to Tell Truth.

Agitated to the point where he had to take a nerve tablet to steady himself, he called his accusers among the defendants liars and they in turn hurled the epithet back at him.

Rykov said he knew Krestinsky as a "Trotzkyist" and charged "Krestinsky is lying. He had a talk with me about illegal matters."

Krestinsky, who was finance commissar during Rykov's premiership, retorted: "Rykov lies."

"I speak the truth," he said.

To this the prosecutor inquired: "Beginning today noon?"

"Yes," Krestinsky replied.

The prosecutor called on three other defendants—A. P. Rosengoltz, Gregory F. Grinko, and S. A. Bessonov—to contradict Krestinsky with declarations they had talked with him about his Trotzkyist activities.

Hoped for Higher Aid.

Bessonov's assertion that he met Trotzky at Meran, in the Italian Tyrol, in October, 1933, Krestinsky vigorously denied.

"I was in Meran where Bessonov said I met Trotzky," said Krestinsky. "I did not meet Trotzky."

Prosecutor Vishinsky turned on Krestinsky:

"You tried to mislead me! Why?"

"I thought it would get to the leaders of the party," Krestinsky replied.

A bald, stocky, elderly man, smooth shaven, wearing horn rimmed spectacles, Krestinsky declared he broke with Trotzky in a letter he wrote in January, 1927.

When Prosecutor Vishinsky said he never had seen the letter, Krestinsky said it was taken in a search of his apartment at the time of his arrest.

Bases for German Reichswehr.

Until Krestinsky's protestation of innocence the trial had followed the familiar lines of previous mass treason trials.

The indictment dwelt on his alleged confession to participation in arrangements to provide bases in Russian territory for the German Reichswehr [regular army] beginning as far back as 1921.

He also was said to have admitted relaying to Gregory I. Piatakov, shot after the January, 1937, trial, Trotzky's instructions for closer relations with Japan.

Through the indictment ran constant references to mysterious foreign diplomats and agents, usually designated simply as "Mister N."

Rakovsky was represented as confessing to treasonable relations with Japanese leaders. This confession also said Trotzky told Rakovsky that he [Trotzky] had been connected with the British intelligence service since 1926.

Rykov Linked with Poland.

The confession of Khodjaiev said Japan and Germany promised aid in wresting Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan from the soviet union, but that he had thought Britain would be a more fitting power to assume a protectorate over those mid-Asian republics.

Rykov, the indictment declared, confessed to treasonable relations with Poland and a plot to separate White Russia from the soviet union and establish there an autonomous state under Polish protection.

Grinko, former commissar of finance, confessed to negotiating a secret understanding with the Polish general staf for sending troops to the Ukrainian frontier. He said the Poles sent saboteurs and other agents into the Ukraine.

Gorky's Son a Victim.

The indictment cited the confession of Dr. L. G. Levin, former head of the Kremlin hospital, that he killed Gorky's son, Maxim Peshkov, as well as Gorky and two others.

Levin said Yagoda, at that time head of the dreaded GPU, ordered Pshkov's death in 1934. Levin said he was afraid to refuse. He was aided, he said, by Dr. D. D. Pletnyev, famous heart specialist, and P. P. Kruchkov, Gorky's private secretary, both defendants in this trial.

The indictment told a fantastic story of how prominent victims had been "cured to death."

It said Yagoda confessed:

"We knew that if we carried out a coup d'état and Gorky was not on our side he would raise his voice against us."

P. P. Bulanov, one of the accused and Yagoda's secretary, said he heard Yagoda advise Kruchkov to have Gorky catch cold. In view of the tubercular condition of the writer's lungs, he said it would be easy for Levin and Pletnyev to "finish the job."

Treaten to "Worsen Condition."

Pletnyev's confession said that when he was approached by Yagoda for help in the removal of Gorky and Kuibishev he first hesitated, then "accepted this terrible order." It went on:

"I then drew up a plan of treatment which would worsen their conditions and hasten their ends. My anti-soviet views helped me accept the order. I had been concealing those views until my arrest."

The confessions of Levin and Dr. I. N. Kazakov, head of a big clinic, said Kazakov was chosen to kill Menjinsky, whose removal was ordered by Yagoda, because Kazakov prepared his own medicine in his private laboratory. Menjinsky died in his sleep, Levin said, adding there was no doubt in his mind death was the effect of Kazakov's medicine.

Bulanov's confession said that Yagoda, who long had wanted Menjinsky, his predecessor as head of the secret police, removed, was "greatly annoyed by Menjinsky's keeping on living."

"As Menjinsky did not like Levin, we put Kazakov on," he said.

Gorky, who was 86 years old, died in June, 1936; Kuibishev in May, 1935, and Menjinsky in April, 1937.

KERENSKY ARRIVES IN U. S.; PREDICTS STALIN DICTATORSHIP'S FALL

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—The soviet treason trial was pointed out by Alexander Kerensky today as a sign of the approaching fall of the Stalin dictatorship over Red Russia.

Alexander Kerensky. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Kerensky, who overthrew the Russian czar in 1917 only to be exiled himself by the rise of bolshevism, arrived here from Paris aboard the Berengaria for a lecture tour.

"I can foretell tendencies," he said. "Imagine the great dignitaries of the government spying on behalf of foreign powers. It is an impossible situation. The end of this dictatorship is certain. It is the most ruthless tyranny in history."

WARN CHILDREN ABOUT SYPHILIS, DR. JIRKA URGES

Dr. Frank J. Jirka, former head of the Illinois department of health, urged parents to discuss syphilis and its prevention with their children in their homes in an address last night. He spoke before the Western Communities Public Health Council on Venereal Disease at a meeting held under auspices of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute in the Proviso Township High school in Maywood. Mrs. Theodore B. Sachs, executive director of the tuberculosis institute, disclosed that her organization is cooperating in the campaign against syphilis with educational work in its clinics.

Dramatic Rescue Cheats Icy River of a Victim

Providence, R. I., March 2.—[Special.]—Passersby today succeeded in rescuing Charles F. McEvoy from the icy waters of the Providence river, in which he was seen struggling. His shouts brought several rescuers to his aid, and one of them, Kenneth Sunderland, jumped into the river and swam to McEvoy. He held him up until others on the shore threw a rope to him. Grasping the rope in one hand and clutching McEvoy in the other, Sunderland held on until pulled ashore. McEvoy was unconscious, but was revived.

U. S. STUDIES RIGHTS TO SOVEREIGNTY OF SOUTH PACIFIC ISLES

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The long smoldering issue of the sovereignty of islands in the South Pacific promises soon to break out into a diplomatic exchange with Great Britain on the basis of lines now being carefully laid by the state and navy departments.

Recognizing the value of many of the small islands as airplane bases, an intensive study of the question has been in progress for more than a year by direction of Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The islands under investigation are the numerous ones of the Phoenix, Gilbert, Ellice, and other groups lying along and south of the equator from the vicinity of the international date line and extending toward Australia. Records of whaling voyages are being studied in Nantucket, Salem, New London, and other points in an effort to find proof of American priority in visiting these lands.

15th U. S. Infantry Leaves Tientsin; Served 25 Years

TIENTSIN, China, March 2.—(AP)—The 15th United States infantry left Tientsin today after a quarter century of service in North China during which, its officers boast, it has not fired a shot in anger. The regiment, stationed here under the Boxer protocol, is being withdrawn permanently, to be replaced by a marine detachment. It entrained for Chinwangtao to board the army transport Grant.

NAVAL OFFICER TRIED FOR BLAST FATAL TO SEVEN

Philadelphia, Pa., March 2.—[Special.]—As an aftermath of an explosion last August aboard the United States destroyer Cassin, which resulted in the death of seven men, a general court martial of Lieut. Henry M. Marshall, 34 years old, an engineering officer, is in progress.

The defendant supervised the installation of a new steam line on the destroyer, which was being reconditioned at the Philadelphia navy yard. When steam pressure was turned into the line in the No. 1 fire room to test a new escape valve the line blew out before the valve, killing four civilians outright. The three others died a few days later.

JILTED, HE KILLS WOMAN AND SELF AS SEVEN WATCH

Cleveland, O., March 2.—[Special.]—A suitor whose advances she had spurned shot and killed Miss Laura Cook, 40 years old, a beauty parlor operator and amateur astrologer, today as two other beauty operators and five customers looked on.

The suitor, identified from papers as Edward C. Gruneske, 46 years old, then sent a bullet into his head. He died a few minutes later.

Gruneske, according to police, walked calmly into the beauty parlor and asked to see Miss Cook.

"I want to say good-by," he said to Miss Cook as she was giving a woman a manicure.

"Please don't bother us now," Miss Cook replied.

Drawing a gun from his overcoat pocket, Gruneske fired twice, the first bullet missing. The second entered her head.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

QUESTION POWER OF CITY TO PRIME CRA RELIEF PUMP

Legality of Advancing $1,910,000 Challenged.

The city council yesterday voted a resolution advancing $1,910,000 to the Chicago Relief administration from the city's general funds, but the legality of the action was questioned by Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency. The resolution made the funds available to the CRA to provide relief during March and April.

"I don't know of any law which gives the city power to transfer funds in this way," Sutherland said. "It seems to me this is just another item in the already questionable legality of the city's 1938 budget."

Brand to Obtain Opinion.

Gustave Brand, city treasurer, said he would get the opinion of John Bolton, his personal attorney, before carrying out the council's order to make the $1,910,000 available.

"That's absolutely the last step the city can take to provide relief funds during 1938," said Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, referring to the $1,910,000. "When that money is gone, the city is through."

The council also adopted a resolution asking Gov. Horner to call an immediate special session of the legislature to vote additional state funds for relief. At the present time $2,900,000 in state money is allotted each month to local relief administering bodies in the state.

Charge Horner Sitdown.

Three leaders of the Illinois Workers' alliance, an organization of unemployed, asked the council to take this action. They said they were aware that Mayor Kelly and the council have done everything in their power to relieve conditions among those on relief, but asserted that Gov. Horner is on a sitdown strike against needed state action.

Members of the alliance formed a picket line around the city hall and county building at noon but disbanded when a committee was assured that the organization's speakers would be heard by the council. Police barred the group from the council galleries which already had been filled.

Leo M. Lyons, CRA commissioner, informed Mayor Kelly before the council meeting that he has only $694,000 in cash left from the 1938 appropriation for relief. This, added to the amount the council voted to advance the CRA, will give Lyons $2,604,000 in city money for relief purposes during this month and next.

Predicts Serious Situation.

The commissioner estimated he will need at least $1,200,000 in city money each month, in addition to more than $1,500,000 a month in state funds. He said Chicago will face a serious situation by May 1.

During 1936 and 1937 the city council appropriated $5,033,000 each year for relief. The appropriation for this year was $5,504,000. The city, under the state law, can sell tax anticipation warants for only 75 per cent of the relief levy of 30 cents on each $100 of real estate and personal property.

The cash raised in this way during 1936 and 1937—a total of $4,402,000 each year—was spent for relief in the past. Of the $4,794,000 worth of warants which the city can issue in 1938, the CRA already has spent $4,100,000, leaving a $694,000 balance with which Lyons has to work.

Council Gambles on Collections.

The difference between the appropriation for each year and the amount of warants that could be sold remained as a potential source of income if 100 per cent of the taxes could be collected. By its action yesterday the council gambled that these taxes will be collected some time. The $1,910,000 advanced to the CRA represents most of the difference between appropriations for 1936, 1937, and 1938 and the amount of tax warants sold in those years.

UNION OFFICIAL DENIES GUILT IN EXTORTION CASE

Cleveland, O., March 2.—[Special.]—Donald A. Campbell, president of the Painters' District council here, today took the stand and entered a blanket denial to charges that he had used his position to extort money from Cleveland business men. He will resume testimony tomorrow.

Earlier John E. McGee, president of the Laborers' District council, accused jointly with Campbell of extorting $1,200 from Vernon Stouffer, Cleveland restaurant owner, told the jury that he was fishing the day Stouffer testified he paid him the extortion money.

Under direct examination, Campbell specifically denied state testimony that he took money, or arranged to obtain money, from six contractors, store managers and business men on threat of preventing installation of plate glass on building projects.

Maybe This Is Why You're Constipated

Perhaps the kind of food you eat doesn't give your bowels anything to work on. Meat, potatoes and bread don't form the kind of soft, bulky mass that will help move your bowels.

If so, a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the kind of "bulk" your intestines may need to work properly. And in addition, it contains the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1, which helps to tone them. If you want to get at the cause of your trouble, eat some Kellogg's All-Bran every day—as a cereal or baked in muffins. And drink plenty of water. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Held in Vote Quiz

Henry Bergantz. Stanley Bishop.

Stanley Bishop, a paroled Missouri convict, was arrested yesterday and accused of vidlating the permanent registration law. Held with him were John C. Benson, Democratic captain of the 56th precinct of the 48th ward, and Henry Bergantz, 900 Montrose avenue, a barber.

Frank Christensen, special prosecutor for the board of election commissioners, told County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki that Bishop, at the suggestion of Bergantz, was given a job by Benson as an election clerk for the April primary.

Bishop, the prosecutor said, registered from a room on the third floor of the Wilson Club hotel, 1124 Wilson avenue. The third floor has been unoccupied for years. Christenson said Bishop was paroled recently from the prison at Jefferson City, Mo.

ABDUCTED BOY'S NOTE TO FATHER BEGS HIM TO PAY

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Peter Levine, 12 years old, who was kidnaped last Thursday in New Rochelle on his way home from school, has written a note to his father, Murray Levine, New York lawyer, begging him to pay the $60,000 ransom for which he is held, investigators revealed today.

The note, written in the boy's handwriting on the back of a typed ransom demand, said:

"Dear Dad: Please give these men the money. I have a bad cold. [Signed] Peter."

The ransom note, the third, was found Monday by Rabbi Abraham Nowak after a mysterious telephone call had directed him to a vacant lot next to the Bethel synagogue in New Rochelle. It demanded that the father make up a package of bank notes of $10, $20, $50, and $100 bills and drop the package at the base of a street light pole on East 172d street, the Bronx.

Levine definitly identified the handwriting on the back of the note as his son's.

BROKER ACCUSED OF LARCENY ASKS A TRIAL BY JURY

Douglas E. Brown of Hinsdale, a broker recently expelled from the Chicago Stock exchange, asked a jury trial yesterday and was granted a continuance to April 6 by Judge Rudolph Desort when he was arraigned in Criminal court on a charge of larceny by bailee. The complainant is Lucian E. Williams of 70 East Walton street, who formerly shared an office with Brown at 231 South La Salle street. Williams said Brown refused to turn over $35,000 in bonds Williams had left in the office vault.

COUNTY REALTY ASSESSED VALUE RISES 3 MILLION

County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday that completion of the 1937 real estate assessment shows the assessed value of real property in the county amounts to $1,704,759,453. This is $3,303,798 more than in 1936. Almost the entire increase is reflected in the assessment outside the city. Last year the country town assessment was $326,578,292, compared with $323,683,020 in 1936. This is due, Clark said, to more building in the suburbs, principally in residences.

Condition of Col. House Reported to Be Critical

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Physicians attending Col. Edward M. House, former adviser and intimate of Woodrow Wilson, reported him as "very weak" today. Col. House has been suffering from pleurisy. Although Col. House's illness is definitly in a critical stage, they said, it is of lingering character and no immediate change was expected.

JOHN L. LEWIS ENDS VACATION IN FLORIDA SUN

Only One Outburst Mars His Placid Existence.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 2.—[Special.]—John L. Lewis, boss of the C. I. O., left for the north today after a five day vacation during which he did none of the things that bring most people to this southern resort. As a matter of fact, his days were much the same as they would have been in the north, except for the sunshine.

Lewis did not golf nor swim in the surf. He did not swim in the pools. He did not gambol on the beach nor did he gamble in any of the casinos. Even the fish were safe; he didn't bait a hook.

Sits In Sunshine and Motors.

His diversion seemed limited to sitting in the sun and looking at Lake Surprise, so called because it was formed by the unexpected meeting of three Miami canals. Occasionally he went riding in a sixteen cylinder car, driven by a chauffeur. He spent most of his time answering scores of phone calls that kept an operator continuously busy.

Other guests of the quiet family hotel where he stayed were beginning to be disappointed in him until a photographer came in at luncheon one day. All was peaceful. The green frocked colored girls were gliding among the tables, their red bandannas adding splashes of color. Then came a roar from the Lewis table.

"Get out!" Lewis bellowed. "Why should I advertise this hotel? I bought my lunch and paid for it."

His daughter, Katherine, tried to placate the camera man.

"You startled daddy," she said. "You know it would not look well for daddy to be seen eating luncheon in such an affluent atmosphere."

Calls at Swanky Hotel.

The C. I. O. boss made only one call, visiting Harry J. Kelley, vice president of the Dominion Steel and Coal company of Sydney, Nova Scotia, who was staying at a fashionable beach hotel frequented by many titled English visitors. Mr. Lewis received many cold stares and returned them with interest.

On departing he said that he and Mrs. Lewis would motor leisurely to their home in Alexandria, Va., and that he would be back in Washington next week. Katherine Lewis went north by train.

QUESTION THREE IN SLAYING OF GERMAN DENTIST

Hope of solving the mysterious murder of Dr. Max Bernhard Sammet, exiled German dentist, was revived last night with the identification of two young men and a girl in a robbery believed to have been committed by the slayers.

Maxwell street police questioned the prisoners on their movements at the time Dr. Sammet was shot and left beneath a stairway at 229 South Paulina street on Feb. 20. The prisoners are Betty Trags, 1818 Blue Island avenue; Joseph Spino, 942 Polk street, and William Karas, 907 Harrison street. All are 19 years old.

Robert N. Wilson of 219 West 72d street identified them as the bandits who robbed him three days after Sammet was killed. Wilson said the robbers warned him they had killed the last man who resisted them.

STOP U. S. AID TO OKLAHOMA FOR PENSIONS

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The social security board decided today to cut off federal grants to Oklahoma for old age pensions, aid to the blind and aid to dependent children until the state complies with the social security act.

The board's order followed hearings on the board's charges of maladministration of all three plans.

Board investigators testified that an incomplete audit showed $685,000 had been distributed irregularly in old age pensions. They also testified that pensions had gone to dead men and that a butler had greeted an investigator who called at the home of one pensioner.

TWO MINERS KILLED.

Clinton, Ind., March 2.—(AP)—Two miners were crushed to death in a fall of slate today at the Submarine coal mine No. 2 at Centenary, west of Clinton. Both Constantino Berto and James Marietta, the victims, left large families.

STERLING STRIKE RIOTING BLAMED ON C. I. O. CHIEFS

Settlement Is Reached; New Clash Averted.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sterling, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Inflammatory and irresponsible leadership of C. I. O. radicals was blamed here today for two days of rioting in a strike at the plant of the Northwestern Barb Wire company. Six persons, including a deputy sherif, were shot in fighting early today and yesterday.

The strike was called off late today when C. I. O. leaders accepted terms they had spurned before the men were called out. The C. I. O. steel union failed to win a renewal of its exclusive bargaining contract, which expired Feb. 28. It took instead a contract giving the C. I. O. bargaining rights for its members only, unless it wins a national labor board election which union leaders said would be demanded.

Accuses C. I. O. Leaders.

Roy L. Morrison, secretary of an American Federation of Labor union at the barb wire plant, charged that pickets were inflamed to violence by C. I. O. leaders, including Michael Ostraski, an organizer in charge of the C. I. O. steel union office here, and Laurence J. Kelly, former president of the C. I. O. union and organizer. They were among the thirty-six persons arrested on riot charges by Sherif A. E. Hamilton, and were released last night on $2,000 bonds each.

Morrison also charged the C. I. O. imported strong arm men for picket duty.

"Yesterday," he said, "we saw eighteen men get off the train at 1 o'clock. They were all rough looking individuals. We have not found out where they came from, but we do know they went to the C. I. O. office. When the pickets were rioting there were many many strange faces in their ranks.

Claims A. F. of L. Majority.

"We believe the A. F. of L. has a majority at the Northwestern plant. We had expected that the C. I. O. would act in a sportsmanlike way and agree to abide by an election to determine which organization should represent the men. Instead they called this strike and caused all this violence and harm to the city."

A new outbreak of hostilities appeared imminent just before the strike was settled this afternoon. Groups of belligerent C. I. O. pickets, with piles of rocks at their feet, attempted to keep workers from entering the mills, while deputies guarded the plant entrances.

THE RULES

WHO CAN ENTER? This game is open to everybody—men, women, boys, and girls everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO? Every week day a picture containing the scrambled name of a movie star will be published until 36 have appeared. Unscramble the name. Use every letter in the picture. Write or print the name on the picture or a facsimile. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 36. DO NOT SEND THEM IN SEPARATELY.

WHERE TO SEND? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Movie Stars," Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. With your entry send a letter, giving your name and address and telling in 50 words or less, who is your favorite movie star and why. Letters will be considered only in the event of ties in naming the stars. Entries must be in the office of the Chicago Tribune by midnight, one week after Name No. 36 has appeared.

BASIS OF AWARDS. Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. Awards will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of unscrambled names. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid. In fairness to all, the Tribune cannot engage in any correspondence or discussions on this contest.

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION.

There is no respectable opinion even among the most ardent admirers of the American constitution that it should not be amendable or, indeed, that it should not be amended from time to time as experience and change of circumstances justify. The framers of the constitution recognized that their work was not perfect for all time and that as a living organism it must have the means of adjustment to meet new needs and conditions. Therefore they embodied in the instrument a method of amending which was in their opinion consistent with the essential character and purposes of the instrument. In this they clearly distinguished between a constitution, an embodiment of principles, fundamental, lying at the base of the structure of American society, and the laws to be enacted by recurrent legislatures. The latter, dealing with changeful matters, are properly subject to ready change. The former they proposed to place above the fluctuations of popular mood and impulse by providing a more deliberate process of amendment in order to give the citizenship time for discussion and reflection.

In the wisdom of that distinction every generation of Americans since the adoption of the constitution has overwhelmingly concurred. Indeed it is not openly challenged today, though there is much in the argumentation of the advocates of easier amendment that indicates a failure on their part to give the distinction the weight it deserves. The question really at issue is whether the method provided by the framers of the constitution in article V. has proven too cumbersome and ought to be altered so that the fundamental law may be more quickly and easily changed.

It should be understood at the beginning of any consideration of this question that proposals to make amendment easier refer to all the constitution, not merely a part or parts of it. Thus they would make it easier and quicker to modify, weaken, or completely abolish, for example, any part or all of the bill of rights, the right of free speech, free press, free assembly, free exercise of religion, so far as these are protected from congressional action.

Such demand as there is for making it easier to amend the fundamental law is not general and never has been. It has been and is the product of special groups of political busybodies convinced that some enactment inconsistent with constitutional principle ought to be passed without delay or that a sweeping change in our institutions is desirable. But if we respect the theory that fundamental principles of our government ought not to be frequently or hastily changed there is little or nothing in the history of our method of amendment to support the demand.

The most important amendments, the first ten, including the bill of rights, were adopted together immediately after the adoption of the constitution itself. The next amendment took 339 days to ratify; the 12th, 229 days. No amendment was submitted after 1803 until 1865, when the first of the emancipation of the slaves, the 13th, was adopted. It took 309 days for ratification; the 14th, 356 days; the 15th, 356 days. From 1869 to 1909 there were no amendments adopted. Then the 16th or income tax amendment was proposed, taking much the longest time for ratification, 1,278 days. Direct election of senators, submitted in 1912, took 359 days for ratification; prohibition, 396 days; woman's suffrage, 444 days; the lame duck amendment, 327 days, and the repeal of prohibition, 288 days.

There was a period of sixty-two years and a period of forty years in which there was no amendment of the constitution and no important demand for it. This was not the result of obstruction through the law of amendment. All told, the fundamental law has been amended twenty-one times. It has been estimated by Mr. Bainbridge Colby that up to 1936 there have been 3,148 proposals for amendment introduced in congress. Any congressman can introduce one whenever he wishes, but it is lucky for the country that they were not all launched upon the public, much less adopted. Only twenty-six proposals have been submitted to the people, of which twenty-one have been adopted by the required three-quarters of the states, and five have failed.

The delay complained of by advocates of easier and quicker amendment is, with one exception, in procuring a two-thirds vote in both houses in favor of submitting an amendment to the states. But this is left unchanged by the Norris amendment now under consideration by a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee. The one exception is the so-called child labor amendment, advocates of which are the main influence favoring easier amendment. In general, it has taken the states an average of a year and a third to ratify the amendments that have been added to the constitution. This is a longer period than it takes to pass a city ordinance or a state law, but unless we are willing to have the fundamentals of our national government in a state of flux and the most precious rights of the people to be always at the mercy of any violent gust of popular feeling, an average of a year and a third for ratification does not seem excessive. Common sense and honest self-examination will warn any one against hasty judgment in his or her private affairs and this certainly applies to the action of great masses of people, especially when they are dealing with their basic rights and with that framework of social and political order which a constitution provides.

OUR IMPORTED KU KLUX.

This country seems to be breaking out in a mild rash of Nazlism. As a species of itch it isn't yet anything nearly as bad as the least demonstrative of our own white nightied Ku Klux Klan exhibitionism, although its intelligence quotient, its liberality of opinion, and its resemblance to the worst cases of bad boy are about the same. Some people may think that Nazlism as an importation is worse than the native brand, and it may be natural for a person to prefer the indigenous to the alien.

Furthermore it is reasonable to protest that if we have to handle our own varieties of social aberration it is an imposition to have a foreign brand introduced to make the business a little harder. At a local demonstration of the nuisance, an expository meeting of the bund, the usual disorders ensued and the accounts of what went on are numerous. One person who was present merely, he says, as an interested observer relates that nothing objectionable took place; that "The Star-Spangled Banner" was suitably honored; that when the Nazi salute to the swastika was called for he stood up, did not salute, and was not slugged by a Storm Trooper who stood within slugging distance of him. That was a concession to the land of the free. He adds that the only disturbance was caused by two young "punks" who gave the communist salute and were promptly and properly arrested by the police.

It would not be astonishing if the police were getting confused and were uncertain as to what was permissible and what was not permissible alienism in public assemblage in this country. A conscientious policeman, eager to do his duty, but only that, might be puzzled to decide whether it was disorderly conduct to give the Stalin salute when the Hitler salute was called for, and whether the presence of Storm Troopers and the swastika made it criminally irreverent for anything symbolic of the communist party to be exhibited. The question may be much too delicate for ordinary police decision and it is not unlikely to be resolved on many occasions by the arrest of everybody who raises his voice and shakes his fist.

It happens, however, that the communists have beaten the Nazis to a preferred position. In recent years, in circumstances particularly favorable to them, they have attained the legality of a recognized political party, encouraged by many favors extended to them by radical Washington authorities and made important by their participation in many of our economic struggles. They may be said to have a better legal standing than the Storm Troopers, the bund, and the Nazi emblem. It may have been no more disorderly for the young communists to give the Red salute at the Nazi gathering than it would be for a Republican to yell "So's your old man" at a Democratic ward meeting.

It may be noted here as well as any other place that the American communist party, under the influence of Earl Browder, newly streamlined as a somewhat conservative Jeffersonian, has become merely an exponent of American democracy coöperating with the better elements of forward looking citizens. The party represents, Mr. Browder alleges, American elements which had most to do with the activities of 1776 and 1861. Some misapprehensions, says Mr. Browder, arise from misinterpretation of the communist slogan—the dictatorship of the proletariat. That, properly translated, means only that the American communists are an earnest outfit of American democrats who aspire to the freest expression of cherished American ideals of liberty. Give them liberty and the other fellow death.

MISS WEST, NOT AS SNOW WHITE.

A large number of people, apparently resolved to start the week right, appeared in the loop Monday morning and took position early in line, three and four abreast, trailing from a theater box office off toward the west side. It was an earnest, patient, and exalted queue, composed of stout, middle aged ladies, decrepit gentlemen, and gangling youth. They were waiting for the theater to open and permit them to enter, whereupon they would accomplish the object of their pilgrimage. They would see Mae West in person.

If the place and time are not mistaken this was the theater which was to have shown "Snow White" this week. Miss West is not intended to represent Snow White to the public. The patient people who waited for her were there to give their Freudian complexes a workout, and whatever complexes may be in "Snow White" it was the theory of the management that they would not fill two or three blocks of sidewalk.

Miss West's name is not mentioned any more on certain radio networks because of a bit she did in the character of Eve. Nevertheless it appears that the garden of Eden has its charms for people who never can hope to get there.

Editorial of the Day

GIVING GOVERNMENT ITS CHANCE.

[Boston Evening Transcript.]

America is familiar with the legislative day which may continue until ordinary days run into weeks. Here also is the custom of setting aside certain days for the consideration of certain kinds of legislation. But there is here nothing quite comparable to the private order recently issued by the whips' office of the British house of commons. It reads:

"Government business shall have precedence on as many Wednesdays immediately before Good Friday as the number of Wednesdays before Christmas on which it has not had precedence, and on as many Fridays immediately before Good Friday as the number of Fridays [reduced by three] on which it had not precedence before Christmas."

Mathematicians went to work as soon as the order was published. They found that under it Wednesdays became available to the government from Feb. 23 and Fridays from March 18. It would seem that the private order might have fixed these dates at a considerable saving in words, but Dickens pointed out that British officialdom of a past generation was adept in circumlocution, and it is apparently not a lost art.

Senators of the United States might see in this British procedure a suggestion with reference to the sacred filibuster. It might be decreed that for every day of filibustering there should be one hour for the enactment of legislation, excepting, of course, the measure against which the filibuster was directed. Were the hours made cumulative, there might emerge from a committee room in Washington an order similar to that now in effect at Westminster.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

THREE ALUMNI OF GRINNELL COLLEGE who got together over cokes in the Standard Oil building restaurant yesterday were John Canning Jr., Bill Crouch of Chicago, and Gary Cooper. It was a kind of preview for the annual meeting of Grinnell alumni to be held March 13 at the Chicago Woman's club. Gary Cooper has been back for a Grinnell homecoming once since he left college, and would like to get back for another for just one reason. He tried out for the dramatic club when he was in college, and was blackballed twice "for showing no promise."

"Come back again and we'll give you another chance," promised Canning.

LONG AN HOW.

(From the Chinese of Kan Tuin.)

On heaven-piercing mountain-peak, knee deep in rose-quartz cloud, balanced the Eight Immortals.
Making polite conversation, Han Siang-tsi, youngest of group, addressed Li-of-the-Iron-Crutch, saying:
"Your countenance mirrors the weariness of ages."
"Weary look," rebuked Li, "is privilege of Ancient Immortal.
I belonged to Immortal Society many dynasties before you were even little sparkle in revered male parent's optic."
"Sacred Waterbuffaio," muttered youngest Immortal, "must I hear these words all the rest of my immortality? In such case, how can I put heart into immortaling?"
Eternity is long time, even if you get late start.

K. M. S.

A BLACK-HAIRED BLUE-EYED WOMAN in a rose velvet wrap seen at a recent theater opening was Dorothy Dow, in private life Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald, one of Chicago's most prolific writers. Well known for her verse and for her life of Poe, "Dark Glory," she also writes—when she feels so inclined—for the pulps, and turns out her fiction tales with practiced ease. They sell as quickly as she sends them out. Her latest serious work is a play in blank verse, "Souvenir of Malmaison," that Ina Claire has read and is considering for a vehicle next autumn. It won the Maxwell Anderson prize at Leland Stanford in 1937.

WHEN RADIO ACTRESS MARGARETTE SHANNA ("Arnold Grimm's Daughter") went backstage to visit her brother, Sidney Smith, playing in the Maurice Evans company, she noted that the stage hands had the sets for "King Richard II." and "King Henry IV." labeled "Dickey the Deuce" and "Hank IV."

Sign of Spring.

The policemen's mounts have shed their winter coats and are sporting slick, shiny, new hair. Sure sign of an early spring, says the bluecoat on South Water street. The shedding is two weeks earlier this year.

CUFFNOTES—Thomas Mann, the German author and émigré, gets $2,500 for a lecture, which is tops as far as we have been able to find out. . . . You can buy phonograph records of Maurice Evans in scenes from "King Richard II."—of the deposition scene in Westminster hall, for instance, and of the prison scene in Pomfret castle. . . . And new records of old songs—songs of the gay '90s like "Annie Rooney," "Two Little Girls in Blue," and "My Old New Hampshire Home" are for sale, although I don't want any myself. . . . Street car No. 335 on Pulaski road has colored balloons hanging from the signal cord—puts passengers in a carnival spirit. . . . Although a fashion magazine says that Irene, the Hollywood hairdresser, removes hairpins from her patrons' heads by passing a magnet over them, the method has been in use in a beauty parlor at Armitage avenue and Humboldt boulevard for weeks.

"Keep Your Head Down, Fritzie."

Songs of world war vintage were sung when the Women's Overseas league held its annual dinner and radio party last Saturday evening, among them "Keep Your Head Down, Fritzie." "I was one of the Fritzies who kept his head down," volunteered a waiter. "And I was one of the Tommies aiming at you Fritzies," interposed another.

THE IMPENDING RETURN of Uday Shan-Kar to the Auditorium brings to mind that when Sculptress Malvina Hoffman was in India on her world search for racial types for her Hall of Man at the Field museum she went to Mahatma Gandhi and asked where she could find the perfect Hindu type.

"In the United States," he told her. "Look for Shan-Kar."

APROPOS THE MARIE LAURENCIN exhibit at the Arts club. Leo Buntman, a pushover for painting and eager to be a dealer since the time he was press agent for the outdoor art fair in Grant park, bought a signed Marie Laurencin print on the left bank in Paris last summer. Then he brazenly marched to the famed artist's studio, rang her bell, and asked her to sign it again. Miss Laurencin, who admits to 63 and looks twenty years younger, screamed when she saw the print and said it was a fake—that the print was from a genuine plate, but that the color and the signature were false. All this in a stream of French. Little Leo, dazed, started to retreat, but she took the print and wrote: "Cette gravure est bien de moi mais la signature et la couleur ne sont pas mises par moi.—Marie Laurencin." Then she gave him a pastel of one of her lovely ladies, autographed to him. And further proof to Buntman that she is an angel from heaven, she went down to the shop where he had purchased the doctored print and bought up the others with fake signatures and fake coloring without making trouble, because the dealer was a poor man and protested innocence of the fake.

THE ONSET OF APPENDICITIS.

MOST of us are fairly well versed in the characteristics of appendicitis—that type of inflammation which affects the bit of intestine attached to the lower end of the ascending colon. But some may not be. At any rate certain simple facts need to be reiterated.

We can compare the appendix to the finger of a glove. Bowel contents mixed with bacteria may fill this blind pouch and be unable to escape. Let us suppose that—in consequence—the upper end of this wormlike affair has become swollen shut so that nothing can move backward—that is, leave the pocket. There is then no means of releasing pus. The appendix enlarges, promptly becomes red, possibly gangrenous [without circulation], and may rupture unless the tension is relieved.

A typical attack is attended with pain which may be general over the abdomen or high up in the region of the stomach, later centering in the lower right side. While vomiting is a common accompaniment it is not always present and at first there may be no rise in temperature or of the pulse rate. Within a few hours, however, if the symptoms persist, a moderate fever will develop. In addition the victim will usually be constipated and evince a definite aversion to food.

While we have made great progress in both the recognition and treatment of this malady, the purpose of this discussion is to call attention to a recent hospital experience. A healthy, stout, overweight individual of 52, who was away from home on business, complained one afternoon of some slight abdominal aching. He did not feel especially ill; neither was he quite up to par. About the only indication was that he did not want to move. At 4 o'clock he went to bed, slept for an hour or two, after which he was visited by one of his associates who insisted that he take castor oil.

Four or five hours later the pain became more intense and the patient, much against his inclination, boarded a train for home. He made a railway journey of approximately 150 miles with a definite amount of abdominal distress but no vomiting. On arrival his family physician made a diagnosis of acute appendicitis as the white cells had mounted to 22,000 [normal 6,000]. Meanwhile the suffering had localized at the lower right side of the abdomen and there was definite nausea. Immediate operation was decided on and a large, gangrenous appendix was found and removed. There was considerable evidence of peritonitis about the lower end of the colon. To make a long story short, complete paralysis of the bowel followed and despite all that could be done recovery failed to come.

Looking back over this unfortunate series of events there were two plain mistakes. The first was the dose of castor oil. The second was the delay in perceiving a dangerous situation until 36 hours had elapsed from the time trouble first appeared.

I have no patience with surgeons who remove the appendix for every type of abdominal discomfort. Neither have I much sympathy for the one who temporizes with symptoms in this area attended with constipation and who pours a laxative into an obviously upset digestive canal. To me the entire episode represents stark tragedy—one that need not have occurred, yet one that is taking lives periodically in every community in the land.

We need more education to the end that we shall acquire greater respect for what goes on within the intestinal tract. Nature sounds the alarm and all that is required is to listen to the ringing of the bell. Under modern conditions—with good surgeons and good hospitals readily available—there is no reason to anticipate a death rate from appendicitis of more than one-half of 1 per cent. Nevertheless the mortality is far higher. It comes because we are indifferent to, or unaware of, beginning signs.

Laxatives should never be used in the presence of so-called stomach ache because they irritate the bowel to the point of contraction. For healing, rest and quiet are essential. Furthermore a cathartic serves as a strong stirring rod to mix things up, thus spreading inflammation—peritonitis. Its ultimate effect—all too often—is bowel paralysis which adds to our fatalities appreciably.

EXAMINATION ADVISED.

A. G. writes: An old man, who for fifty years has had a sedentary position, is now complaining of bleeding from the rectum. There is no pain. When he eats red meat or uses liquor blood appears more frequently. Is this dangerous?

REPLY.

It may be. Have a careful examination without delay. The cause may be hemorrhoids [piles]. The possibility of cancer, however, must be thought of.

PROBATE FOR TITLE.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A father dies leaving an estate, consisting of real estate and personal property, equally divided between five children. The will was probated and all legal requirements attended to. None of the heirs has ever married. One of the girls died leaving no will. The rest of the heirs agree to divide her share equally, and go on as before. Her share is not large enough for inheritance taxes. All debts are paid. Is it necessary to probate her share of the estate in order to use the personal property and obtain clear titles to the parcels of real estate? J. H. P.

Probate would be necessary in order to produce a real estate title that a contract purchaser could be forced to accept. The chances that a purchaser would be willing to waive the probate depends on how soon you will sell, how valuable the property is, how well the family history is known, etc. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HORSES AND MEN.

Lombard, Ill., March 1.—Riding down West Madison street today, returning from a fruitless application for a job where I had been rejected because I was past 40, I passed through the district formerly occupied by the horse sales barns. Any middle aged west sider will remember them, extending from Ashland to Western avenues, located in numerous places on both sides of Madison street, and comprising in those days a very necessary and active business. Personally, I had much contact with those concerns, buying horses in the country and shipping them to Chicago for sale, and also buying city horses for shipment to the country.

The situation in the horse market in those days was similar in a great many respects to the man market of today. Numerous firms had a hard and fast replacement policy. Teams were replaced, regardless of condition when they reached a certain age, and sent to the sales barns.

The brisk demand and big prices were naturally for the young horses, oftentimes mere colts, 3 or 4 years old, but with the handsome appearance, particularly in matched teams, which was deemed necessary for advertising purposes on the street. It required about a year of careful and skilful handling of these young horses before they would be thrown into heavy work or a hard pull, and a great many times careless or thoughtless drivers would ruin them before they reached full usefulness by requiring efforts of them which were dangerous to the immature bones and sinews. They would be about 5 years old before it was safe to put them into steady, hard work every day, and at 10 they were usually "sold down the river." That was approximately five years of full labor, and teams such as those cost $400 to $700.

I have bought such horses for shipment to the country at $200 to $250 or less, and many times they were better horses for all practical purposes than younger teams selling the same day for three or four times the price. Hardened, trustworthy and harness wise, and past the danger of spavin and wind-break, they could immediately be put into heavy work, and I have seen them still at it ten years later. I have bought these older horses many times, sound as a dollar and with not a pimple on them, for much less than their actual worth, simply because they had reached a theoretical age limit.

Seven years ago, at the bottom of the depression, I was worth $8,000 to $10,000 a year to my employers. Today, with all the added experience, I am finding it difficult to sell my services at any reasonable figure on account of my age.

I have hired men myself, and had men working for me, and I have a very decided preference for mature men for certain types of work, just as I will readily concede that for certain other types of work the younger men are preferable. The majority of employers seem to feel that at 40 or 50 the average man is burnt out and ready for the scrap heap in any line of endeavor.

Older men who have been with their firms over a long period of time and whose employers have survived these troublous times are constantly giving a good account of themselves, and what with their more mature judgment and experience and ability to intelligently direct their efforts, in many cases are doing a better job than a younger man would in the same place.

For a long, tough pull or a careful piece of work that requires sure, intelligent and well trained effort, the mature man is still, in my opinion, much the better investment. He knows from experience what his driver wants done and he won't get tangled up in the harness or break the wagon pole doing it, and as a rule he can be had for much less money than the "fancy stock." FOR ANOTHER PARKING RESTRICTION.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—We have a fire ordinance prohibiting parking within a restricted distance from a fire plug. Why not an ordinance prohibiting those inconsiderate motorists who block the mail boxes? THE PLAYS CHICAGO SEES.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Miss Vera O'Horan's letter on her attitude toward the subscription season in the theater of Chicago is interesting to a visitor who has been a herald in advance of a number of plays here during the last two years. I have the decided impression that Chicago is receiving and enjoying the best plays that the American theater now affords. True, it may not sufficiently support a play now and then that in almost general critical judgment is excellent theater; and it is true that such instances weigh heavily with the producing manager when he considers the financial risk of routing his play here. But on the whole, the response of Chicago playgoers has encouraged most managers to regard Chicago as once more a flourishing theatrical center.

Miss O'Horan's grievance that a play which has been running before crowded houses in New York is not closing its run in order to come to Chicago this season is scarcely a fair one. Nor do I think that she makes a very good point in complaining that the play with Sylvia Sidney did not come. It just did not leave New York and closed after a short run. Subscribers have at least known that it is not the practice to send to Chicago plays which have failed to succeed in New York. Probably there is a small body of playgoers here who would prefer to decide for themselves what they like, but for the most part the average playgoer wants to see only what has been pronounced a hit.

If, on the other hand, Chicago is given the première of a play by so estimable a dramatist as S. N. Behrman weeks before New York sees it and that fact becomes a grievance to Miss O'Horan, it is difficult to determine why she does not welcome the coming of two plays which are among the leading successes of the season and on which both the public and the critics have agreed with something like rapture.

It does not seem to me that there is here any invidious comparison between the east and the west, as suggested in the letter. If the Chicago playgoer wants more premières of plays in this city, obviously he must be ready to take a chance in going to see them just as the producer takes the hazard of thousands of dollars in producing them.

HELSINGFORS, Finland.—Military observers here believe the European and far eastern situation will be very dangerous this spring because soviet Russia has concentrated such large fighting forces in Siberia. War between Russia and Japan is believed to be near, and once Moscow becomes involved in the far east these observers believe it will spread to Europe.

General staf officers of Finland, Estonia, Latvia, and Poland consider the Red army largely bluff. With its transportation system on the verge of breakdown, with its officer corps demoralized by the purges of 1937, with many thousands of leading state officials, industrial leaders, engineers, and experts of all categories "liquidated" by the same purges, Russia, the staf officers contend, is weaker today than it has been for many years.

This viewpoint is supported by the reports of many diplomats in Moscow, who confirm that there is an atmosphere of terror and that the topheavy bolshevik burocracy is demoralized and inefficient.

Bolshevism has weakened Russia strategically. Until eighteen months ago the Red army could depend for valuable aid upon a large corps of foreign communists. Marshal Budenny, in a series of articles in the Krasnaija Svesda, official Red army newspaper, disclosed that Moscow expected these Reds abroad would stage strikes, demonstrations, and local uprisings, blow up bridges, cut telephone and telegraph lines, mine roads, and thus help the Red army to rout the enemy.

But the purges also included a majority of the leaders of the Finnish, Estonian, Lettish, Polish, and German communists in Moscow and Leningrad. Following mass executions and exiles among these groups, the government closed their newspapers, clubs, and societies.

This weakened the communist movement in these countries and today if war developed the Red army could not depend upon the help which Budenny anticipated.

The reign of terror and unending purges have cost bolshevism many friends both in the neighbor states and in countries farther away from Russia's borders. The recalls and disappearances of ambassadors, ministers, and secretaries and trade officials who for years worked to build up respect and friends for bolshevism abroad have done enormous harm to Russia's prestige.

And it is an interesting fact that Russia's neighbors are no longer afraid of her. They believe a war would result in the destruction of the bolshevik régime.

TWO WIDOWS, SIX OTHER KIN SEEK $100,000 ESTATE

Second Wife Asks Shares for Children.

A legal fight for the $100,000 estate of Charles H. Brainard, a construction engineer, began yesterday, with Brainard's first wife and his six brothers and sisters arrayed against a woman who asserts she married Brainard without knowing he had another wife.

Brainard, who was 61 years old, was killed accidentally on March 8, 1937, while installing machinery in an Indiana mine. He left no will.

Hearings Open Before Master.

His brothers and sisters brought suit in Circuit court seeking division among them of title to his home at 605 North Ashland avenue, River Forest. Judge John Prystalski referred the case to Master in Chancery John Sbarbaro, who opened hearings in his office at 10 South La Salle street. The Circuit court's decision on the ownership of the home is expected to govern the decision of the Probate court on the legal heirs to the balance of Brainard's estate.

The background of the litigation, as related by attorneys in the case, dates to 1900, when Brainard married Gertrude Gullickson. In July, 1929, Brainard married Laura Farthing without telling her he had another wife, according to Lloyd Moody, counsel for Mrs. Laura Brainard. Two children, Charlotte, now 7 years old, and Patricia, 6, were born of this second marriage, Moody said.

Seeks Share for Children.

Laura Brainard is now living in the River Forest home with her children. Gertrude Brainard, who lives at 428 Rex avenue, Elmhurst, recently was declared incompetent in the Du Page county Probate court and has an appeal pending from that ruling. Meanwhile her brother, Rollo Gullickson, 908 Greenwood avenue, is administrator of her interests.

Laura Brainard seeks no share of the estate for herself, but contends that each of her two children is entitled to a third. Attorney Moody asserted that even if Brainard's second marriage was bigamous, without Laura's knowledge, the children are regarded as legitimate and should receive two-thirds of the estate.

Brainard's brothers and sisters are John A., Louis J., George E., and Peter W. Brainard and Mrs. Bertha Egbert and Mrs. Lillian Silsbee.

COURTNEY STIRS UP SIMMERING POLICE SCANDAL

Conflicting Stories Add to Muddle.

is not far from a logical route to Flannery's place at 1553 North Clark street.

The Confusion Grows.

McKune, on the other hand, said that he had picked up Flannery in a saloon on Belmont avenue and had taken him in the McKune car to the McKune home. They were in disagreement also about what car they used to take Peters to the station.

"We went in Peters' car," said McKune.

"We went in McKune's car," said Flannery [supported by Peters].

The mysterious Tip also was the subject for a few discreet differences.

"I left Tip with Flannery," said McKune.

"I turned that fellow Tip over to Frank and Thompson," said Flannery.

"They didn't," asserted both uniformed policemen.

Makes Prudent Decision.

Peters' version was that Tip was told to go by himself to the station and prudently failed to do so.

Sergt. Michael Ahern, in charge of the Town Hall detectives, said it appeared that Peters was brought to the station about 8:30 p. m., about forty minutes after the robbery.

"I was never informed that he was in," the sergeant added. "Later Flannery told me that he had given a pass to a friend of his whom two policemen had arrested at Dover and Leland. I didn't know it was a robbery case and had no other information. I left a message for the captain about it. I know and the detectives know that after a man is once in a police station he can't be released except on the captain's order."

Irked at Delay in Report.

It became known that the state's attorney greatly disapproved the way in which the police delayed reporting to him on the case. The facts were all laid before Acting Captain Patrick O'Connell on Monday, and Supervising Captain Joseph Goldberg and Commissioner Allman were aware of the circumstances on Tuesday. None of them, however, mentioned the matter to Mr. Courtney, who must prosecute any charges against Peters and the detectives. When he read of the case in the newspapers yesterday Mr. Courtney called for the records and commanded that all the witnesses be brought before him.

Peters has been charged with attempted robbery. He will be arraigned in the Felony court today. McKune and Flannery, who are at liberty in bonds of $2,000, will be in the same court on charges of permitting the robbers to escape.

PARENTS RACE BY AIR AND RAIL FOR CUSTODY OF SMALL DAUGHTER

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Two estranged parents raced each other from Chicago to New York today—one on an express train, the other in a plane—in a struggle for custody of their daughter, Patsy Smith, 5 years old.

On the train, with Patsy, whom he took Tuesday from a La Grange, Ill., convent, was Harold T. Smith, sand and gravel contractor, who lives at the New York Athletic club.

Pursuing by plane—with a late start—was Mrs. Smith, who danced in Ziegfeld choruses under her maiden name of Joey Benton. She landed at Newark airport at 2:25 a. m. and hurried to Manhattan to try to intercept her husband and child.

Mrs. Smith had custody of Patsy under a ruling of the Illinois courts, but her husband displayed a New York court order before the nuns at Our Lady of Bethlehem convent and persuaded them to release his daughter.

HIT LA GUARDIA FOR RECORD TAX IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Calling Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia "the most expensive luxury the city has ever indulged in," the Democratically controled committee on finance of the city council moved late today to adopt, with regrets, New York City's highest tax rate—$2.80 per $100 of assessed valuation.

There was nothing else for the committee to do, although there was a desperate attempt upon the part of Councilman Howard Spellman, Democrat of Manhattan, to lower the rate arbitrarily to $2.64, last year's rate.

"The people of this city are riding a merry-go-round," declared Councilman Joseph P. Sharkey, Democrat, of Brooklyn, "with the mayor riding the lead horse. Pretty soon the taxpayers ought to realize that the mayor is the most expensive luxury the city has ever indulged in. They reelected him and now they're paying the piper."

Asks Council to Legalize Frame Homes in Fire Limits

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] yesterday proposed to the city council an ordinance legalizing the construction of protected frame dwellings for single families within the city's fire limits. The protection specified is a fireproof veneer an inch thick on the exterior walls. Ald. Lindell said the ordinance is designed to stimulate home building by reducing the minimum cost of construction.

KING AND PAUPER PAY TRIBUTE AT D'ANNUNZIO BIER

Italy Gives Soldier-Poet Place with Immortals.

Gardone Riviera, Italy, March 2.—(AP)—Gabriele d'Annunzio, whose genius and daring Italians revered, although his mysticism sometimes puzzled them, today received in death the tribute Italy reserves for her immortals.

Premier Benito Mussolini, his face lined with grief, headed the high personages who paid homage at the bier of the warrior-poet who lay in state in his Villa Vittoriale.

D'Annunzio died last night and a state funeral was fixed for tomorrow, but after Il Duce conferred with members of the family it was announced it probably would be postponed until Saturday or Sunday to accommodate the crowds wishing to view the body.

Humble Grieve With Great.

Humble citizens trooped through the great iron gates of the estate to look for the last time on the inscrutable face of the conqueror of Fiume. Hundreds of shuffling feet murmured a requiem for the dynamic spirit which found expression in bold exploits, ardent love, fierce oratory, feverish opposition and writing.

D'Annunzio's body was clad in the uniform of a general of aviation and draped with a blood stained flag which once covered the body of one of his officers killed in the march on Fiume in 1919. After the funeral services it will be carried to the forecastle deck of the destroyer whose prow stands on the "sacred hill" of the estate. It will remain there one night and then be placed beside his mother in the marble tomb already prepared at the top of the hill in D'Annunzio's private cemetery.

King Sends Emissary.

King Vittorio Emanuele, whom Mussolini informed of the poet's death, designated his cousin, the duke of Bergamo, to represent him at the funeral.

The duke and duchess of Genoa, who were married today, interrupted their honeymoon to join the mourners here.

In Rome the chamber of deputies adjourned in D'Annunzio's honor and the meeting of the Fascist grand council scheduled for tomorrow night was postponed until March 10. D'Annunzio, as president of the Italian academy, was an ex-officio member of the grand council.

Enshrined With Marconi.

The council of the academy issued a proclamation which called the dead president "the only worthy successor of Marconi"—the Marquis Guglielmo Marconi who died last year.

D'Annunzio's son Gabriele arrived from Rome last night.

The reading of the poet's spiritual testament, which is in Mussolini's possession and to which all Italy looks with the expectation it will contain a political pronouncement, probably will take place after the funeral.

Injured at Hotel

J. Thomas Moore (left), antique shop manager, and the Rev. John Hefferman, both of Elkhart, Ind., found injured in basement of Palmer house.

Two residents of Elkhart, Ind., an antique dealer and a Catholic priest, remained unconscious in St. Luke's hospital last night while police tried to establish how they were injured in the Palmer house. They were found early yesterday at the bottom of the stairs leading from the Palmer house arcade to the basement of the hotel. Police said it was possible that one might have fallen over the railing and that the other had fallen in an attempt at rescue. The injured are J. Tom Moore and the Rev. John Hefferman, assistant pastor of St. Vincent church in Elkhart.

BOY, 4, INJURED BY CAR OF HIT AND RUN DRIVER

Struck by the car of a hit-and-run driver on Lawrence avenue yesterday, Henry Bogardt, 4 years old, who lives at 5002 Lawrence avenue, was badly cut and bruised. The child was treated in a nearby physician's office and then was taken home.

Mrs. Clara Crawford, 56 years old, of 2426 North Campbell avenue, died in the Bethany hospital last night of injuries incurred on Feb. 12 when she was struck by an automobile at Campbell and Fullerton avenues. The driver of the car, Otto Sidemann of 5706 North Clark street, was released after an investigation by the Shakespeare avenue police.

Mrs. Anna Aaron, 65 years old, 1209 South Lawndale avenue, who was struck by an automobile on Feb. 27 in the 3600 block on Roosevelt road, died yesterday in Mount Sinai hospital. Alex Glick, 23 years old, 1330 South Avers avenue, was the driver of the car.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 157 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since the first of the year. Of these, 127 were killed in Chicago, where 2,766 were injured in the same period.

FOUR CHICAGO DRIVERS LOSE DRIVING RIGHTS FOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Four Chicagoans lost their driving privileges yesterday in the Safety court of Judge Charles S. Dougherty. They are:

CARL LARSON, 5243 North Lind avenue, charged with driving while intoxicated; sentenced to ten days in jail and driving privileges suspended for ninety days.

ARNOLD GRIFFIN, 4154 North Sacramento avenue; driving while intoxicated; five days in jail and sixty days' suspension.

STEVE ZOOK, 2539 Thomas street; reckless driving; $10 fine and sixty days' suspension.

FELIX ALDERIST, 2432 Fillmore street; reckless driving; $10 fine and ninety days' suspension.

Order Love Rival Slayer Held to the Grand Jury

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that John Roccoforti, 28 years old, of 1127 Hudson avenue, be held to the grand jury for the murder of Bernard Vittallo, 21, of 3200 Walnut street. Roccoforti, who says he was Vittallos rival for the affections of Margaret Nickolson, 29, of 713 North Lawndale avenue, told police he shot Vittallo last Saturday in self-defense.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Joan Ryerson Will Be Bride of Bostonian

BY JUDITH CASS.

Of interest in Boston and Chicago this morning is the announcement Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson of Lake Forest is making of the engagement of her daughter, Joan, to George W. Brewster Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brewster of Beacon street, Boston.

Miss Ryerson and Mr. Brewster plan to be married here late in May, and they will live in Boston. Miss Ryerson, a granddaughter of Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, was educated at the Foxcroft school, and later studied abroad and in Boston for two years. She has just returned to Chicago from Boston.

It was in December two years ago that Miss Ryerson was introduced to society at a dinner-dance at the Casino, given also for her debutante cousin, Miss Nancy Ryerson, daughter of the Edward L. Ryersons. Miss Nancy Ryerson will be married in June to George A. Ranney Jr.

Mr. Brewster was graduated from Harvard in 1929. He is an architect.

Laura Louise Eales Engaged to Easterner.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert William Eales gave a small family dinner at their apartment, 3202 Sheridan road, last week to announce the engagement of their daughter Laura Louise to Norman King Parsells, son of Mrs. Fred R. Parsells of Springdale, Conn.

Miss Eales, who returned from a week's visit with her fiancé and his mother in time for the announcement party, was graduated from the Girls' Latin school in 1930 and from Wellesley college in 1934. Mr. Parsells was graduated from Yale university in 1929 and from the Yale law school three years later. He is practicing law in Bridgeport, Conn., where he and Miss Eales will make their home following their wedding next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Eales, who were in Roca Raton, Fla., for a short visit, left for California on Sunday.

Southwest Gets Full Share of Vacationers.

Travel to the west has been less noticeable than the southward exodus which started in January, but California and Arizona resorts gradually have been filling up with Chicago visitors. A letter from Phoenix brings news of one of the loveliest parties given there this season, a cocktail party Mrs. J. Ogden Armour gave for Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine.

Mrs. Armour took over the sun room of the Arizona Biltmore for her entertaining, and among the guests were several Chicagoans who are holidaying in Phoenix, including the Francis Neilsons, Miss Nora Carney, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, the Hugh Foresmans, the George A. Carpenters, Miss Betty Armour, who is Mrs. Valentine's debutante granddaughter, and Miss Kay Goodman.

Also present to fête Mrs. Valentine, who is returning to Chicago probably next week, were the James Minottos [Idamay Swift] of Mission ranch, Phoenix; Patrick A. Valentine Jr., and Mrs. Vernon Booth of New York, who is Mrs. Valentine's sister.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory and her daughter and son-in-law, the Raymond E. Durhams, left yesterday for Chandler, Ariz., where they will find among other vacationers at this resort the Frederick H. Scotts and Mrs. Charles E. Galloway. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sweetser, who were visiting her mother, Mrs. Gregory, have gone to Winnetka for a few days with Mrs. William Gold Hibbard. They will return east today.

The Charles B. Goodspeeds, the junior Mr. and Mrs. William Dodge Horne, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, and Mrs. Ruth Campbell Meeker all are at the Castle, Hot Springs, Ariz.

English Union Holds Tea for Actors Today.

Samuel M. Rinaker, president of the English Speaking union, returned with Mrs. Rinaker from California on Tuesday and will introduce Maurice Evans at a tea the union is giving for the actor this afternoon at the Arts club.

There will be several other guests at the tea to share honors with Mr. Evans, including the principals of the cast of "King Richard II.," now playing at the Grand Opera house, and Estelle Wynwood, Muriel Kirkland, Bramwell Fletcher, and Jessie Royce Landis of the Noel Coward cycle of plays, "Tonight at 8:30." It will be a farewell party for the last four actors, for they are leaving Chicago Saturday.

Pouring today will be Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, Mrs. Solomon B. Smith, Mrs. Charles Wilmerding, Mrs. John J. McDonough, Mrs. Byron Elting, and Miss Ruth Briede.

A block of seats has been reserved for use by union members tomorrow night.

Open Hutchins Art Exhibit Tomorrow.

Pouring at a tea to open an exhibit of pen and ink drawings and sculpture by Maude Phelps Hutchins [Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins] tomorrow at the Dell Quest galleries will be Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Mortimer Adler, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Cunningham Stark, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. William Woodward, and Mrs. William B. Benton. Included in the sculpture exhibit will be a head of Mrs. Stark.

The Art institute, the Municipal Art league, and the Artists of Chicago have cards out for the opening reception of the 42d annual exhibition by artists of Chicago and the vicinity from 8 until 10 o'clock Wednesday night, March 16. There will be music.

There is a possibility that at the next art exhibit of the Chicago Junior league a portrait of Nelson Eddy, stage and screen star, will be hung. Mrs. J. Bernard Mullen, who paints under the name of Buell Mullen, is engaged on a portrait of Mr. Eddy

Dr. Don Frank Fenn of Baltimore, Md., told his Ash Wednesday congregation at Harris theater yesterday that the most dangerous situation today arises from the fact that so many people who claim to be religious are really atheists. Keynotes of the Baltimore pastor's sermon follow:

"The most dangerous atheist is the man who finds that he believes in a supreme being. He does not know what he means by it and it has no practical significance. The most dangerous kind of atheism is practical atheism. Many profess to believe in God and worship him regularly on Sundays and utterly deny him in the practical things of living.

"There are labor leaders, business men, financiers, politicians, diplomats and others who are faithful members of churches but to whom it never occurs that God may have any wish or will with relation to the things they do day by day.

"God is a God of law and order, as revealed in the universe he created. God also created men and decreed that they live in society."

Catholic worshipers throughout the city yesterday observed the traditional rites of Ash Wednesday. It is estimated that throughout the Chicago archdiocese approximately a million foreheads were signed with ashen crosses. Many Episcopal churches observe the same custom. The ashes are remains of burned Palm Sunday palms of last year.

Bishop George Craig Stewart was the Ash Wednesday preacher last night at St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston.

Market Town Sponsors Girl in Opera Debut

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

All along the South Water market the news is going around, "Did you hear about Harriet?" Meanwhile Harriet's switchboard is doing double duty, as her friends in the market ask, "Are you really going to sing in opera, Harriet?"

Of course the South Water Market Merchants' association has known it all along, as they officially are sponsoring Miss Harriet Gricus in her debut in "Rigoletto." By now every one who knows her knows about it, and she knows hundreds of produce men, commission men, growers, and office workers.

On Sunday, March 13, the switchboard operator and stenographer at the Chicago Produce Publishing company, 1414 Aberdeen street, will be transformed as Gilda, the leading rôle of "Rigoletto," in the Auditorium theater. The opera is being produced by the Chicago International Opera company. The cast is made up of Metropolitan Opera company singers, among them Armand Tokatyan and Joseph Royer, and Chicago artists.

Miss Gricus is 21 years old, with naturally blonde hair and brown eyes. She lives with her mother, Mrs. Sophie Gricus, a widow, whom the daughter supports, at 3433 Emerald avenue.

Men are clumping in and out of the publishing company, past her switchboard, where she runs a sort of information service, all day long. From without come the odors of vegetables, fruits and other produce. Two hundred and fifty of the men and women who, as Harriet says, make up a little village of their own in the South Water market, have bought tickets to hear her, Carl C. Casperson, vice president of her company, estimated.

In Lithuanian her name is Jadvyga Gricaite. Her father and mother lived in the old country and he studied voice in the Russian School of Arts in Moscow, she said. He sang a great deal until he came to this country, and even then he sang enough to teach her folk songs. She was born on a farm in Spring Valley. A few years later the family moved here, and the father was foreman in a furniture factory when he died.

Three years ago Harriet went to Mario Carboni, in the Auditorium theater, and began taking lessons.

Harriet is a graduate of Lindblom High school. She also used to sing in the parish choir of St. George's church, 32d street and Lithuanica avenue.

Film Folk Marooned by Flood; Postpone Academy's Banquet

Hollywood, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—Storm conditions tonight caused postponement for one week of the annual awards banquet of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The postponement from tomorrow night to March 10 was announced after it was ascertained many of the 1,300 movie actors, directors, producers, and technicians who had reservations were marooned by flood waters.

Army Relief Society Holds Ball March 23

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Other organizations could use to advantage some of the military precision with which plans have been laid out for a military ball the Army Relief society is giving March 23 at the Lake Shore Athletic club. As wife of the commanding officer of the 6th Corps area, Mrs. Hugh A. Drum is chairman of the party. The proceeds will be used for the relief of needy widows and orphans of officers and enlisted men of the regular army.

Mrs. Drum and her large committee have worked out all of the details of the party, which always is a gay and brilliant affair, and each committee member has started on his or her particular job. Maj. Archelaus L. Hamblen has been placed in charge of all ball activities that evening except the bridge and card games.

There will be a short receiving line that night. Gen. and Mrs. Drum and Mrs. William H. Hubbard, who is honorary president of the society, will head the line, which will include also the area's new chief of staf, as yet to be appointed. Gen. Robert M. Danford, the present chief, and Mrs. Danford will be in Washington by the time of the ball, for he has been transferred there as the new chief of field artillery.

Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Paul Newgarden, Mrs. George P. Hayes, and Mrs. Stephen Roby are some of the women on the committee. Mrs. Roby and Maj. Thomas A. Dobyns Jr. are in charge of the sale of flowers and cigarets, and the young women who will sell them. Maj. H. R. Priest is in charge of finance, and Maj. Hayes is in charge of selling and collecting tickets.

Mrs. Robert Starrett will have charge of decorations. Col. Vernon E. Pritchard and Capt. James S. Winn Jr. are delegated to form the receiving line in front of the fireplace in the general lounge room, and to conduct the members of the receiving line to the head of the column in the ballroom immediately preceding the grand march.

Gen. and Mrs. Drum will lead the grand march, followed by Admiral Hayne Ellis and a partner; Gen. and Mrs. John A. Prosser, Col. and Mrs. John B. Shuman, and Col. and Mrs. Starrett.

Francis Chapin Is Delightful in New Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A thoroughly delightful group of water colors and lithographs compose the exhibit of Francis Chapin's recent work which is on view in the Roullier galleries, 701 Fine Arts building, to March 11.

The water colors are fresh and sparkling, with a great deal that derives from the French in their glamorous, sketchy atmosphere. Mr. Chapin is apparently [on evidence discovered in the show] the extremely proud father of two attractive little children, one a mere infant but already grist to his father's mill, and their several likenesses are among the most attractive works in the exhibit.

"Baby at Three Months" is sound asleep in his carriage, a pert little profile being all to attest to his gender. Big sister Nan is much more active. She sits in a boat [her face as full as the moon] or poses patiently in a striped sweater or a sunbonnet, or jolliest of all, merely exists as a focus point of color and cherubic solidity in various park and street scenes.

The water colors are extremely gay and cheerful. The playground by a river with a swing in the foreground and a colored nurse and baby in the background even goes so far as to verge on the academic in drawing. It is amazingly intelligible.

The "North Park Avenue" is another bewitching water color, charming in its sudden strokes and splashes of color and charming for its fascinating, young 4 year old who backs into you as you gaze up the street.

The lithographs are admirable; in particular do not fail to see the "Horse Auction, Chicago Stockyards."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The style committee of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association submits this coiffure as typical of the spring trend that will be the motif of the gold trophy contest to be held during the coming midwest beauty trades show. Hair is high at front and sides, with a modified page boy roll in back.

The annual harbinger of spring in the beauty field is the midwest beauty trade show of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association. It opens next Monday at the Hotel Sherman—in its own way something of a three day festival for those experts who guide us in our quest for good looks.

The hair stylists—coming from all parts of the country—will gather in solemn conclave to decide whether locks will fly high or fall low this spring. A new hairstyle will be born about every minute during the three day session and you may be sure that out of all these there will be some important innovations. The Chicagoans have politely invited New York's impressive Coiffure guild to send out its best artists to demonstrate their skill, which they will do at the opening session.

Then there will be educational sessions liberally sprinkled in the program. Several top men and women in the highly technical fields of permanent waving, hair dyeing, and dermatology will give lectures and demonstrations for the benefit of the visiting shop owners and operators.

From Nebraska comes Miss Agnes Schmitt who is unique in her field—she is a specialist in children's hairstyling. In a typical schoolroom setting Miss Schmitt will feature various types of coiffures for children in kindergarten on up through the elementary grades.

For several weeks the association has been searching for a "plain Jane" to be entered in the "Hidden Beauty" contest. The fortunate plain girl will experience a complete metamorphosis with the aid of everything beauty experts have to offer—and all in the space of three days. Expert hairdressing, makeup, and carefully selected clothes will erase her plainness, the beauticians guarantee.

There will also be the annual gold trophy contest, which brings out the best hairdressers in competition.

President Marc Gartment of the association announces that the trade exhibits will be numerous and interesting, with more than a hundred of the leading manufacturers showing their new wares. ELEANOR NANGLE.

New Accessory Styles Available for Youngsters

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Youngsters with preferences for what's good, even though it's a miniature copy of what mother or big sister wears, can find grand assortments in the junior matched accessory showings. Bags, gloves, sweaters, hankies, stockings, and socks, and even rainy day apparel can be selected without racing from one floor to another.

See the newest copper colored finds, duplicated in tone from the grownup models. You'll find fetching little handbags with or without strap handles, tiny gloves of kidskin to match, and equally intriguing belts also the same shade. You can find spanking white kidskin gloves for Sunday and party wear; tiny squares of white linen, seven to a box, with each day embroidered on each hanky from Monday to Sunday, and all in different colors.

See the printed slickers, with belts, pockets, and turnoever collars matched to umbrellas of the same color and printed pattern. The greens and reds are especially effective, with their small off-white patterns cheerfully spattered all over the surface.

In these havens of loot for small folk you'll find the newest charm bracelets, the gayest pins in vivid colored carved wood, all the cunning little dog pins, clips, and bracelets, small bracelets, and matching necklaces of pearls, the loveliest of pint sized party bags in silk lace and colorful prints.

Problem Boy of Music Is Mild Mr. Hindemith

BY EDWARD BARRY.

He is not really a terrifying person, this Paul Hindemith whose very name sends shivers of horror through the frames of most of the music teachers of the world. He came to town yesterdsy to prepare for his appearances with the Chicago Symphony orchestra tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

He is gracious, patient, too, in trying to understand a question fully and in submitting to queries which must be as old as the world to him.

The great German composer is a pleasant, fairly stout, and smallish man who looks a little more than his 42 years. He gently deprecated the idea that his early music, which set the world on its ear, represented any startling announcement of a new era. "I am always trying to improve," he said in effect, "and I hope that my newer music is cleaner and simpler and more straightforward than anything I did in the past."

His statements give no impression whatever that they are intended as earth shaking pronunciamentos. This man with the bright, intelligent eyes and the majestic forehead [thinning and disappearing hair, alas, has emphasized the latter feature] speaks simply and earnestly of what is closest to him in interest. Speaks simply and earnestly, too, of things in which he obviously has no interest whatever, for his courtesy is not the least noteworthy of his qualities.

Yet there is no false modesty about Mr. Hindemith. He did not protest in any way when I used the phrase "other great composers" to describe some of his contemporaries.

He is not especially interested in questions of musical theory, but holds steadfastly to the belief that content determines

The composer is honestly surprised at the way his music has made its way in the world. He expressed himself as thoroughly well satisfied with the number of performances his works are now receiving in Germany, France, England, and Italy.

Paul Hindemith is the linear contrapuntist, the man who lets his voices go where they will, even though polytonality [music in two or more keys at once] happens to be the result. Simplicity and a clear line and a direct expressiveness. These are much more important to him than the "rules" established unwittingly by men who were as thoroughly "radical" as he in their day.

Politics? He knows nothing about them! Four weeks out of Germany, Mr. Hindemith explains that he did nothing in Berlin but put notes upon paper and that he has been busy and in motion ever since.

Tonight's performance of the Symphonic Dances, which Mr. Hindemith will direct, is the first of this work in the United States. He is to play the solo viola part in "Der Schwandreher," which we heard last spring at the Arts club on the occasion of the composer's first visit to Chicago. The Chamber Music No. 1, played recently by Hans Lange and his chamber orchestra, is the other Hindemith item on tonight's and tomorrow afternoon's program.

Kay Francis Picks Her Fifth Husband—Tall German Baron

Hollywood, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—Kay Francis' fifth husband will be Raven Erik Barnekow, a German baron who is in the airplane business.

The brunet star, admitting her engagement today, said she and the baron plan to be married "some time within the next few months" at her home in Coldwater canyon. She said they would honeymoon in Europe.

The studio press department said Miss Francis described Barnekow as "tall, blondish, and youngish," and that she gave the impression he represented some mid-European power. Barnekow also is said to have an English title.

Miss Francis gives her age as 35.

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., March 3.—Joan Crawford studies her scripts in bed. . . . Loretta Young, who is lazier, studies them in the morning while the hairdresser has her under the dryer. . . . Robert Taylor added 30 pounds to his weight after hiring a trainer. . . . Hardest workers out here are the dancers, Astaire, Bolger, Eleanor Powell, and Ginger Rogers. . . . The rehersing wears them down to a frazzle.

George Raft is one of the few Hollywood stars who can get along peacefully with Sylvia Sidney on a set. . . . No star has made a more significant comeback than Connie Bennett, in "Topper" and now "Merrily We Live." . . . Jones is a Scranton, Pa., lad.

Kay Francis says the most enjoyable experience she ever had in show business was working in the film version of "The Coconuts" with the mad Marx brothers . . . with Chico slugging her, and Harpo chasing her. . . . Don Ameche's greatest friend and severest critic is the Rev. Father Sheehy of Catholic university, who introduced him to his wife and married them.

Good Morning!

We would sell you this morning a sparkling, lightweight comedy of manners.

Sophisticated but not too sophisticated; funny, suspenseful, and tricky is this gayly and appropriately titled Annabella-Powell starring vehicle. Located in Budapest, its hero is a perfect butler, who huttles for the prime minister and continues to serve him long after he, the butler, has become an opposing power in parliament.

Politics ultimately interfere with proud servitude, but never with personal loyalty. . . . Johann is dismissed for neglecting his household duties. . . . BUT—love is in the air. The butler loves the prime minister's pretty married daughter, the Baroness Katrina, whose husband is a worm of lowest origin and highest political aspirations. . . . I shall let the picture reveal further developments. . . .

Never was William Powell in finer fettle. Apparently he thoroughly enjoyed working in this picture. Certainly he hands you a grand good time while doing so.

Annabella, the charming Parisienne, plays the baroness with charm, humor, and sincerity, though occasionally you find her a bit difficult to understand. The supporting cast is a dandy. Excellent direction, brevity, the best of photography, tasteful staging and costuming, and some right smart dialog contribute class to this cinema.

A thought: The locale MAY be Budapest, but Butler Johann's observations send the onlooker's thoughts winging to Washington. Perhaps a perfect butler is really all America needs to clear the clutter away [?].

WEDDINGS

Announcement is made of the marriage last Saturday of Miss Ellen Jayne Mellick, daughter of Mrs. G. S. Peterson of Evanston, to Niels Nielsen. The wedding took place at St. Paul's Episcopal church, in Peoria, Bishop Essex of Peoria officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father, R. J. Mellick, of Beloit, Wis.

Miss Margaret Nielsen, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor, and William Essex, son of Bishop Essex, and a classmate of the bridegroom at Dartmouth college, was best man. The bride attended Milwaukee-Downer college and Prospect hall in Milwaukee. After a wedding trip south, Mr. Nielsen and his bride will be at home in Danville.

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Abe McCandless, who framed Poco St. Vrain and made him an outlaw, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents, sent to bring down the gold, are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way Hornbeck, leader of one band, persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents. At the mountain camp Poco finds Espey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. Shayne, the mine manager, has a lovely daughter, Kate. Cardowan crowds Poco off the cliff and takes the gold. He joins forces with Two-Way. Posing as prospectors, they are given an army escort to Rincon. Meanwhile Kate helps rescue Poco. He confesses his identity and promises to recover the gold. In Rincon Poco learns Two-Way and Cardowan put the gold on a stagecoach. Poco rides off after the coach. Two-Way, double-crossing Cardowan, promises McCandless to lead a posse to St. Vrain and the gold. But Cardowan learns the gold was put off at the hotel and rides off with it, also kidnaping Kate Shayne. When the posse reaches the coach and finds no gold McCandless turns on Two-Way. In an exchange of gunfire both are killed. The mob returns to the hotel with Poco and, when they find Cardowan and the gold gone, turn on Poco. A stranger, Van, appears and announces himself a United States marshal. When the mob turns on him he and Poco take refuge in the sheriff's office. Harry, the stagecoach driver, and a girl called Steamboat help them escape through the roof. Poco rides off after Cardowan. Meanwhile Cardowan, with Kate, boards a train for Mexico. Cardowan forces all the passengers to jump off the train, except an old lady, whom he puts in the baggage car with Kate.

INSTALMENT XI.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE.

Kate wakened late in the afternoon, and for a moment she lay there, wondering where she was, and then the knowledge bore down on her with its weight of sorrow.

She rose, leaving the old woman asleep, and walked over to one of the barred windows.

The train was going slow now, winding its way through this tortured land, climbing imperceptibly. Even if she could break these bars now, she still could not escape, she thought wearily. There was Mrs. Bailey whom she could not leave. She couldn't even guess what Cardowan would do to the old woman if he came back and found Kate gone.

She turned away, sick at heart, but her mind was made up. She would try to escape and take Mrs. Bailey with her, even it meant death. A search of the car revealed nothing that might help her, so she started opening the few bundles of freight that remained. In one canvas wrapped bundle, probably the outfit of a prospector, she found a hand-ax.

Picking it up, she laid it behind the door in the corner and went back to the mail sacks.

As she sat down, she heard the brakes being applied gently and felt the train slow up, then come to a stop. She rose again now and went to the west window of the car. They seemed to be lying in the bottom of a broad, rocky valley running east and west. Stretching out toward the west down the valley she saw a spur of the track at right angles to them vanish behind rocks in the distance. She judged they had come a considerable distance that day, since the sun was just lowering over the high skyline to the west. Opening the window, she could hear the slow breathing of the engine ahead with its accompanying clanking.

What did it mean? Were they taking on more water? Suddenly, there was a blast from the engine's whistle, and then silence again. She listened, waiting. Mrs. Bailey came up now and listened with her.

"What is it?"

"I don't know. I haven't heard gunshots."

As her voice died out, she heard the crunch of a man walking on cinders. He passed beneath them and Kate, remembering her last attempt to get help, stifled the impulse to call out.

Suddenly, the crunching stopped.

"Howdy," Cardowan's voice said amiably. He was standing on the platform between the two cars.

"Where's everybody?" a strange voice said. Kate guessed it must belong to one of the engine crew.

"Who's everybody?" Cardowan drawled quietly.

"The brakie. The passengers."

"What do you want the brakie for?" Cardowan asked.

There was a little pause, and the crew man said, "He's supposed to shut that switch back there."

"Suppose you make it your job, hombre," Cardowan's voice said. "It's a fifty yard walk back there. I'll make it with you. I need air."

Kate waited until she heard a clank of metal, of the switch being thrown, then she waited again.

Then voices came within her hearing.

Cardowan was saying, "—think I'll take a pasear up to your engine to see if you've got any irons hid."

Kate listened some more. In a few seconds, the engine started to thrash preliminary to getting underway on the climb up the hill. Cardowan had not come back.

Kate whirled to Mrs. Bailey. "I found an ax," she murmured swiftly. "If we can open the door, we may be able to jump off while he's up there!"

"Try it," Mrs. Bailey said.

Kate ran across the room, brought the ax up and chopped down the lock. Something snapped so loud she could hear it.

Dropping the ax, she seized the door knob and yanked. It flew open. "Come on!" Kate whispered, and stepped out onto the platform. Mrs. Bailey came to the door, took one look at the country passing by them, and shook her head.

"I'd never make it dear, I'm old, and my bones are brittle. You go."

It was a sort of miasmic despair that strangled Kate as she looked at the old woman. It was their only chance for freedom, and they could not take it. Then her eyes fell on the pin and link car coupling. She stared at it a few seconds and said slowly, "If we could unhook this rear car—"

Mrs. Bailey cut in swiftly. "It would roll back down the grade and turn onto that spur into Christian City. They threw the switch shut!"

Without another word, Kate jumped to the platform of the coach, knelt, and seized the thick head of the pin. She pulled, but her fingers slipped off. The weight of the coach was on it, pulling the link against it, and a hundred horses could not have pulled it loose.

They were going through a cut in the rocks now, and suddenly the labor of the train slacked as the grade leveled and the coach drew closer to the baggage car. Mrs. Bailey was looking at the coupling, saw it come together.

"Now!" she cried.

Kate seized the pin and pulled. It slipped out easily. . . . She looked up, joy in her face, and then it washed out. The baggage coach was pulling slowly away from her, and Mrs. Bailey, in their haste, had forgot to come across.

"Jump!" Kate cried.

Mrs. Bailey looked and only shook her head. Already it was too late, and the space between the cars had started to grow.

"I can't," she said simply.

Even as she said it, something moved above them. Kate looked up, and in that one brief second, she saw Cardowan leap the distance between the two car roofs. And then they pulled away from each other, the baggage car seeming to speed ahead without the weight of the coach's pull, and the coach stopped and slowly started down the hill.

Kate backed into the door, her breath held, as Cardowan swung down from the overhang, gun in hand.

His face was dark and twisted with fury. He snarled, "You damned meddlesome fool."

New England Women.

The Pilgrim colony of the National Society of New England Women will hear Mrs. Frank Dow review "Katrina" at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Blackstone hotel.

Child Isn't Destructive by Nature

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Will you write something about destructiveness? I think it would help a great many mothers."

I'm sure it would. And a great many children, too! Because many of them suffer from their parents' lack of understanding on this score. For, in spite of what most adults think, young children are not naturally destructive. The things they harm are harmed only incidentally. This is uniformly true. The exception is found when a child has been so mismanaged that he breaks a plaything to get attention or for spite.

As you know and I know it's easier to prevent a bad habit forming than it is to cure one that's already started. It's the same old ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of cure. So let's look into this behavior we call destructive and see what we can learn about it.

To begin with, let us take the young child. He's filled with interest and curiosity about everything under the sun. This leads him into exploring in all sorts of places and examining all sorts of things. In the process objects may get damaged because he's not yet deft or sure in all his movements. But if his mishaps are treated reasonably and he's still given freedom with things that aren't fragile he's going to gain constantly in muscular skill and judgment and in good will.

Treating his possessions with respect encourages him to treat them that way himself and encourages him to treat yours that way, too.

Pretty Frock for the Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Brides, new at domesticity, and seasoned housewives alike will appreciate the comfort and chic which this comely house frock has to offer. Although you may be busy with a great many home tasks, you can answer a chance informal call from your neighbor with perfect poise, because you will have the assurance of being well and smartly dressed. [If there is a bride in your circle, and a shower is pending, why not make up this house frock for her? She will like it in a cotton to match the color scheme of the kitchen she is planning.]

The bodice is given soft fullness by means of shirring emanating from the high and pointed waistline. The collar is placed high at the throat and has wings over the shoulders. This collar should contrast and the pointed pockets on the skirt might match it. If you like, "monogram" the pockets with the aid of embroidery pattern No. E-11012. It's available for 10 cents extra.

All types of cottons will make up well and you might even consider some of the washable novelty materials.

Style No. 2066 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

The Housewife

The housewife will find it easy to clean window shades if she makes use of a new commercial cleaner designed especially for that purpose. This product cleans every type of shade except those made of linen, and it may also be used on Venetian blinds and to remove soil from lether goods.

It comes in a can and is used in the following way: Simply dip a damp sponge in the cleaner and wipe the shade which has been stretched out on a flat surface, working crosswise. Then wipe off with another sponge and wipe the shade dry with a clean cloth. You'll find the dirt will be removed without any injury to the fabric. EDITH WEIGLE.

TODAY'S QUILT

Verbena.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

"Verbena" is a strikingly beautiful appliqué block which is not difficult for the beginning quilt maker, and "apple pie" for the experienced needleworker. Either printed or plain materials may be used, and the original coverlet was composed entirely of print materials against a white background. Soft red, leaf green, and a deep cream produce a floral motif as attractive as the original bloom. The block is 16 inches square and 15 appliqué patterns are set together with 15 plain blocks and surrounded by a five inch white border and a half inch bias binding.

Asks Education to End Syphilis Among Young

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Labor, diseases such as syphilis, and the relief problem were discussed from the standpoint of the child and community responsibility at a juvenile protection conference held by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

In the labor of children, in the diseases to which they innocently may become subject, in the under nourishment of relief budgets, it was pointed out by various speakers, the community not only has a responsibility but also inevitably must foot the bill in one way or another, now or later. The foundation of the nation's strength—the temper of its political thinking—are involved here, it was stated.

Mrs. C. K. Timmons, a district leader of the conference, said syphilis among children could be controled by proper education. She urged mothers to tell their children the frank story of life and point out the dangers of wild oats and low standards of morals. She gave thanks that this subject now could be discussed openly at such a meeting.

Harrison A. Dobbs, assistant professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Raymond Miller, state chairman, talked of community responsibility for juvenile delinquency, both as a factor in bringing about the delinquency and in the area of prevention. As a Christian and an American ideal, it was held, each child should have a fair chance for a normal, satisfying development. Greater effort toward this end is demanded of social groups and of individuals.

Mrs. T. M. Lineweaver, a mother who has observed much of relief families in the South Chicago area, said the need of proper food and clothing for school children is heartbreaking.

"Day after day, year after year," she said, "they go on without proper food and no chance to grow in the right way. This is no emergency. It is big business. When relief food is far below the standards of health the community has got to pay the bill.

"Here is the groundwork for some sort of a Fascist program. Those who want to save this previous democracy must awaken to this human need."

Many Unusual Types of Meat Found in Cans

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Pork brains, tripe, pigs' feet, liver sausage, and pickled lambs' tongues are some of the more unusual of the available canned meats. There are more than fifty kinds of canned meats and meat products packed by large and small companies, those with established reputations and those without a reputation to speak of.

Some of the products aren't especially good, but many of them are excellent, and if you choose a known brand you may be quite certain of good quality.

The hams are, almost without exception, very good. Many of the luncheon loaves and veal loaves also are fine, as are most of the sausages and frankfurters. The whole line of canned meats is worth an acquaintanceship for the time they'll save in the kitchen.

Corned Beef Roll with Chili Sauce Gravy.

[Twelve 1 inch Slices.]

2 cups flour
¾ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons shortening
⅔ to ¾ cup milk
2 cups flaked canned corned beef
½ cups medium white sauce
½ cup chili sauce

Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together, and cut in the shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough, stirring just enough to make the ingredients hold together. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead gently for a half minute. Roll out into a rectangular sheet about a fourth inch thick. Shred the corned beef with a fork and cover the biscuit dough with it. Roll jelly roll fashion and press the edges of the roll firmly together. Bake on an ungreased baking sheet at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot with chili sauce dressing made by adding ½ cup chili sauce to 2 cups medium white sauce. [For white sauce use 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter, and ½ teaspoon salt to 2 cups milk.]

Vienna Sausage and Asparagus Luncheon.

[Serves Six.]

2 No. ½ cans Vienna sausages
1 can asparagus tips
2½ cups medium white sauce
1 cup grated cheese
6 slices buttered toast

Heat Vienna sausages gently in skillet. Drain asparagus and use the liquor in making white sauce. Stir cheese into the sauce and heat asparagus in the mixture. Pour over hot toast and garnish with the sausage. Serve at once.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Spartanburg boasts some good players in the bridge world, at least two with high national ranking. The rest of us play with varying success.

"Below you will find a hand that might fit in with some of the impossible makes. The bidding is unusually bad, getting us beyond our proper contract, but I claim the playing was excellent.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

"When South held the contract at six no trump, undoubled, and when the dummy was exposed showing the ace of diamonds and the ace of clubs in the opponents' hands, declarer realized that the two aces probably were not in the same hand, and attempted to keep from each of the opponents the knowledge that the other held an ace, at least until it was too late to do any harm.

"West opened the jack of hearts, which North won with the ace, immediately leading the six of clubs, on which East played low, hoping to win two club tricks, and South won with the jack, trying to give West the impression that it was a finesse against the king or queen. South led the queen of spades, then led a small diamond to the jack and returned a small diamond to the king, which West won with the ace. Getting no indication from East that he held the club ace, West led another heart, which South won with the king. Leading a diamond to the dummy, the spades were led and South made six no trump, although two aces were held by the opponents. Poor bidding, a lot of luck, and some masterful strategy. Yours truly,

"A. J. R. H., Spartanburg, S. C."

Since my correspondent has stolen my thunder by throwing rocks at the bidding before I could get wound up, I shall pass over the point of reaching a slam minus one too many aces and confine my attention to the play. I always dislike disagreeing with correspondents over their analyses. Nevertheless, I cannot agree that the contract was fulfilled through "masterful strategy," although I do heartily concur that there was a "lot of luck."

In my opinion, declarer had little to do with his own success. The opponents, or rather West, made declarer a present on a platinum platter. West's opening lead was logical, but his later persistence with hearts was utterly inexcusable. Declarer had played dummy's heart ace at the first trick, but surely when East followed with the four spot West should not have been under any illusion as to the location of the heart king. Then, when declarer laid down the spade queen, West could actually see that the spade suit would be brought home solidly. All West had to do was count that five spade tricks, three diamonds, one club, and three hearts [since declarer was marked with the heart king] would produce the contract. There was precisely one chance to defeat the contract, and that was to find East with the club ace.

This brings us back to declarer's questionable "strategy." Declarer made an A-No. 1, first class error when he laid down the spade queen and thus revealed to the enemy that the spade suit was solid.

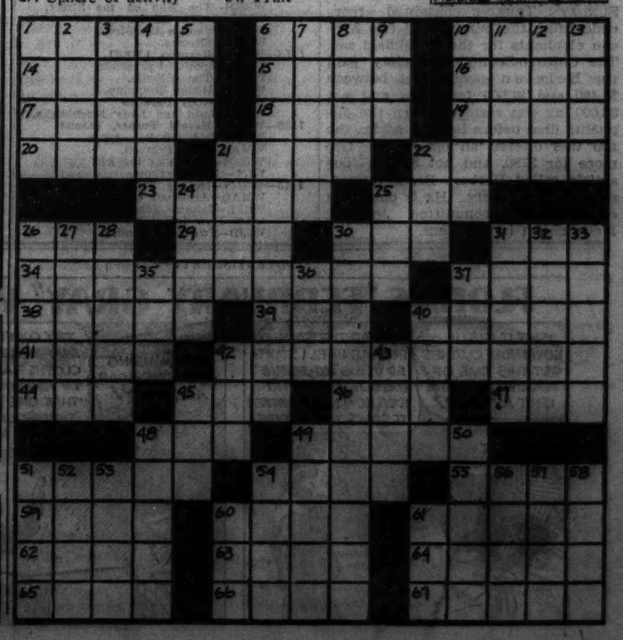
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



NOTHING SACRED TO THE RADIO, NOT EVEN YOUNG LOVE

Boys and Girls on Dates to Be Interviewed.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The men with the lapel microphones have neglected to inquire into very little that happens to us from the cradle to the grave. An Omaha station recently presented a graphic description of the beginning of a new life in the delivery room of a hospital. The Court of Missing Heirs searches for claimants to estates after individuals are dead and gone. Quin Ryan catches mortals at a high point in their lives—just after they have bought their marriage licenses. WLS has a program every Thursday titled "How I Met My Husband" in which wives reveal their strategy in snaring men.

Through the broadcasts from Judge Gutknecht's Trafic court and Judge Braude's Safety court Joe Doakes is enabled to see his neighbor squirming before the microphone. After he goes to jail—is he safe? Nope, a microphone is on hand there, too, so that he may tell how much good his stay is doing him there. A while back the Stateville penitentiary was putting on its finest yodelers and the prison band to show what happens to men after prison gates close on them.

Now comes WIND with a peep at a boy and girl having a date. At 9:15 on Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays Jimmy Dudley will journey to either the Aragon or Trianon ballrooms and put on little tête-à-têtes to be called "Me and the Boy Friend," definitly bad grammatically but in keeping with the spirit of the broadcast. Jim will endeavor to find out how dates are arranged, what causes the love bug to bite, and such.

It is easy to see that this is another educational and public service type of broadcast. Youngsters will soon learn the intricacies of pitching effective woo by listening to the radio.

Linton Wells, former TRIBUNE foreign correspondent, now roving reporter for the Magic Key, stopped off on the way back east from San Francisco yesterday. He had a neat little tale about Toscanini. This is a true one. When Mr. Sarnoff and Maj. Lohr turned over the newly organized NBC Symphony to him three months ago they insisted they had a pretty fine orchestra—but they did apologize for the oboe player. He was not the best.

Toscanini went through his first rehersal and then proceeded to the oboe player's stand. The oboe player began to squirm, almost to shrivel, and the orchestra awaited the dressing down in Toscanini's fieriest Italian.

Instead the maestro said, "My good man, you are a great artist!"

Since then the oboeist has been playing as if inspired. And now has become the ace in his field!

Edgar Bergen has had to move Charlie McCarthy's office down three floors in the Hollywood office building where they hold forth. Bergen had no name on his door. But there was a termite exterminator concern next to him. Callers thought the termite sign was a gag and all went in to inquire for Charlie. Employés of the termite company got pretty bored with the whole idea, so Bergen moved his termite bait.

This letter from Mike Samusevich, president of the Radio club at the Morrill School for Crippled Children, 6011 South Rockwell street, speaks for itself: "Our club is very much in need of radio parts which our depleted school fund cannot finance as we are a high school for crippled children with a small enrollment. . . . I assure you the smallest part will be greatly appreciated."

Federation of Teachers Lauds U. S. Aid Proposal

The national legislative committee of the American Federation of Teachers yesterday praised President Roosevelt's advisory committee on education for recommending that federal aid be given states which are unable to furnish funds for adequate schooling.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An article by Cousin Eve in last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE contained errors concerning the purchase of two African elephants for the Brookfield zoo. The Chicago Zoological society paid the Belgian government between $1,400 and $1,500 for them and not $8,000, as was stated. When the elephants died before leaving Africa the zoo was offered an option on two more for $750, and not $4,000. The article called Herbert Bradley president of the society. He is chairman of the animal committee. John T. McCutcheon is president.

MAYOR APPLAUDS COURT MOVE FOR TRANSPORT UNITY

Mayor Kelly returned from Florida yesterday and expressed approval of Federal Judge Wilkerson's recent action toward a unified transportation system. The judge last week placed the responsibility for unification in the hands of Walter A. Shaw, consulting engineer.

"I am glad to see that Judge Wilkerson is getting things started," the mayor said. "I believe that shortly we shall see some results which will benefit all of Chicago."

Shaw reported yesterday that a working organization for speeding settlement of the long standing problem has been completed with the cooperation of all the traction interests—elevated and surface lines and the bus company. Engineers and accountants have been assigned by the elevated and surface lines. Shaw will report further to Judge Wilkerson on April 5.

The city council yesterday passed two feeder bus extension ordinances, one for East 83d street and the other for West 111th street.

Policeman Thomas Zapp Dies After Long Illness

Policeman Thomas Zapp, 36 years old, of 5309 South Damen avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital after a long illness. Although he was suffering from heart and kidney ailments, an autopsy was ordered by the coroner when his widow, Libby, said Zapp told her last Oct. 23 he had been injured by slipping off the running board of an automobile while on duty. Zapp joined the police force in 1929.

BURLEW GIVEN COMMITTEE O. K. FOR ICKES AID

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The senate public lands committee overrode objections by Senator Pittman and reported favorably today on the nomination of Ebert K. Burlew as first assistant secretary of the interior. Mr. Pittman's vote was reported to have been the only dissenting one cast in an executive session.

The Burlew appointment was the subject of a long series of hearings devoted in large part to discussions of the spring service set up by Secretary Ickes in the interior department. Senator Pittman said he would carry his opposition to Mr. Burlew to the floor of the senate.

Rev. L. Morgan Chambers, Former Aurora Pastor, Dies

Trenton, N. J., March 2.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. L. Morgan Chambers, 56 years old, died tonight at the McKinley hospital. He was pastor of the State Street Methodist-Episcopal church and had been ill since last Thursday. He came to Trenton in July, 1936, from Aurora, Ill., where he was pastor of the Wesley M. E. church for seven years. He also had served a church in Evanston, Ill. He is survived by his widow and three sons.

CIRCUS COUNSEL ACCUSED OF TAX FRAUD BY U. S.

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Ringling Brothers-Barnum-Bailey combined shows grossed fifty-three million dollars in the years between 1918 and 1932, of which ten million dollars was net profit, Judge Murray Hulbert and a jury in federal court were informed today. However, income tax returns for these years reported only a little more than four million dollars net profit, the government charges.

This statement of circus finances was made by Joseph W. Burns, assistant United States attorney, in opening the income tax fraud case against John M. Kelly, vice president and general counsel of the circus, and Charles D. M. Greer and Nathaniel F. Rabner, former internal revenue department agents, who are accused of aiding in the concealment of the circus' income.

Methods used in doing this, as described by Burns, including maintenance of an imaginary show almost as complete as the one which entertained the public.

SUSAN ORR DIES OF INJURIES IN RANCH RUNAWAY

Injured Saturday when a team on her mother's ranch ran away, Susan Orr, 12 years old, daughter of Mrs. Olive M. Orr, died yesterday in the general hospital at Butte, Mont. The child was riding on a hayrack when the horses bolted and upset it. She was taken to the Butte hospital, 140 miles to the west, in a makeshift ambulance.

There a brain operation was performed and Susan appeared to rally but died suddenly early yesterday. Her brother, Montgomery Orr, who went from Chicago to Butte by plane was at the bedside, as was their sister, Miss Mimi Orr. No funeral arrangements have been completed, Chicago friends were told. Mrs. Orr's home is in St. Charles. She is the widow of Arthur Orr, who served as secretary of the American embassies in London, Paris, and Berlin.

500 Cases of Measles Reported in 33 Hours

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday that 500 cases of measles were reported in the first 33 hours of March, raising the total for 1938 thus far to 16,622. There were 11,323 cases in February, 6,524 more than in January.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The stage is set this morning for the final act of 1938 Golden Gloves boxing in Chicago.

Thirty-two boys, the finest fighters from half the United States, remained in the running for the eight titles as the Tournament of Champions ended last night in the Chicago Stadium. They will come back to Chicago on March 11 and in the same ring wage their battles for these titles. The 32 boys are:

112 POUND DIVISION.
Kenny Lottman, Peoria.
James Joyce, Gary.
Walter Cavalieri, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Edward Wright, Detroit.

118 POUND DIVISION.
Frank Kainrath, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Clayton Johnson, Sioux City.
Bud Chapman, Terre Haute.
John Cronin, Detroit.

126 pound division.
Jack Simmons, Kansas City.
Jackie Campbell, South Bend.
Joe Dupont, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Eddie Dempsey, Davenport.

135 POUND DIVISION.
John Benna, Terre Haute.
Eddie Smith, Detroit.
Johnny Joca, Cleveland.
Verle Davis, Joliet.

147 POUND DIVISION.

Cornelius Young, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Joe Benna, Michigan City.

175 POUND DIVISION.
Frank Dukat, Green Bay.
Linto Guerrie, Rockford.
Orlando Trotter, Savoy A. C., Chicago.
William Muldune, Cleveland.

HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION.
Daniel Merritt, Cleveland.
Lloyd Montgomery, Nashville.
Babe Ritchie, Fort Worth.
Emanuel Williams, Gary.

The quarter final bouts in the most extraordinary Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions ever held were fought before a near capacity crowd of 16,500 last night. It was the largest third night attendance in the history of the tournament. Crowds the first and second nights this week also set records. As for exciting action the night had any previous session of Golden Gloves fighting topped.

The increased attendance no doubt was due to the spectacular showing made by the boxers who made up the forty-seven teams from outside of Chicago. And it wasn't any wonder the fans in those outside cities became excited about their gladiators.

Six Chicagoans Left.

The 32 qualifiers include 26 members of the out of town teams. The other six are from Chicago.

Chicago's Catholic Youth Organization held the team lead with five survivors. Out-of-town leaders in the battle for team honors were Cleveland and Detroit, each of which will send three warriors into the semi-finals.

ELWARD NAMED HEAD COACH OF PURDUE ELEVEN

Noble Kizer Will Retain Directorship.

Lafayette, Ind., March 2.—[Special.]—President E. C. Elliott of Purdue university announced today that Mal Elward, who has been in charge of football at the university since Noble Kizer, athletic director and head football coach, became ill last summer, has been appointed head football coach, effective immediately.

Upon his return to the university on Sept. 1 Kizer will take up his work as director of athletics. Robert C. Woodworth, publicity director, will continue to serve as acting director until Kizer's return.

Physicians Advise Retirement.

Today's announcement came as the result of a conference of President Elliott with Kizer and his physicians in Tucson, Ariz., last week. In making the announcement, President Elliott said, "On Jan. 19 Mr. Kizer notified me that his physical condition would not permit him to return to the campus on March 1, as had been planned. Also that his physicians had strongly advised him to give up entirely the strenuous job of coaching."

Today's announcement continues on a permanent basis the same organization which served effectively during the last football season.

With Elward, who has been a member of the staf for eleven years, as head coach, the remainder of the varsity staf consists of Guy Mackey, M. H. [Mel] Taube, and William [Dutch] Fehring, the same three former Purdue stars who have been closely associated with Boilermaker successes in recent years.

Elward is a former Notre Dame star and was a teammate of the late Knute Rockne.

Started as Prep Coach.

His coaching career started in 1916 at St. Johns Prep school, Danvers, Mass., where his team won the eastern Catholic prep title. During the war he served in the naval air service, but was closely associated with football coaching. As athletic officer he was in charge of the Newport Naval Reserve team which scored victories over Harvard and Brown, and also coached the Hampton Roads Training Station eleven, which won fourteen straight games. His last two years in the service were spent at the Hampton Roads air station where his team won the fifth district naval championship.

Won Title for Grinnell.

Called to Grinnell as head football coach after the war, he brought the Iowans their first conference victory in five years, and then moved to John Carroll in Cleveland, where he remained for three years, turning out the best team in the institution's history in 1924. He came to Purdue in the fall of 1927 from John Carroll, and has been a member of the staf since that time.

Some Win, Some Lose, but They All Fight

Frank Kainrath (right) of the C. Y. O., only defending champion in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, lands a right on the jaw of Robert Wiley of Coulon's gymnasium in their third round bantamweight battle in the Stadium last night. Kainrath won the decision.

Floyd Robinson (facing the camera), Lafayette, Ind., and George De Gidio of Minneapolis, flyweights, go into a wrestling pose, but were soon on their feet again flailing away. George proved the better flailer and Floyd was eliminated from the tournament by a decision.

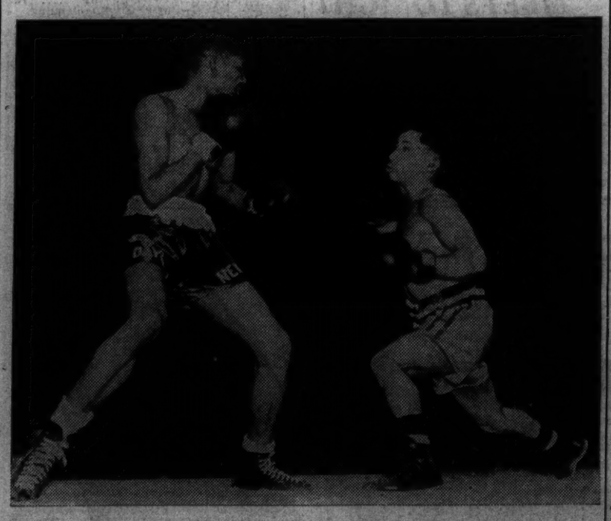
Joe Dupont (left), C. Y. O. featherweight, retreats before the charge of Bill Eddy of Grand Rapids, Mich., in the first round. Joe's maneuver, however, was strictly of the strategic variety, for he went on to score a three round victory.



If prizes were to be awarded for grimaces, Chester Ellis (right), bantamweight from Kansas City, undoubtedly would have been the winner. Mitchell Walton of Dayton, O., refused to be frightened was declared the victor by the officials.

Foster to Continue as Badger Basketball Coach

Madison, Wis., March 2.—[Special.]—Harold E. [Bud] Foster will be retained as basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin, Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin athletic director, announced today, setting at rest rumors that Foster might be relieved of his post.

"Everything is satisfactory," Stuhldreher said, "and there's no possibility of a change."

Von Schacht Is Thrown in 16:12 by Ali Baba

Ali Baba, Turkish heavyweight, threw Friedrich Von Schacht of Germany in 16 minutes 12 seconds before 2,000 fans last night in the Rainbo fronton. Walter Palmer won a 30 minute decision over Al Williams of Fox Lake. Rudy Strongberg of Germany threw Bill Beth, 21:46; Farmer Mack downed Buck O'Neill, 13:20; Paul Miller and Jack Roberts wrestled to a 30 minute draw.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

IT is taken for granted that Joe Louis will defend his title against Max Schmeling, the man who two years ago knocked him out, either in Chicago or New York next June. . . . There is more than a possibility, however, that Schmeling will not go through with the match. . . . The reasons are [1] Schmeling owes Mike Jacobs $46,000; [2] if the bout draws $1,000,000 Max would get about 20 per cent, out of which he would have to return $46,000 to Jacobs as well as 40 per cent to the government in taxes; [3] In addition to those amounts, which would total $125,000 he would have to split with his handlers, which would leave him only a small fraction of his earnings to show for his efforts; [4] Schmeling at the moment is the most popular sports figure in Germany, but his showing against Harry Thomas and Ben Foord convinced many of his admirers that he isn't the Schmeling who whipped Louis in 1936. . . . Alfred M. Landon will lead the pilgrimage to Bazaar, Kas., tomorrow for the annual testimonial services in memory of Knute Rockne, who lost his life in an airplane disaster near that town seven years ago. . . . Willie Grimm, a contestant in the coming six day bicycle race at the Stadium, never has been seriously injured in competition, but he incurred a skull fracture while training for a race. . . . He hit a stone on the road which pitched him over the handlebars on his head. . . .

Gunboat Smith, old time heavyweight, is one of the chief bouncers in Madison Square Garden. . . . Mickey Walker is master of ceremonies in a Newark night club. . . . Bill Sayles, rookie pitcher from the University of Oregon, with the Boston Red Sox, was a member of the A. A. U. baseball team which gave exhibitions at the Olympic games in Berlin. . . . No Southwest conference football champion ever has repeated. . . . Lefty Weisman, youngest trainer in the American league, has been with the Cleveland Indians 17 years. . . . The father of Bud Wilkinson, former Minnesota quarter back, is trying to induce his son to go into business with him in Minneapolis, but the young man has his heart set on a coaching career. . . . He now handles back field candidates at Syracuse.

FLOOD AND RAIN PUT SOX, CUBS IN HOT WATER

Mainland, Island Both Are Very Damp.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 2.—Cub and Sox regulars will swarm into southern California early tomorrow morning, but they will not start their baseball maneuvers forthwith. The swimmers on the two outfits will be the only ones given a chance to exercise.

The floods have hit the Pasadena region with especial violence and since the weather man promises no letup, there's no telling just when Manager Jimmy Dykes will be able to lead his lads onto the regular practice field—Brookside park, which is in the Arroya Seco—which is at present very, very moist.

The park has been under a federal improvement program, which included a new grandstand and some new grading. The flood has washed away much of the new soil and other improvement material, so that the Sox, when they do get under way, will have something less than an ideal training home for the first time since they have been coming to southern California.

Cubs Call Off Practice.

Over on Catalina Island Manager Charley Grimm stuck his head out the window at dawn and called off the practice for the rookie squad.

The Cub skipper, on getting forecasts of continued downpour tomorrow, said there would be no effort to make a ceremony of the regulars' arrival on the noon boat. There was to have been a parade and the rookies who have been on the island for a week were to go to the wharf in their baseball costumes.

Charley said it seemed rather futile to him to have the boys wear their baseball uniforms for greeting purposes when they were being denied the opportunity to use them for baseball purposes.

But Managers Are Calm.

Neither Grimm nor Dykes looked upon the situation as desperate from the training standpoint. The flood has been attended by mild temperatures and the athletes can get some sort of good exercise within a few hours after the rain lets up, as it did for a while yesterday at Avalon.

SOX NEAR CAMP

Las Vegas, N. M., March 2.—[Special.]—The fourteen players in the White Sox party of twenty aboard the Santa Fe Chief enjoyed their last long snooze this morning before arrival at their Pasadena training base tomorrow morning at 8:35 o'clock.

All of the veterans made the most of it, though there were a few youthful rookies who arose with the sun to get a glimpse of the sagebrush and purple hills.

Three Catchers.

Among the pitching hopefuls are such lads as Bill Cox, Jess Dobernic, Walter Zuehls, Frank Cook, and George Gick. There are three youthful catchers aboard, Norman Schlueter, Mike Tresh, and Bill Finnucane. They huddle together for company in these final moments of anxiety. But they'll be out cutting each other's throat tomorrow.

Tresh and Schlueter are being studied carefully by Coach Muddy Ruel, since one or both very likely will stick with the club. Schlueter, who made the trip with the Sox last spring and had a tonsilectomy in July, reported at 185 pounds, up twenty from last year. He says he already has taken off five pounds.

25,000 BEGIN 48 DAY MEET IN COLISEUM

80 Teams Bowl on Inaugural Card.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

Chicago's historic Coliseum, whose four walls have echoed to events of almost every description, receives the American Bowling congress for the first time tonight. Starting at 8 o'clock, forty teams of regular division bowlers from Chicago, nearby cities and Wisconsin will get the thirty-eighth annual tournament under way.

Elmer Baumgarten.

The tourney, which has broken all A. B. C. entry records, will last forty-eight days, during which time bowlers from coast to coast, Canada, and the Hawaiian Islands will compete for $198,000 on forty alleys, eight more than ever have been used in the national meet.

Chicago's Fifth Meet.

This is Chicago's fifth venture as host to the nation's bowlers and through the efforts of its bowling leaders 4,956 five man teams, 8,419 doubles combinations, and 17,441 singles contestants have entered. This army of approximately 25,000 contestants has paid $297,000 in entry fees.

Chicago and suburbs have contributed 1,626 teams, 1,580 doubles combinations, and 3,214 individuals to the entry, paying $72,520 in fees. Other cities well represented are Milwaukee with 245 teams; Indianapolis, 151; Detroit, 117; St. Louis, 87; Cleveland, 84; Buffalo, 78; Cincinnati, 58; Peoria, 57; Pittsburgh, 50; Toledo, 45, and Akron, 43.

One of the forty regular division teams scheduled on tonight's program is a quintet led by Ray Schalk, former White Sox catcher and manager, who now is manager of the Indianapolis club of the American association.

Boosters Bowl Late.

Inaugural ceremonies will be held at 7:30 o'clock at which time members of the Chicago tournament committee officially will turn over the alleys to Elmer Baumgarten of Milwaukee, A. B. C. secretary.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly will welcome the bowlers to the city in an address at 7:40 and then bowl the first ball.

The five man competition is divided into two classes, regular and booster. The latter division is limited to teams with averages of 850 or less. This division makes its debut tonight at 10 o'clock, when forty teams from the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company bowl.

Doubles and singles competition will start tomorrow morning.

High scores are made frequently in A. B. C. competition but not since 1935 when Carl Mensenberg of Scranton, Pa., rolled 300, has a perfect game been scored. Only four have been shot in some 1,500,000 games since the first meet was held in Chicago in 1901.

Diamonds to Victors.

First prize in the five man event is worth $1,000, victory in the doubles will bring $300 and the singles champion will earn $300. Diamond medals also are awarded winners.

Teams scheduled to roll on tonight's regular division squad follow:

BIG, BAD BRUINS PICK ON OUR POOR HAWKS TONIGHT

Playoff Berth May Rest on Outcome.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Just as though it wasn't bad enough to have entertained the smart New York Rangers and acquired a 4 to 1 licking in the process last Sunday night, our sorely tried Blackhawks tonight are faced with the prospect of an hour of hocky with the big, bad and brutal Boston Bruins at the Chicago Stadium.

It's a fine time for the Hawks to be meeting such a powerful troupe. Here they are, just one game out of the cellar, currently occupied by the Detroit Red Wings, and their opponents of the evening are a team which has whipped them five out of six games. The Chicagoans' only solace on entering the combat derives from the fact that the Wings themselves are no better off in the quality of their competition tonight, since they will be playing the Rangers in Madison Square Garden.

A Showdown Nears.

The business of gaining the last spot in the Stanley cup playoffs is one that may well be settled tonight and Sunday. If the Hawks can rise up in their desperation and win tonight's game as well as Sunday night's Stadium encounter with the hapless Montreal Maroons, they may be able to thank the Rangers and Bruins. The Wings will meet the Bostonians at Detroit Sunday night. Tuesday the Detroit lads thought they might close the one game gap on the Hawks, but found themselves roundly trounced by the Bruins, 6 to 1.

On past performances the Hawks should be rated somewhat overmatched in tonight's game. In the six games already played, the Bruins have scored 20 goals against the Chicagoans' nine. Three of those nine have been scored by Paul Thompson in his family war against Cecil [Tiny] Thompson, his brother and the Boston goalie.

Hawk Cripples Ready.

Three of the Hawks were given a furlough from yesterday's workout. They were Paul Thompson, Doc Romnes and Johnny Gottselig. This is the trio which has borne the offensive brunt of the Hawk hopes most of the season.

The lineup for tonight's game:

CHICAGO.		BOSTON.
Karakas	Goal	C. Thompson
Seibert	R. D.	Shore
Wiebe	L. D.	Portland
Romnes	C	Cowley
Connolly	R. W.	Sands
P. Thompson	L. W.	Getliffe

SIX GAMES OPEN SEMI-FINALS OF C. Y. O. TOURNEY

The semifinal round of the eighth annual C. Y. O. basketball tournament will open tonight with three games scheduled in both St. Bernard's and Queen of Angels gymnasiums.

The St. John of Joliet-St. Elizabeth heavyweight game will feature the St. Bernard's card. Both teams are former champions. St. Elizabeth's is the defending champion, while St. John's won brackets in 1935. Tonight's schedule:

St. Bernard's gym., 6550 Harvard avenue. Holy Cross vs. Sacred Heart [girls]; St. Dorothy vs. St. Willibrord [lights]; St. John [Joliet] vs. St. Elizabeth [heavies].

Queen of Angels gym, 4410 North Western avenue: St. Mathias vs. St. Andrew [girls]. Mary Queen of Heaven vs. Immaculate Conception [lights]. Queen of Angels vs St. Stanislaus B. & M. [heavies].

Hey, Fish! They're After You, Boys!

BY BOB BECKER.

A preview of many tackle items that game fish of the middle west will see within a few weeks, when they look out from their favorite spots among the weed beds and near logs, now is on exhibition at the Boat and Sports show which is being held on the Navy Pier. Hundreds of metal lures, wooden fish fooiers bass flies, trout flies, casting rods of all sizes and lengths, motors for fishing boats, and even fishing jackets are being displayed at the pier.

And every few minutes finds a new group of eager-eyed anglers fingering the rods, making a few imaginary casts with them, and inspecting the lures that soon will be whizzing through the air to land kerplunk in lake or stream.

They're Both Solid.

Both bamboo and steel rods have a firm place in the outfits of fishermen. Since the development of the hollow tubular steel rod thousands of bait casters have turned to that type of fishing accessory. But bamboo continues to appeal to thousands of anglers who like to catch pan fish and bass.

If March behaves and gives us fairly mild weather it won't be long until the bluegill and crappie fishermen will be unlimbering their tackle in the northern Illinois lake region. This early fishing is the game for the fly fisherman and his 8 or 9½ foot fly rod.

Watch Those Panfish.

Chicago fishermen who are anxious to take up fly fishing this spring and want to get an early start so they may practice on the panfish in northern Illinois, are advised to go to the Boat and Sports show where they may get a lot of sound advice from tackle representatives on equipment and also a few lessons in casting. Expert casters around the pool where the Tribune casting contest are being held nightly will be glad to coach beginners without charge.

GEO. WASHINGTON DEFEATS LOYOLA AGAIN, 48 TO 33

A WILD FELLER MAY WIN 25 FOR INDIANS—FOXX

Believes Bob Might Find Control a Liability.

Miami, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Jimmie Foxx, the Boston Red Sox slugger, said today he believed Bob Feller's wildness was an asset and he wouldn't be surprised if the young Cleveland pitcher won twenty-five games this year.

"I don't think he has the speed Walter Johnson had, or Lefty Grove," Foxx said, "but that fast ball of Feller's is alive. It darts up there. That's why the kid is so good. You've got to be loose up there at the plate or he will knock your head off.

"When Feller gets better control," he said, "he will not be so hard to hit. Hitters can stand in there if they know the pitcher's not going to be firing at their heads or feet. Of course, Feller might be smart enough not to let us know he's got good control."

AVERILL TO BAT FIFTH.

New Orleans, La., March 2.—(AP)—Earl Averill, the Cleveland Indians' clouting outfielder, said today he approves Manager Oscar Vitt's plans to shift him from third to fifth place in the batting order.

Averill, who still is in Cleveland getting ready to join the team here, sent word he thinks "it's a swell idea."

CHICK HAFEY BALKS.

Tampa, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Chick Hafey, veteran Cincinnati Reds outfielder, sent word to General Manager Warren C. Giles today that he would not sign a contract contemplating service as a utility man. Hafey declared he felt he was worth what he was paid last year—$12,500—and rather than accept less, would remain on his Walnut Creek, Cal., ranch.

THREE DODGER ROOKIES LEAVE.

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—The vanguard of the Brooklyn Dodgers departed for the Clearwater, Fla., training base today, three rookie pitchers making up the party. They were Wally Signer, Jack Kimball, and Alta Cohen. The regulars are not due to report until March 11.

The holdout situation remained unchanged today. The principal recalcitrant, Buddy Hassett, who is seeking an increase, sent no word to the Dodger officials and both sides appear to be standing pat.

GEHRIG'S PARENTS SEE YANKS.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig's father and mother watched the New York Yankees work out today, but they didn't know when the world champions' first baseman was coming south to join his teammates in spring practice. Third String Catcher Joe Glenn and Pitcher Spurgeon Chandler arrived in camp today and, along with Outfielder Myrl Hoag, took their first workout.

CASTLEMAN IRKS TERRY.

Baton Rouge, La., March 2.—(AP)—Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants warned Pitcher Clyde Castleman today that if he wishes to stay in the good graces of the club he had better report to the spring training camp immediately. Castleman, at his home in Donelson, Tenn., recently informed Terry he wanted to train there by his own methods. He has been convalescing from an operation.

BOWE TOLD TO CUT LOOSE.

Miami, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Lynwood L. [Schoolboy] Rowe, Detroit Tiger pitcher, was told by an osteopath today to cut loose with his hurling arm. Dr. Cecil Ferguson said he had told Rowe to come back before the spring training season ends for further examination.

The osteopath said he told Rowe the arm would be stiff at first because of the long rest given it but from all indications should stand the strain of pitching.

PHILS REMODEL PARK.

Biloxi, Miss., March 2.—(AP)—The Phillies remodeled their ball park today after Coach John Lobert discovered the bases were out of alignment. Lobert, who gave up the surveyor's rod and transit for baseball took a squint at the diamond and called it "screwy." With two city surveyors and Manager Jimmy Wilson, Lobert supervised the remodeling. Wilson offered a barrel of shrimp to the first player who hits a ball out of the park—a distance ranging from 432 feet in left field to 370 in right field.

KUHEL AT FIRST.

Orlando, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Hangers-on at the Washington training camp predicted today that the veteran Joe Kuhel would be at his old post, first base, when the Senators open the season. Young Jimmy Wasdell, considered Kuhel's successor, is said to have incurred disfavor by reporting at 197 pounds, 17 pounds over his last year's weight.

BEES' HURLERS BAT.

Bradenton, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the Boston Bees capitulated to the repeated clamorings of the pitching staf and allowed the hurlers to indulge in an orgy of batting today.

Mosconi, Crane, Camp Tie for Lead in Cue Tourney

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Willie Mosconi of Philadelphia, Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y., and Marcel Camp of Albany all won tonight to hold a three-way tie for the lead in the world's pocket billiard championship tournament. Mosconi trounced the veteran Bennie Allen of Kansas City, 125 to 37, to enter the deadlock with Camp, who scored a 125 to 59 victory over Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, and Crane, who trounced George Kelly of Philadelphia, 125 to 19, at two victories and no defeats for each.

First National Quintet Defeats Northern Trust

First National increased its lead to two games in the Chicago Bankers' Basketball league by defeating Northern Trust, 38 to 20, last night in Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. In other games Chicago Title and Trust beat Hotel La Salle, 28 to 27, and Harris Trust defeated American National, 33 to 23.

Golden Gloves Field Cut to 32 Fighters

two of their favorite sons survive the terrific battles, while seventeen other centers will contribute one fighter each to the festivities on the 11th. The list, by cities, follows:

Chicago C. Y. O.	5	Indianapolis	1
Detroit	5	Joliet	1
Cleveland	3	Streator	1
Gary	2	Dayton	1
Terre Haute	2	Chicago Savoy	1
Peoria	1	Kokomo	1
Sioux City, Ia.	1	Michigan City	1
South Bend	1	Rockford	1
Kansas City	1	Green Bay	1
Davenport	1	Fort Worth	1
Oklahoma City	1	Nashville	1

The Catholic Youth organization of Chicago, with a well balanced team, qualified in all but three of the events. The C. Y. O. boys were shut out in the lightweight, the 175 pound, and in the heavyweight divisions. Their prospects of retaining the Chicago team trophy were never brighter. It is going to be a fight to the finish between Cleveland, Detroit, Terre Haute and Gary for out of town team honors.

In addition to the Tournament of Champions battles the novice division finals were held.

Kainrath Wins Twice.

Frank Kainrath, the only champion from last year back for another try for Gloves, was one of the first to reach the semi-final round. Early in last night's fighting he clashed with Bobby Wiley from Coulon's gymnasium. Kainrath encountered plenty of opposition, but evaded most of the hard punches swung in his direction. He won on points, but his margin of victory was narrow. Kainrath's next foe was Earl Noel of Green Bay. This was another sizzling scrap that went three rounds. Kainrath again was the winner by a margin that was far from wide.

Plenty of trouble still is in Kainrath's path before he reaches a second title. Clayton Johnson of Sioux City, Bud Chapman of Terre Haute, who has much of the style of the one time wizard Bud Taylor, and John Cronin from Detroit, the other qualifiers in the bantamweight class, all displayed splendid ability in all of their early matches.

Davis Shows Power.

The most sensational fighter of the tournament was Verle Davis, the Joliet lightweight. He won three of his battles on knockouts, two of them in the first round. He couldn't finish Bill Goldsmith of the C. Y. O. in his fourth encounter, but had him glassy-eyed in the second round. Davis carried away the decision.

The flyweights, Jimmy Joyce of Gary and Kenny Lottman of Peoria, appeared to stand out in their division. Both fought brilliantly in all of their battles. But for that matter so did Walter Cavalieri of the C. Y. O. and Edward Wright of Detroit, the other two 112 pound qualifiers. The group is easily the speediest band of flyweights ever to fight in the tournament.

Indianapolis, Oklahoma City, the C. Y. O. of Chicago, and Streator shared the honors in the welterweight class. Milton Bess, Marvin Liddell, Jimmy O'Malley and William Johnson all fought nobly to reach the semi-final round.

Guerrie Knocks Out Foys.

Chief Shoulderblade, a redskin from Oklahoma, met his master in the final bouts last night when he encountered Emanuel Williams, a giant colored youth from Gary. The Chief, while on the war path, had won his first battle rather easily. He smacked Emanuel around quite lively in the second and third rounds, but was well behind on points when it ended. The Indian had become the most popular fighter in the tournament.

In the light heavyweight fighting the big surprise came when Linto Guerrie of Rockford knocked out Eddie Foys of the C. Y. O. The latter had proved to be one of the hardest hitters in the early round matches.

Survivors of 23,000.

The thirty-two boys left this morning are the survivors from an original field of slightly more than 23,000. Most of them have been fighting for a greater part of two months while they traveled down the rough path which leads to the titles.

PATTY BERG IS BEATEN, 2 AND 1, IN FLORIDA GOLF

St. Augustine, Fla., March 2.—[Special.]—Patty Berg's domination of women's winter golf was ended today by Mrs. Jane Cothran Jameson of Palm Beach, Fla., who defeated the sturdy little Minneapolis redhead, 2 and 1, in the first round of the Florida east coast women's tournament. Miss Berg had won the qualifying medal yesterday, after having taken four consecutive titles in other meets.

In other matches today, Betty Wing of Evanston, Ill. was eliminated by Dorothy Traung of San Francisco, 7 and 5, and Virginia Norton of Chicago lost, 7 and 6, to Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C. Marion McDougall of Portland, Ore. defeated Katherine McCloskey of Pittsburgh, 9 and 7, and Mrs. Charles Newbold of Wichita, Kas. won from Mrs. E. F. Cary of Minneapolis, 1 up. Laddie Irwin, 18 year old Montclaire, N. J. girl, advanced with a 6 and 4 triumph over Lillian Wood of Portland, Ore., while Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I. eliminated Morrison of Hershey, Pa., 4 and 2.

Two Clarence Joneses Lose in 4th Round

The fourth round of competition in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in the Stadium last night was disastrous to a pair of 175 pound sluggers named Clarence Jones. These lads, one from Huntington, W. Va., and the other from St. Louis, were doing right well up to that time and the fans were pulling for them to survive the quarter-finals in the hope they would be paired for the semi-finals on March 11. The Huntington Clarence was stopped by Willie Muldune of Cleveland in the second round. St. Louis' contribution to the Clarence Jones motif lost a decision to Orlando Trotter of Chicago's Savoy A. C. in a close fight.

Only two were rejected of the 144 survivors who showed up for third round competition. They were John Baklarz, Detroit Free Press heavyweight, and Beaner Garland, Fort Worth Star-Telegram light heavyweight. Both were forced out because of hand injuries.

Garland defaulted to Louis Jackson of Kansas City, Mo., and Baklarz to Jack Townsend, Ogden, Utah.

The Green Bay Press Gazette team has a new coach this year in Fred Dillon. Dillon supplanted Adolph Wiater, Golden Gloves graduate, whose employment in Chicago prevented his appearance.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer leaves nothing to chance. The weight class of each of the fighters is stamped on his trunks.

One of the largest parties to accompany an out of town contingent was the one which came to Chicago with the Kansas City boxers. The party included Ernie Mehl and William Rosenstreter of the Star's sports department, and their wives; George Mansfield, Star's circulation director, and Mrs. Mansfield; Tom McHugh, boxing writer; James Nixon, treasurer of the Municipal auditorium in Kansas City; Mike Sherry, also of the auditorium, and two coaches.

Kenny Lottman, Peoria Journal Transcript flyweight, eliminated Beebe Rich of the Kansas City Star in last night's third round battling. Last year Rich advanced to the semi-finals before being defeated by Johnny Noto, Catholic Youth Organization title holder. Walter Cavalieri, current C. Y. O. champion, conquered Jerry Keyes of the Springfield State Register in three rounds.

One of the most enthusiastic of last night's fans was Frank Steinhart of Cuba, who occupied a ringside seat as a guest of Leon Mandel. Steinhart is a prominent figure in utilities, politics and sports in the island republic.

Blue and gold were the dominating colors in this year's all championship tournament. Half the out of town teams seem to prefer these colors.

Chairman Joe Triner of the state boxing commission sat in the working press row on the south side of the ring. George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, was seated on the opposite side. Right behind Halas was Brick Owens, who has retired after serving twenty years as an umpire in the American league. Owens appeared to be having the time of his life.

Revolta Leads with a 69 at St. Petersburg

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Turning in a two under par card of 69, Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., led touring golf professionals through the opening round of the $3,000 St. Petersburg open tournament today. Revolta put together rounds of 35 and 34 on the 6,400 yard Lakewood course, where he learned the game eleven years ago while working as a links patrolman.

One stroke behind were Defending Champion Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., with 37—33; Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., 35—35, and Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., 37—33.

Denny Shute of West Newton, Mass.; Bob Shave of Cleveland, O.; Ted Luther of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del.; Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, and Paul Runyon of White Plains, N. Y., matched par.

Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., who took the $700 first money in the Thomasville, Ga., open last Sunday, slipped to a 72.

Tied with Nelson were Frank Walsh of Chicago, Frank Moore of Quaker Ridge, N. Y.; Pat Sawyer of Detroit, Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, Dave Ogilvie of Augusta, Ga.; Ed Brook of Bartow, Fla.; Sam Byrd of Philadelphia, Sam Parks Jr. of Philadelphia, and Bill Heinlein of Indianapolis.

Another eighteen holes will be played tomorrow and the final thirty-six Friday.

Harry Thomas Knocks Out Unknown Winston in Third

Des Moines, March 2.—(AP)—Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., slugger, who is matched with Joe Louis April 1, knocked out Ed [Unknown] Winston of Hartford, Conn., in the third round tonight. Thomas weighed 189, Winston 197.

LANE JUNIORS WHIP CRANE IN PLAYOFF, 34-25

Francis Parker Wins Private Prep Title.

The Lane Tech juniors entered the semi-finals of the City High School Basketball league tournament yesterday by defeating Crane, 34 to 25, in the Marshall High school gymnasium. It was a playoff game.

Crane led at the half, 17 to 14, after the score had been tied four times. Lane tied it again in the third period on a basket and free throw by Melvin Frailey, and soon after this Kristyniak sank a basket that gave Lane a lead it held throughout the rest of the game. Tilliger made eleven points to lead Lane.

Francis Parker won the private school prep basketball conference title yesterday by defeating Central Y., 44 to 16.

WHIZZER WHITE, OAKES TO SPEAK AT PROVISO HIGH

Bernard [Bunny] Oakes, head football coach of the University of Colorado, and Byron [Whizzer] White, his most famed pupil, will speak next Monday at a student assembly at Proviso High school. Coach Oakes is a graduate of Proviso. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Oakes of 317 South 4th avenue, Maywood, left Proviso in 1917 to enter the army. He completed his high school work after the war and was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1924. Later he was head line coach at the Universities of Tennessee and Nebraska.

BIG PRICE DROP ON Premium Quality WHISKY

Not Only Bottled in Bond But FAMED AS AMERICA'S "GUEST WHISKY"
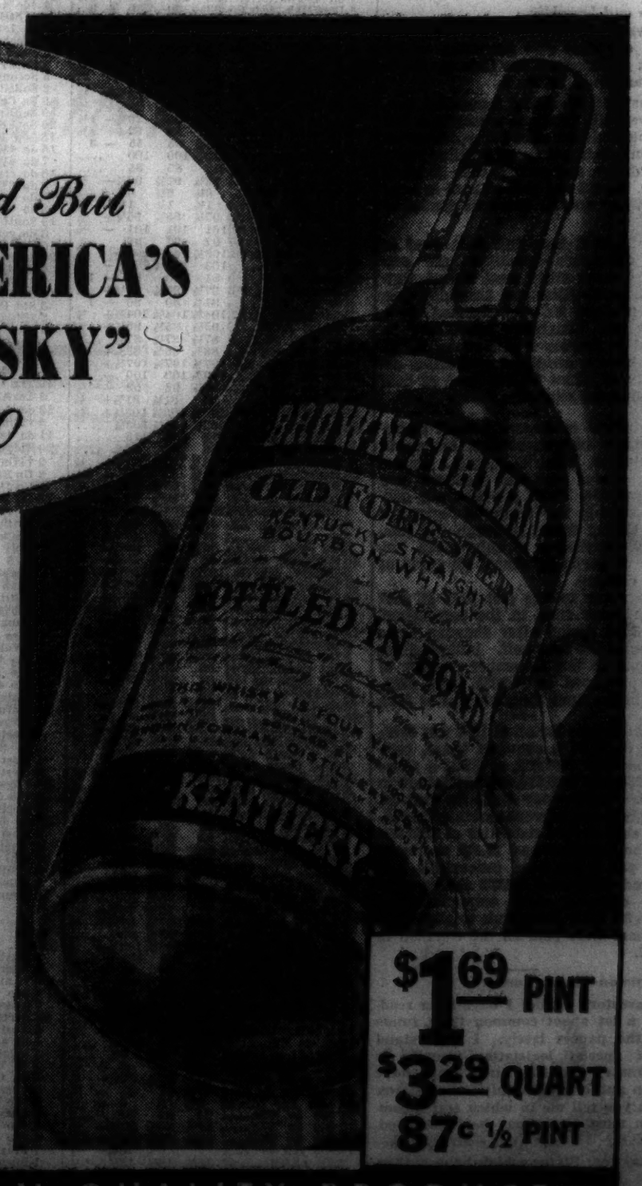
Since 1870



IF ever a price reduction on whisky deserved the term "sensational" this is the one! Old Forester's fame is secure. For 68 years it has been distinguished for its premium quality. All the knowledge and skill developed by one of America's oldest distillers are lavished on Old Forester—to make it the greatest achievement possible in whisky. Now more ample supplies of this same fine quality Old Forester are available. So now it's "affordable" to practically every critical taste. Try famous Old Forester today.

WHAT SCIENTIST SEES FOR US IN FUTURE; LIKE IT?

Power from New Sources; Synthetic Materials.

A glimpse into the future, when America will conserve four raw materials, coal, petroleum, natural gas, and wood, for the manufacture of synthetic articles instead of using them for fuel, was given members of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday by Dr. Gerald Wendt, director of the American Institute, New York. The institute, founded in 1828, is composed of scientific societies and associations.

When that time comes the nation will have to turn to other sources for its power, he said. One of these, he explained, will be obtained as a result of chlorophyll, a green coloring matter which enables plants to extract energy and life-giving properties from sunlight. The other and more likely power source, may come through development of the electric eye.

Discusses "Electric Eye."

"The electric eye is a means of converting light into electricity," he said. "Possibly some day all we shall have to do to heat our homes is to have a few photo-electric cells under the roof."

Dr. Wendt explained that steep flight aircraft—that is aircraft that can rise and descend vertically—will be practical within a year or two. Such aircraft may change our entire living conditions, he said, making it possible for the citizen to dwell far away from his place of business.

Television, he said, will tend to take individuals out of homes, just as radio tended to keep people in the home. The reason for this, he said, is that television instruments will cost from $600 to $1,000 at the start, so that to enjoy it people will gather in groups.

Materials Are Substituted.

Science is working wonders which are causing the substitution of many raw materials, he said. He cited the manufacture of rayon from wood which has hit the cotton industry.

Artificial rubber is now being produced at 75 cents a pound, compared with the 18 cent rate for natural rubber, but it will not be long before the price for the synthetic rubber is brought down where it will compete with the natural product, he added.

MARITIME BOARD APPROVES BIDS ON CARGO SHIPS

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The maritime commission announced today it had approved a bid by the Tampa [Fla.] Shipbuilding and Engineering company for construction of four Diesel type, single screw, steel cargo vessels.

The Tampa firm bid $1,815,663 for each of the four vessels, or a total of $7,262,652 for the group. The commission said it had taken no action with respect to the bids for the construction of eight other cargo vessels.

Bliss and Laughlin.

Investors' Guide: Do you have a report on Bliss and Laughlin, whose stock is listed on the Chicago Stock exchange?—Mrs. B. L.

Answer: Bliss and Laughlin, Inc., Harvey, Ill., produces a complete line of cold finished steel bar products including such articles as polished shafting, drawn and ground bars in small sizes, turned and ground bars in large sizes, and special chemical grades of steel.

Hot rolled bars and rods used in the company's operations are purchased from other steel manufacturers because Bliss and Laughlin does not produce its own finished steel. Bliss and Laughlin's plants are located at Harvey and Buffalo, N. Y., and have a combined productive capacity of about 150,000 tons of cold drawn bars annually.

Principal customers include manufacturers of automobiles, household appliances, electric motors, generators, screw machine products, and implements. Sales are naturally concentrated in the industrial regions of the United States although the company distributes a substantial volume of goods in almost all parts of the country.

Earnings in the last half of 1937 were lower than in the corresponding 1936 period after showing large gains in the first half. Indicated net income in the December quarter of 1937 slumped to $16,678 from $217,766 in the final three months of 1937.

Net income for all of 1937 was $659,881, or $3.67 a common share, compared with $667,583, or $3.94 a share in 1936, and $385,514, or $2.54 a share in 1935. The balance sheet for Dec. 31, 1937, showed current assets of $1,993,042 and current liabilities of $260,358.

The company had 12,425 shares of $30 par 5 per cent convertible preferred stock and 173,955 shares of $5 par common stock outstanding on Dec. 31, 1937. Dividends totaling $2.75 a share were paid on the common in 1937.

Common Trust Funds.

Investors' Guide: I have been reading a lot about common trust funds in the papers lately. I understand that special legislation usually is necessary and that such funds have been authorized in only a few states. Can you tell me in which states common trust funds may be established.

—Mrs. R. C.

Answer: States which have authorized common trust funds include Indiana, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Delaware, Ohio, and Vermont.

RICKENBACKER'S GROUP BUYS BIG AIR LINE IN EAST

Outbid Hertz in Deal with Gen. Motors.

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, foremost American world war aviator, and a group of bankers have purchased Eastern Air Lines for $3,500,000 cash, it was learned here tonight. The acquisition represents a victory for Rickenbacker in the financial world as he and his associates defeated John D. Hertz, Chicago financier and partner in Lehman Brothers, who also sought to buy the air transportation system.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

No official confirmation of the deal, which was completed shortly before midnight, was forthcoming. Directors of General Motors corporation, who sold the controling interest in the air line, refused to talk. Rickenbacker would say only that the negotiations still are in progress.

Bankers Tell of Deal.

However, the tale of the contest between Rickenbacker and Hertz was too good for the banking partners of the principals to keep secret. It was from members of both of these groups that the story was obtained.

The action of last night grew out of a bid submitted to General Motors on Feb. 11 by Hertz and Lehman Brothers. Hertz offered $3,000,000 for General Motors' interest in Eastern Air Lines, which is a unit of the North American Aviation corporation. General Motors owned approximately 30 per cent of North American's stock and General Motors' interest in Eastern Air Lines consequently represented practical working control.

General Motors for two years has been considering the sale of Eastern Air Lines in order to divorce North American's airplane manufacturing division from the airline operating unit. This partition was required under the air mail act of 1934.

Technicality Continues Control.

Through a technicality North American was enabled to continue in its original setup, but administration officials in Washington have been exerting considerable pressure to force the separation. North American has attempted to gain several lucrative government war plane contracts recently but has been turned down. General Motors officials believe now that separation of the two units will bring success in the manufacturing field.

Hertz's offer was well received. Through a prior agreement made with Rickenbacker, who is a vice president of North American and for four years has been operating Eastern Air Lines as general manager, he was notified that Hertz was anxious to buy. Rickenbacker then pleaded for time to prepare a counter offer, and the negotiations were postponed until Feb. 24.

Rickenbacker Makes Offer.

On that day Rickenbacker appeared before the directors and announced that his associates in the deal would be Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Smith, Barney & Co., two of Wall street's largest houses. He said he was empowered to meet Hertz's offer with a counterproposal. Hertz had offered $1,000,000 in cash and the remainder in four year notes. Rickenbacker offered $3,000,000 in cash.

Hertz hurried to New York from Palm Beach. He then raised his bid to $3,250,000, of which one million was to be in cash and the remainder in notes. After consultation Rickenbacker returned with his final proposal of $3,500,000 in cash. This was accepted unanimously by the General Motors directors at a meeting on Tuesday night, and the papers in connection with the sale were signed at that time.

Seek Stockholders' Approval.

Notices of special stockholders' meetings for March 14 to vote on the deal were filed with the directors of the New York Stock exchange yesterday by representatives of both General Motors and North American Aviation. Presumably the details of the proposed sale will be made public at those meetings, at which the stockholders' approval will be asked.

Another reason for withholding official news of the sale involves the security of Eastern Air Lines' mail contracts with the postoffice department. Postal officials have been parties to the negotiations, it is understood, and there is said to be small likelihood that any opposition will arise. But the public announcement will not come until the postoffice department's sanction is definitly assured.

It is understood Eastern Air Lines will be incorporated as a separate and distinct entity. Rickenbacker probably will be president and general manager.

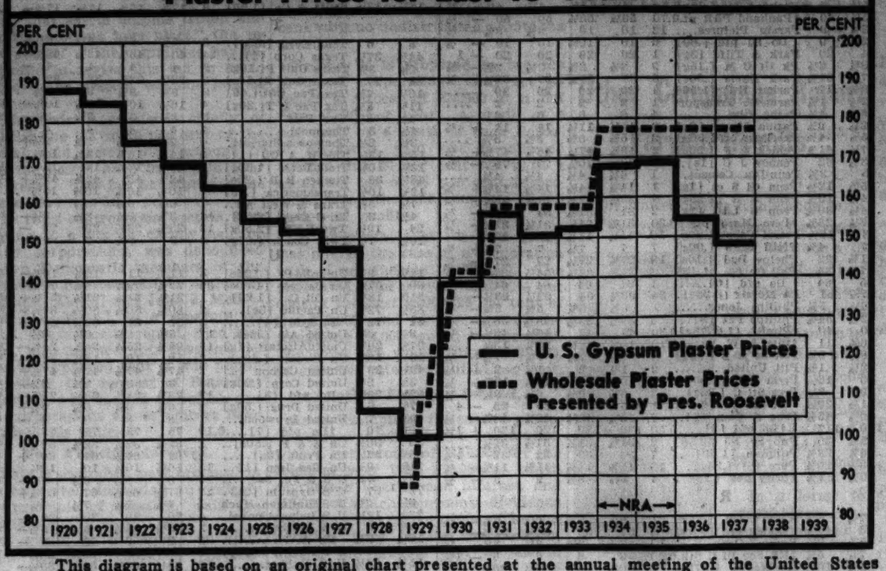
Plaster Prices for Last 18 Years 1929=100



This diagram is based on an original chart presented at the annual meeting of the United States Gypsum company to show how President Roosevelt misrepresented the actual situation when he said that present plaster prices are double those that were in effect in 1929. The heavy black line represents the U. S. Gypsum plaster prices starting with 1920. The broken line represents the wholesale plaster prices presented by President Roosevelt. The U. S. Gypsum price line starts in a year of normal prices. The President's line starts in 1929, when there was a price war which saw some plaster selling at $2 a ton under the cost of production. Sewell L. Avery, chairman of U. S. Gypsum, says it is not fair to compare present prices with the subnormal 1929 prices. He attributes President Roosevelt's statement to "hastily and improperly" prepared information given him by his advisers. (Story in adjoining column.)

AVERY ASSERTS PRESIDENT ERRS IN PRICE VIEWS

Gypsum Head Cites Plaster Fallacy.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A statement by President Roosevelt that present plaster prices are double those of 1929, thereby contributing to the high cost of building, was challenged yesterday by Sewell L. Avery, chairman of the board of the United States Gypsum company, at the annual meeting of stockholders in the penthouse at 300 West Adams street.

Sewell L. Avery.

He also charged that the administration's home building program is unsound, told how high taxes are cutting into earnings, criticized wage and hour tinkering and price fixing as bad economics, and disclosed that the earnings of the company for the first two months of 1938 have dropped sharply as a result of the recession.

Sales and Earnings Drop.

United States Gypsum is an $84,000,000 building material company, with plaster one of its principal products. Sales in January and February each declined 25 per cent from the sales in the like two 1937 months, and January profit was $108,000, against $352,000 in January, 1937, a drop of 69 per cent.

Avery, who also is the head of Montgomery Ward & Co., conducted the meeting in his usual informal manner, combining facts and figures with bits of philosophy.

He read an account of the recent press meeting at which Roosevelt discussed commodity prices and displayed a graph showing that plaster prices now are double what they were in 1929. Avery explained that the 1929 prices on the President's chart were not the ordinary prices of the industry, but were unusually low prices resulting from a price

Wallace Cuts Corn Acreage Under U. S. Crop Control Plan

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Farmers in 566 counties comprising the commercial corn area of the United States [the corn belt] today were told by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that they may plant 40,491,279 acres of corn next year under terms of the farm dictatorship bill recently signed by President Roosevelt.

Secretary Wallace.

Illinois and Iowa are the only states in which all counties are included in the commercial corn area recently designated by the department of agriculture. Illinois' acreage under the allotment is cut down from the 9,451,000 acres harvested last year to 7,348,396, and Iowa's acreage is reduced from 11,180,000 last year to 9,249,256 this year.

Far Below 1937 Harvest.

The 1938 allotted total of 40,491,279 acres to the 566 counties compares with 58,616,000 acres harvested in 1,123 counties in 1937. The national goal for all corn acreage under the 1938 farm dictatorship program is 94,000,000 to 97,000,000 acres, including the acres allotted to the commercial corn area. Actual harvest last year was on about 97 million acres.

The 1938 allotments by states and total acres harvested in the total number of counties in each state follow:

Indiana—3,456,212 acres for 77 counties against 4,706,000 in 92 counties.

Iowa Allotted 9,249,259.

Iowa—9,249,259 acres in 99 counties against 11,180,000 in 99 counties.

Kansas—2,108,602 acres for 27 counties against 2,456,000 in 105 counties.

Kentucky—150,390 acres for 4 counties against 2,906,000 in 120 counties.

Michigan—223,791 acres for 6 counties against 1,590,000 in 83 counties.

Minnesota—3,319,803 acres in 45 counties against 4,788,000 in 87 counties.

Missouri—3,267,088 acres in 63 counties against 4,260,000 in 114 counties.

Nebraska—6,757,345 acres in 64 counties against 7,904,000 in 93 counties.

South Dakota—1,635,794 acres in 17 counties against 3,155,000 acres in 69 counties.

Wisconsin—452,810 acres in 6 counties against 2,424,000 in 71 counties.

Ohio—2,521,779 acres in 57 counties against 3,796,000 in 88 counties.

Plans for Apportionment.

Under the farm dictatorship program, the state allotments for corn acreage will be apportioned through state committees among the counties included in the commercial corn area. County allotments will be determined on the basis of production in the preceding 10 years, taking into account acreage diverted under the past Agricultural Adjustment administration programs, abnormal weather conditions, and trends in acreage.

Individual farm allotments will be apportioned from the county allotments through the county and township committees. Apportionment will be made on the basis of tillable acreage, crop rotation practices, types of soil, and topography.

BATTLE TO KILL PUNITIVE LEVIES IN NEW TAX BILL

Predict Rough Trip for Measure.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The administration's tax bill was started today on a journey through congress which promises exceedingly rough going. A poll of the senate finance committee indicated that the measure will be stripped of its undistributed profits tax provisions in the upper body and drastically altered in other sections.

While the President and the treasury department are conceded to have enough power to shove the bill through the house in its present form, violent opposition came today not only from Republican representatives but from many Democrats. Debate on the bill, beginning tomorrow, will find fiery criticism directed at the undistributed profits, capital gains, and family corporation sections.

Committee for Repeal.

The senate finance committee will vote 13 to 8 for outright repeal of the undivided profits tax and broad modifications of the other two taxes, a poll indicated. The committee will meet shortly to consider the measure, which was considered by the house ways and means committee almost continuously from Nov. 4 last until this week, when the 319 page bill finally was whipped into shape.

The Democratic majority report on the bill, filed today, was somewhat apologetic in tone in regard to the three disputed sections. It admitted that a substantial number of cases of hardship had arisen under the profits tax in the revenue act of 1936 and that the additional revenue expected from the new system was considerably less than had been estimated.

"Your committee believes that the principle of the undistributed profits tax is sound and should be retained," the report contended. "However, it is believed that it should be substantially modified."

Complaints are Acknowledged.

In regard to the taxing of capital gains and losses of individuals, the report admitted that considerable complaint had been made.

"It is claimed that the present tax is so high, especially in the case of taxpayers subject to high surtax

AAA Assails Coal Board's Price Fixing

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The national bituminous coal commission's price fixing program was assailed today by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Despite the increasing administration opposition to its activities, the board was preparing to announce new minimum soft coal prices.

The Agricultural Adjustment administration is fixing prices for the principal farm products under the latest farm subsidy program. Agriculture officials said the recent court decisions upsetting the coal commission's prices have put all price fixing in bad order and may serve to encourage litigation against the latest farm plan. Any rushing of new coal price fixing, they believe, will only invite attack on agricultural price fixing.

Had One Sad Experience.

The department has had one sad experience with court attacks. The first AAA was killed by the Supreme court. Officials are anxious to avoid any attack on the new plan. For this reason they argue that it would be for the best interests of the administration to drop coal price fixing because the welfare of agriculture is more closely related to the welfare of the nation than the welfare of the coal industry.

Talk of sacrificing the coal industry to the administration's welfare threw the coal commission into a state of jitters today. It met secretly. After the meeting it was announced that the commission had not taken up the question of establishing new prices to replace those which were revoked a week ago after courts tore the commission's price structure asunder.

Commission spokesmen said that the commission had taken up one or two matters which could not be revealed at this time. Nothing was done on the fixing of new coal prices because the commission is awaiting reports on legal methods of procedure.

Seeks Full Agreement.

These reports are being prepared by the commission's own attorneys and those for operators, consumers, and miners, all of whom are interested in the proposed new price structure. The commission said it was seeking complete agreement on price procedure because it had no intention of inviting further attacks on its prices. The revoked prices were attacked on the ground that the commission failed to hold adequate public hearings before announcing its prices.

The commission is not certain whether it must hold all the hearings sought by various groups or whether it can delegate some of the hearings to the various district boards.

It is believed that at least four months will pass before the new minimum prices can be set. Some estimates range as high as eight months. Official sources regard the four month estimate as conservative.

The commission may have a policy announcement early next week. This will be based on the reports of the four groups of attorneys.

RULE ANNUITY POLICY PAYMENT NOT EXEMPT FROM INCOME TAXES

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The United States board of tax appeals ruled today that annuity policy payments were not exempt from federal income taxes. The board held that annuity policies were not insurance and could not receive the exemption granted on payments of insurance policies.

The ruling was the board's first on this issue. It involved estate taxes on $40,000 paid by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada to beneficiaries after the death of Everett Morrs of Boston on Dec. 27, 1933.

Sources close to the board explained the ruling did not apply however, to the endowment type of life insurance, because if the insured person died in the early years of the policy the company might pay his heirs many times the equivalent of principle and interest on the money he paid as premiums.

The sources said the ruling did not apply to living persons receiving annuity payments. They are required to include in their gross income returns the amount of annuity income in excess of premiums paid.

Federal income and estate taxes exempt "amounts received under a life insurance contract paid by reason of the death of the insured."

OIL COMPANIES AWAIT MEXICAN MOVE ON WAGES

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—(AP)—Foreign oil men in Mexico tonight awaited the government's move to enforce yesterday's Supreme court decision upholding an award of increased wages and benefits to oil workers.

There was some talk that the government, having had its position upheld by the court, might move for a compromise. One suggestion was that the companies might be authorized to boost domestic prices of oil to permit them to meet increased costs, which they estimated at $12,000,000 a year.

The 17 American and British companies said after a meeting last night that they would not be able to comply with the court's decision. Executives of several of the companies said tonight they had not been approached on the reported compromise.

Secretary Hull Awaits Reports.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The state department will give intensive study to the petroleum situation in Mexico, but whether a protest will be lodged will not be decided until more information has been received and analyzed. For this reason Secretary Cordell Hull refused to talk about the case today.

New Fire Insurance Rates Lowered in Cook County

New fire insurance policies on combined store and dwelling buildings and on various other classes of dwellings in Chicago and Cook county were being written at reduced rates yesterday on the basis of a new schedule effective March 1.

Bethlehem to End Employe Stock Buying

New York, March 2.—(AP)—The Bethlehem Steel corporation, second largest domestic steel producer, will try to terminate its employé stock purchasing plan because of the inability of officers and employés to fulfil commitments, Charles M. Schwab, chairman, said today.

In a special letter attached to the regular annual report to stockholders, Schwab said:

"When the plan was adopted [in 1.30] it was expected that the participants in it would be able to pay for the shares purchased by them in instalments out of their earnings, and to retain their shares as investments.

Income Taxes Handicap Plan.

"Because of the reduced earnings of the participants since the plan was put into effect and very substantial increases in the rates of personal income taxes, both state and federal, it is now apparent that many of the participants will not be able within any reasonable period of time to complete the payment for the shares purchased under the plan."

The company's obligation to make refunds for uncompleted commitments will "become more onerous," Schwab said, pointing out that the company now is obligated to the extent of $4,004,763 with accrued interest of $1,016,283.

In a blank proxy accompanying the report stockholders were asked to approve amendments to the plan to be voted on at the annual stockholders' meeting on April 12, which would terminate the plan by the end of next year.

Get Stock Or Refund.

Subscribers to the plan would be given the opportunity of receiving stock to the extent of their paid in commitments, and those not availing themselves of the opportunity would have payments returned to them, without interest, after Dec. 31, 1939.

Schwab said he assumed the purchasers under the plan would be willing to assent to these changes.

Increase in hourly wage scales resulted in payments to employés during 1937 of $25,704,554 more than the 1936 scale would have provided, Schwab said.

New pension rulings to protect employés against losses under the social security act in contrast to the Bethlehem pension plan, and a plan for one week's vacation with pay to employés of more than five year's unbroken service were also announced.

The company previously had issued its 1937 earnings statement.

BROKERS' LOANS DIP 18 MILLION DURING FEBRUARY

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Collateral borrowings of New York Stock Exchange members at the end of February aggregated $579,011,814, a drop of $18,406,226 under the $597,148,040 at the end of January, the New York Stock exchange announced today. Member collateral borrowings at the end of February last year totaled $1,074,832,139.

The value of shares listed on the exchange increased $1,930,184,698 during February to a total of $41,172,861,535. Average price of the shares advanced to $28.94 from $27.59 as of Feb. 1.

The face amount of United States government securities pledged as collateral behind the borrowings at the end of February was $22,141,655, against $20,006,755 at the end of January and $27,669,800 on Feb. 28, 1937.

FEDERAL DEBT SOARS TO NEW HIGH MARK; NOW $37,632,733,792

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The federal debt rose to a new record of $37,632,733,792 on Feb. 28, the daily treasury statement showed today.

The debt increased $1,208,120,060 in the first eight months of the fiscal year and is now $3,000,000,000 higher than it was a year ago.

On Feb. 28 the deficit was $1,053,198,485, compared with $2,046,015,287 on the same date a year ago. Including the $250,000,000 new relief appropriation just voted by congress, the deficit is expected to reach $1,544,345,300 by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Receipts in the first eight months of the year totaled $3,860,284,765, compared with $2,716,709,242 in the same period of the previous year.

Are You Holding Funds For Investment?

Many people are holding funds idle, for lack of contact with sources of necessary investment information. Bond investors . . . particularly those who purchase occasionally and in moderate amounts . . . know that news of offerings . . . access to service facilities . . . have been less widely available in recent years . . . due to distributors' low profit margins, fewer new issues, and quiet markets.

We have provided facilities to make it possible for any investor . . . regardless of location or amount of funds . . . to obtain comprehensive service . . . restricted only to bonds of investment character. Many investors have found this plan best meets their needs . . . with valued advantages in convenience.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 2.—Drifting moderately lower in listless trading today, the stock market gave its most dismal performance in some time. Opening irregularly lower, prices fluctuated within a narrow range. Closing prices were mostly fractionally lower than Tuesday's final quotation, although a number of pivotal shares dropped more than 1 point.

Turnover for the day was 406,315 shares, compared with 534,140 shares in the preceding session. The ticker was idle at several intervals.

It was the consensus that the list dropped more from its own weight than from any special pressure, although the budget of trade and industrial news was of bearish flavor.

Coppers, motors and steels gave the poorest performances. Anaconda and Kennecott found few takers and dropped 1 and ¾, respectively. Other losses in the copper group were mostly between those two figures, although American Smelting declined 1¾ points.

U. S. Steel common, off 1, and Bethlehem, off 1⅝, were softest in the steels, with others trailing closely. Losses in the motors were fractional, with Yellow Truck, General Motors, and Chrysler easing in comparatively active trading. Graham-Paige proved an exception, however, meeting support to close a minor fraction higher.

Rails made infrequent appearances on the tape, and then at slightly changed prices.

A sharp increase in oil in storage and the Mexican Supreme court ruling had a slightly adverse effect on the oil stocks, most of which slipped fractions.

New York Bonds.

New York, March 2.—(AP)—The bond market drifted lower in sluggish trading today, and at the close leaders were down fractions to around 2 points.

In the rail section Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, New York Central 5s, Santa Fe 4s of 1995, Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977, and Southern Pacific 4½s of '68 closed ½ to 1 lower.

Studebaker 6s fell 2. Down part of a point were American Telephone 3¼s, International Telephone 5s, Armour 4s of 1955, Remington Rand 4¼s, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s.

United States governments were uneven, ending 5-32d of a point higher to 6-32d lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks closed irregular after a dull session on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Only 68 issues were traded, of which 24 advanced, 24 declined, 19 closed unchanged, and one was a new issue. A total of 23,000 shares changed hands, about the same as in the preceding session.

Most price changes were small.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday. First National gained $4 a share, and Continental Illinois National was 50 cents higher. City National eased $1, Mercantile Trust and Savings declined $3, and National Boulevard was quoted unchanged to $5 lower by various dealers.

BANK HOLDING COMPANY BILL BEFORE SENATE

Prevents Creation of Any New Organizations.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—An administration backed bill for tight government controls on bank holding companies reached the senate today under sponsorship of Senators Glass [D., Va.] and McAdoo [D., Cal.].

Senator Carter Glass.

The bill would prevent the creation of any additional bank holding companies, would prohibit existing companies from acquiring control of additional banks, and would impose numerous restrictions on their operations. Glass submitted it to President Roosevelt yesterday.

Goes to Subcommittee.

Banking committee members said the proposal would be referred to a subcommittee headed by Glass and that hearings probably would start soon. Asked whether he hoped for action at this session, Glass responded: "Of course I do—what do you think I introduced the bill for?" Although Roosevelt once suggested the abolition of holding companies, Glass said he never had any plan except to regulate them.

The bill was expected to encounter opposition from some conservative senators. Senator King [D., Utah] voiced immediate protest.

What Bill Provides.

Glass said the bill would bring under regulation fifty holding companies which control 500 banks with assets of $8,000,000,000. Such banks would be forbidden to make loans in the future to affiliated institutions, to purchase securities from affiliates, or to make loans secured by stock of affiliates. They would be required to collect existing loans of such a character within three years.

All bank holding companies and their subsidiaries would be subject to regular investigation. Further, banks could not make dividend payments to companies which acquired bank stock in violation of the act, and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation could dismiss from insurance any bank violating the act. The program would be administered by the FDIC.

Senators to Fight Punitive Levies in New Tax Measure

rates, that assets become frozen and few transactions take place," the report stated. "The committee has endeavored to revise this tax so as to improve the system without loss of revenue."

This revision consisted chiefly of limiting the tax to 40 per cent of the capital gain taken into account in case the assets have been held over five years. The tax on capital gains before 1934 was 12½ per cent.

The third controversial section, that relating to a tax on closely held or family corporations, was denounced by two Democratic members of the committee, Representatives Arthur P. Lamneck [D., O.] and John J. McCormack [D., Mass.], in a separate report. The minority report, filed last night, also termed this measure vicious and charged that it was put in the bill at the request of President Roosevelt, who desired to punish certain corporations whose officers have criticized his policies.

New Principle Involved.

"This is entirely a new proposal in our tax system involving an entirely new principle of taxation," said the Lamneck-McCormack report. "Its effect would be to impose an additional tax upon operating corporations in which stock ownership is held by a few individuals or by members of a family. It is intended to cover such corporations in which more than 50 per cent in value of outstanding stock is owned directly and indirectly by or for one individual and runs up to corporations in which 75 per cent or more in value is owned directly or indirectly by or for 10 or less individuals."

Most of the closely held corporations which will be affected by this penalty tax were organized long before the first income tax law was enacted and have been controled and owned by the same family for two to three generations, the report stated. In most cases, also, the same dividend policy has been followed prior and subsequent to the enactment of income tax legislation, it was pointed out.

See Threat to Employment.

These facts were cited by Lamneck and McCormack as proof that such corporations have not been formed for the purpose of unreasonably withholding earnings to avoid the payment of surtaxes by shareholders.

"This tax violates all sound principles of taxation," their report declared. "It will prevent reëmployment and will increase unemployment because the type of corporations affected are the character of corporations that possess a stable employment policy. We have been attempting to encourage owner-operation. This will produce the opposite effect. It strengthens and encourages the growth of monopoly in this country.

"This proposal will definitly retard the efforts of small and medium size operating corporations to gain in stature."

A summary of the corporate taxes proposed in the bill follows:

First, it is proposed to tax the group of corporations with net incomes of $25,000 or less at rates graduated from 12½ per cent to 16 per cent with no undistributed profits tax added.

Second, it is proposed to tax the group of corporations with net incomes in excess of $25,000 at a flat rate of 20 per cent. A credit of 4 per cent, or 4 cents of each dollar, of dividends paid out is allowed against this 20 per cent tax until a minimum tax of 16 per cent is provided when there is complete distribution of profits.

As an example of the first group was offered the case of a corporation with a net income of $24,000. The graduated rates provide that 12½ per cent of the first $5,000, 14 per cent of the $15,000, and 16 per cent of the remaining $4,000 would be assessed. The total tax would thus be $3,385, an effective rate of about 14 per cent.

Another Example Offered.

As an example of the second group, the case was offered of a corporation with a net income of $110,000 for the calendar year 1938, $10,000 of which represents liberty-bond interest, and $10,000 of which represents dividends from domestic corporations. The corporation pays to its shareholders, during the taxable year $30,000 in dividends. Its tax under this state of facts would be as follows:

Net income—$110,000.

Less credit for liberty bonds interest—$10,000.

Adjusted net income—$100,000.

Tentative tax, 20 per cent of $100,000—$20,000.

Less credits received on account of dividends received and dividends paid —$2,160.

Total tax [$20,000 minus $2,160]—$17,840.

The report regretted that most of the excise taxes, or so-called nuisance taxes, which were supposed to be temporary in nature when imposed in 1932, should have to be continued.

Propose Eliminating Some.

"Some of these taxes are undesirable and should be removed when possible," the report stated. "Unfortunately, the revenue requirements of the government are such that very little revenue can be spared at this time."

However, the committee recommended the elimination of these taxes on dentifrices, toilet soaps, furs, phonograph records, athletic equipment, cameras, chewing gum, and matches. The revenue received by the government last year from taxes on these articles was about $30,000,000 and the collection of them has been complicated and troublesome, the report stated.

SIX SENTENCED IN FRAUD CASE; DELAY PHILBIN'S

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Federal Judge John C. Knox today imposed sentences on six men associated with Philip H. Philbin Jr., Wall street operator, in the perpetration of stock fraud in Atlas Tack corporation deals, and deferred the sentencing of Philbin until Monday.

Philbin, who made a fortune out of Atlas stock manipulations, yesterday pleaded guilty to a sixteen count indictment charging conspiracy, use of telephones to defraud in interstate commerce, and use of mails to defraud.

The sentences were: William L. Jarvis of Boston, five years in jail and $10,000 fine; Samuel L. Gaines of New York, four years in jail and $7,500 fine; Edward F. Barry of Boston, formerly in charge of the Boston offices of McNeel's Financial Service, two years in jail [suspended] and $5,000 fine.

Sentences of Harold B. Hale, William K. Kennedy, and Henry Barry, bookkeepers, were suspended and they were placed on probation.

Fines of $1,000 were imposed on McNeel's Financial Service, Inc., and on Philip H. Philbin Jr., Inc.

The imposition of Philbin's sentence was postponed after he told the court he had been ignorant of stock market procedure when he became associated with Gaines and Jarvis.

POWER OUTPUT FALLS TO NEW 1938 LOW MARK

Electric power output in the week ended Feb. 26 dropped to a new low mark for 1938, only 2,031,412,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. This was a decline of 1.4 per cent from the preceding week's production of 2,059,165,000 kilowatt hours and a drop of 8 per cent from the 2,207,285,000 kilowatt hours generated in the corresponding week of 1937.

The electricity output of the Commonwealth Edison company group, serving the major part of the Chicago district, totaled 126,491,000 kilowatt hours, a decline of 1.6 per cent from the preceding week's output and 8 per cent from the corresponding week of 1937.

Production of electricity for public use in the United States totaled 117,240,000,000 kilowatt hours in the twelve months ended Jan. 31, the federal power commission reported.

SEC TO CONTROL FEES IN UTILITY REORGANIZATION

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The securities commission decided today to supervise fees paid in connection with reorganization proceedings for registered utility holding companies or subsidiaries. Adopting a rule effective March 15, the commission decreed that it must approve maximum fees in reorganization cases.

Excepted from the rule are payments to a special master, payments authorized by a court, and payments of $5,000 or less to one person or a group of persons.

Larger amounts may be fixed by the commission in relation to any particular proceeding. Difficulties involved in reorganization and "benefit resulting from such services" are to be considered, the commission ruled.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

The New Farm Law.

[This is the eighth of the series of articles on the farm law appearing in this column.]

March 2, 1938.

GOVERNMENT loans on wheat, provided in the new farm law, will be made when the price of wheat on June 15 is below 52 per cent of parity, or the July estimate for wheat is in excess of the normal supply needed for domestic use and exports.

Loan rates on wheat are not less than 52 per cent and not more than 75 per cent of parity price—the same minimum and maximum rates as provided for corn.

If any wheat loans are made this year they likely will be limited to coöperating farmers who follow cropping and other farming practices required by the agricultural adjustment program of the government. Wheat growers who do not follow the AAA farming program are classed as noncoöperators and will not receive loans on wheat except when there is a marketing quota in effect for the crop.

Noncoöperators' loans will be limited to the wheat that would be subject to penalty if sold in violation of marketing quota restrictions. The loan rate to the noncoöperator on this limited quantity of wheat will be only 60 per cent of the rate to coöperators.

The recent parity price for wheat has been in the neighborhood of $1.15 a bushel. The farm price for wheat has been about 85 cents a bushel, or 30 cents a bushel below parity. The purpose of the loan is said to be to aid farmers in raising the farm price of wheat, as nearly as practicable, to parity price level.

No Definite Schedule

In the case of wheat no definite loan schedule has been detailed in the law, as was done for corn. It is assumed that the actual loans to be made between the minimum and maximum rates would vary with the size of the crop—the larger the crop, the smaller the loan.

Loans on wheat are not expected to be made to noncoöperators this year because they are not eligible for loans until there is a marketing quota. The law says that no marketing quota on wheat will be in effect for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1938, unless previous to that date parity payments are made. Parity payments are not likely to be made this year.

Preliminary steps were taken for making parity payments to coöperators on wheat, as well as on corn, cotton, rice and tobacco, but no funds were appropriated by congress for this purpose. Without parity payments this year there can be no marketing quota for wheat, and, therefore, no loans for noncoöperating wheat growers.

Later, if congress appropriates parity funds, payments will be made by the government directly to cooperating farmers on their normal production of the five crops named in the law—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, and tobacco. When the payments are made the government's parity check combined with money a farmer receives for his crop is expected to equal the parity price for the commodity, providing adequate federal funds are available. If parity funds are insufficient, the money would be prorated proportionately among the farmers.

Grain Is Collateral

When money is lent on wheat, the grain would be put up as collateral to secure the loan. Congress failed to indicate definitly in the law where and how this wheat would be stored. The practice is to sell wheat at the time it is threshed or shortly afterward. Few growers in the main wheat belts have adequate farm storage space. Only a comparatively small amount of wheat could be stored safely and sealed on the farm where it is produced.

It would be necessary to use country or terminal elevators and the farmers would be required to pay the storage bill. Elevator storage charges usually are at the rate of 1 to 1½ cents a bushel per month, or 12 to 18 cents a bushel per year. In addition the farmer would be required to pay insurance on the stored wheat and interest on the loan.

U. S. RUBBER HAS SMALLER PROFIT; REVISE CAPITAL

Other Companies Report Varying Results.

The United States Rubber company, for the year 1937, yesterday reported net income of $8,607,902 after charges, taxes, and inventory adjustments, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $2.27 a common share, against $10,172,484, or $3.31 a common share, in 1936.

R. H. Morse reports shrinking sales. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

In a letter to stockholders accompanying the report, the company announced a special stockholders' meeting would be held March 31 to vote on proposal to change the common stock, now without par value, to a par value of $10 a share, effecting a reduction in capital. Holders also will be asked to vote on a plan to refund present outstanding first and refunding 5 per cent bonds with new mortgage bonds bearing a lower interest coupon.

Fairbanks-Morse Earns Less.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co., manufacturers of Diesel and other types of engines, yesterday reported profits for 1937 were slightly smaller than in the preceding year. Larger profits for 1937 were reported by the Holland Furnace company and the Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation.

The consolidated net profit of Fairbanks Morse was $2,148,432 for 1937, against $2,252,941 in the preceding year. The 1937 profit was equal, on the present capitalization, to $3.45 a share on the common stock outstanding at the year end. The 1936 earnings equaled $3.81 a common share on the capitalization in that year.

R. H. Morse, president, said sales in the first half of the year were ahead of 1936, but fell drastically later in the year. Net sales for the full year were $30,596,350, compared with $26,827,981 in 1936.

Holland Furnace Report.

Holland Furnace's net profit was the largest since 1930, amounting to $1,421,600, equal to $2.90 a share. The 1936 profit was $1,383,096 or $2.89 a share.

Net sales were $12,290,763, compared with $12,184,775 in 1936. The company had current assets of $11,602,692 at the end of 1937 and current liabilities of $1,508,923.

The Houdaille Hershey corporation, auto parts makers, reportad 1937 net profit of $2,117,442, or $2.14 a share on the class B stock. This compared with $2,202,040, or $2.25 a share, in 1936.

Bohn Aluminum's 1937 net profit was $1,773,460, equal to $5.03 a share, compared with $1,579,901, or $4.48 a share, in 1936.

Walter P. Paepcke, president of Container Corporation of America, announced that 1937 net earnings reached the record figure of $1,784,104, equal to $2.28 a share. Net earnings in 1936 were $1,286,942, or $1.97 a share. Satisfactory business conditions in the first three-quarters of the year enabled the company to increase earnings, Paepcke said.

BOARD OF TRADE HEARS EVIDENCE IN CARGILL CASE

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday resumed consideration of evidence presented by two special committees of the exchange in substantiation of charges that the Cargill Grain company of Illinois and three of its officials had violated the rules of the board and the commodity exchange act in operations in September, 1937, corn contracts.

Yesterday's session was understood to have been confined to the presentation of evidence by both committees. Because of the large amount of statistical and other matter to be considered, directors of the exchange announced they would hold three hour sessions daily, except Saturday, until the case has been decided.

Most Foreign Moneys Make Gain on Dollar

The American dollar declined in value yesterday in relation to most foreign currencies. The French franc was an exception, closing 0.005 cent lower at 3.26 cents. The British pound rose ¼ cent to $5.01¼. The Swiss franc gained 0.05 cent. Dutch guilders were unchanged.

PHILIP MORRIS DIRECTORS VOTE DIVIDEND OF $4.50

Several Other Firms Omit or Defer.

Directors of Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., yesterday declared a fiscal year-end dividend of $4.50 a share as directors of several other companies voted smaller disbursements or deferred action. The company has been paying regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents. A year ago a year-end dividend of $3 was paid.

The action of the board at this time "is motivated by reason of the undistributed profits tax and after giving due consideration to the financial requirements of the company," the company said. Directors plan to omit the 75 cent dividend ordinarily paid April 15.

Ink Company to Pay 10 Cents.

General Printing Ink corporation authorized payment of 10 cents a share on the common stock. The previous payment was of 30 cents on Dec. 27.

A dividend of 15 cents was declared by General Time Instruments corporation on the common stock. A payment of 25 cents was made Dec. 23.

Directors of the Detroit Paper Products company deferred action on the common dividend, but declared the regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents on the preferred stock. Rossia Insurance Company of America took no action on common dividends.

NEW ECONOMIC UNIT IS FORMED BY TRADE GROUP

Oscar G. Mayer, new president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, yesterday announced the organization of a special committee on economic policies. Its members, leading Chicago economists, will center expert opinion on knotty problems of the times.

Headed by Guy E. Reed, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the committee will make periodic reports on questions of trade, finance, labor, industrial relations, and allied matters, particularly as they affect the middle west.

The economic council includes: Prof. H. D. Gideonse, University of Chicago; J. H. Barker, chairman of the board of the Encyclopedia Brittanica and an executive of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; James Washington Bell, educator and economist; George E. Putnam, tarif commission expert and consulting economist of Swift & Co.; Walter Lichenstein, First National bank; E. N. Wentworth of Armour & Co.; E. C. Wampler, Lawrence Stern & Co., William R. Odell Jr., International Harvester company; W. W. Woods, Institute of American Meat Packers, and Harlan H. Allen, investment consultant.

Valspar Reorganization Plan Becomes Effective

Everyday Economics

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Commodity, Value, Price.

The term commodity is used to include both economic goods and economic services. Commodity thus includes almost every conceivable thing which people want, except those free goods such as air and sunshine, and intangibles, such as freedom and happiness. These latter things, although useful, are not scarce, generally speaking, and have no value in the economic sense. You can't, as a rule, trade a day of sunshine or happiness for money or potatoes.

Here again we run into a word which needs defining. Just what is "value," and does it differ from price?

Value is defined economically as the power of a commodity to command other commodities in exchange. The value of a particular commodity may be expressed in terms of any other commodity for which it may be exchanged. When value is expressed in terms of money, however, it is called price. Money, then, is defined by the economist as any medium generally acceptable in a community in exchange for commodities.

Tomorrow: Cost, production.

STEEL DEMAND IS IMPROVING, SAYS IRON AGE

Demand for steel has improved, the magazine Iron Age said yesterday. The new buying has not affected operating schedules noticeably, but sales offices in many steel consuming areas reported actual buying for February showed gains ranging as high as 30 per cent above January.

Four of the nine principal steel producing districts increased their operating rates this week, but two districts reported declines and three were unchanged, leaving the national rate unchanged at 30 per cent of capacity, Iron Age estimated.

The Chicago district increased production 2½ points to 28 per cent.

AVERY ASSERTS PRESIDENT ERRS IN PRICE VIEWS

U. S. Gypsum Head Cites Fallacy on Plaster.

war that started in 1928 and continued for two years.

Prices went so low during the price war, Avery said, that the solvency of several companies in the industry was threatened. Consequently, he said, it was most unfair to use 1929 prices as a basis of comparison with the 1938 prices.

Avery said he did not believe the President intended to misrepresent the facts, but was given "hastily and improperly" prepared information by his advisers.

"The price war started in the south," Avery explained, "spread to 19 states, and eventually covered the entire country. Plaster at that time was being sold at $2 a ton in bags loaded in freight cars. That was far below cost of production. It ended when one company had the courage to raise its prices.

"In the days of the Blue Eagle prices jumped sharply. And that was due to uneconomic price fixing. Since the Blue Eagle has vanished we have reduced prices."

Prices Below 1926 Level.

Avery said his own company has reduced prices 9 per cent from the 1926 level. President Roosevelt has stated that the 1926 level was a desirable goal for commodity prices. Avery explained that the reduction from the 1926 level has been made despite a rise of 3 per cent in average production cost, an increase of a little under 1 per cent in the cost of selling a unit, a 9½ per cent rise in the cost of raw materials, and an increase of 18 per cent in hourly wages.

He said continued price reductions in the last eighteen years have been the result of a deliberate move on the part of the company to broaden its markets. He said the company desires to make it easier for every one to buy. Prices now are below the level that prevailed during NRA days.

Pointing to the rising taxes, Avery said they were equal to $1.48 per share on the common stock in 1937, against $1.32 a share in 1936. The 1938 profit was $4.08 a share, and stockholders were paid $2.50 a share in dividends. Detailed earnings figures were given in the company's annual report, published recently.

Raps Federal Building Plan.

Avery indicated that he did not think very highly of the administration's plan to boom home construction through governmental insurance of 90 per cent of loans for home building purposes.

"The law providing this is a bad thing as it stands," he said. "
